Community Services Commission Announces Elections

The Community Services Commission of the City of Lubbock announces that elections for three places on the Commission will be held March 31-April 1. The Community Services Commission establishes the goals, objectives and policies of the Community Services Department in serving the needs of low-income persons in Lubbock. The Commission is made up of 15 members, five representing public officials, five representing private organizations, and five elected from low income areas of the city.

The three places for elected representatives represent the following three areas in Lubbock: (1) East of Avenue Q, between Fourth/Parkway and Nineteenth streets; (2) East of Avenue Q, between Nineteenth and Thirty-Fourth Streets; (3) East of Avenue Q/Tahoka Highway between Thirty-Fourth Street and City Limits.

One representative will be elected from each of these districts, to serve for two years on the Commission, beginning April 1. The Commission meets monthly, usually on the fourth Wednesday of each month, at a noon luncheon. Elected representatives may be reimbursed for any wages lost in attending meetings of the Commission; otherwise the positions are voluntary, non-paid.

Citizens living in the above three areas are invited to become candidates for a position on the Commission. To be eligible, one must be over 18, and a resident of the area which he or she wishes to represent. To become a candidate, pick up an application at one of the Community Services offices (820 Texas, 1602 Vanda, or 2407 1st), or call 762-6411, extension 2300.

Community Services Department is a federally funded community action agency (CAA), with the broad goal of assisting low-income persons and families in Lubbock county. Among its activities are a Weatherization program, which seeks to conserve energy by reducing heat loss in homes through insulation, caulking, etc., and a Crisis Intervention program by which utilities (gas, electricity) are paid for those in danger of a cut-off.

Garden Therapy Wins Top Awards

At District I Garden Club convention in Midland, six local Garden Clubs won awards.

Petal Pushers garnered six, first place for Garden Therapy project at Ballenger School, Civic Concern, and President's report; Horticulture citation, 100% President's Book Donations and Directors citation for State Flower Shower participation.

Other local garden clubs winning district awards were: Belle Glade, Bud to Blossom, Lubbock Garden Club, Spade and Hoe, and Techsan G.C.

Baptist Church Holds Dedication

A dedicatory service was held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday for Pilgrim Baptist Church, located at 6111 19th St. The church facility, located on 19th Street west of Loop 289, was formerly the West 19th Street Baptist Church, which recently disbanded.

Participating in the dedicatory service was Rev. Hank Scott, pastor of Bacon Heights Baptist Church; Mike Bedford, minister of music at Bacon Heights Baptist Church; and Gil Stripling, minister of education at Bacon Heights Baptist Church. Attending the service as a special guest was Orville Scott, consultant of public relations for the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Dr. A.L. Dunn, pastor of New Hope Baptist Church in Lubbock, gave the dedicatory sermon. He is vice president of the Baptist Missionary and Educational Convention of Texas and moderator of the West Texas District Baptist Association.

The city's first black-oriented Southern Baptist Church on the west side of Lubbock is pastored by Rev. Leon Anderson, the former pastor of New Galilee Baptist Church in Carlisle. He pastored the Carlisle church for 10 years.

The new church is associated with the Lubbock Baptist Association and the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The church facility on West 19th street has a sanctuary capable of seating approximately 250 people in worship services and adequate education space for people of every age group, according to Rev. Anderson.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m., followed by an 11 a.m. worship service, a Bible training hour at 6 p.m. and evening worship at 7 p.m. Midweek services are held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

Discussing the organization of a new Southern Baptist Church in West Lubbock, Rev. Anderson said a number of black families has moved into the housing subdivisions recently in West Lubbock and a need for a black-oriented church was recognized. He added that the facility on West 19th Street was centrally located among the housing subdivisions on a main thoroughfare and easily accessible from all areas of the city's west side.

Minority Outreach Effort Launched by HUD

The Department of Housing and Urban Development today announced the award of a $400,000 grant to the National Urban League aimed at expanding the participation of minorities in housing research.

"This outreach effort is important," said Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris, "if we are to assure more realistic input and greater participation by minorities in the key processes by which the Department's programs are developed and evaluated, and thus better tailor our programs to meet the needs of minorities."

Assistant Secretary Donna Shalala, whose Office of Policy Development and Research made the award, said that under the two-year project the League will undertake a comprehensive program directed toward:

- Increasing the capability of minority persons in housing research.
- Developing a listing of minority persons trained in housing research.
- Increasing the effectiveness of her office in disseminating information about housing research opportunities at HUD to minority researchers, organizations and institutions throughout the Nation.

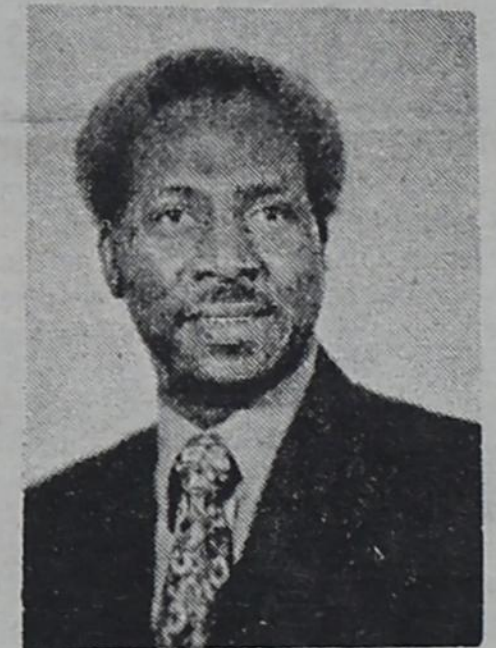

Many housing programs and services, Shalala noted, have "failed to significantly improve the quality of life for minorities because they are often based on inadequate, misleading or inaccurate beliefs about the actual needs, aspirations, and life-styles of minorities.

"The lack of minority involvement in problem definition, research and evaluation severely undermines the effectiveness of many well-intentioned housing policies directed toward these groups."

Under terms of the agreement, the League will organize a panel consisting of representatives from colleges, universities and the private sector to provide assistance in meeting the objectives of the grant.

The agency plans to use its network of more than 100 affiliates to identify minority persons already trained in housing and community development research in colleges and universities, local government, business and social action organizations. Selected individuals will be assigned to conduct research on vital housing issues and will serve, where possible, as interns or consultants in the preparation of papers and reports on housing research. They will also provide training to persons at minority colleges and universities and to staff members in community-based minority organizations through summer internships, conferences and fellowships.

Rev. Leon Anderson
Pastor

Rev. Anderson, a native Texan, was licensed to the ministry in 1960 at the Pilgrim Baptist Church in Washington, D.C., and ordained to the ministry by the First Baptist Church in South Plains.

His first pastorate was the mission of the First Baptist Church in South Plains. He later pastored the New Fellowship Baptist Church in Silvertown, prior to accepting the pastorage at the Carlisle church.

Wheatley Observes Black Awareness Month

The Wheatley faculty and student body enjoyed numerous activities in recognition of Black Awareness Month.

Birda Andrews' fifth graders shared "Moments in Black History" over the P.A.

Tom Esikhati and Virgil Wade presented slides on Kenya.

Willie Richardson, a former Wheatley teacher, told when and how Wheatley School was started.

A "soul food" tasting party was featured for the teachers. The food was prepared by Margaret Randle, Virginia Edgar, Frances Broome, and Birda Andrews.

Vietnam Era Veterans to Lose Benefits During Next Year

Approximately 49,000 Vietnam Era veterans in Texas will lose their entitlement to GI Bill benefits during the next year.

Waco VA regional office director Jack Coker said the figure represents the total number of veterans who will have reached the tenth anniversary of their separation from military duty. The law provides veterans with a ten-year limit to use educational and training benefits.

Coker said that while some 59 percent of Texas veterans have used some or all of their GI Bill rights, there are thousands who can still make at least partial use of their remaining time.

VA estimates that on a nationwide basis more than half the number of veterans who have GI Bill eligibility today will lose it by 1984. "What we're emphasizing here," Coker said, "is the time factor. To make maximum use of GI Bill rights a veteran must be aware of the ten-year limit and get started well before time runs out."

A typical Vietnam Era veteran, for example, might have left the service in 1973 having earned

Those Reports Check Out—Taxes Paid the Checks
Copyright, 1979, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—We have received thousands of letters from Americans who are tired of seeing their tax money wasted. They have sent us reports of government misspending which we have checked out. Here are a few:

Too many American officials overseas live in luxurious Pukka-Sahib style. Mali, for example, is an impoverished landlocked nation in the Sahara Desert. All 15 houses leased to American foreign aid personnel are equipped with swimming pools. Yet a public pool is available nearby.

In Pakistan, the former mission director, Richard Cashin, put an official car and chauffeur at his family's beck and call. Family members were driven to the food markets, beauty shops, rug dealers and other stores in sumptuous style. But auditors stopped the mission from spending $69,000 for 100 clothes dryers. The air in Pakistan, they argued, is bone-dry, and clothes dry very quickly.

There has been even more frivolous spending here at home. The government, for example, spent more than $91 million in one year alone on population research, some of which had little to do with population problems.

More than $200,000 was spent, for instance, to study the travel habits of the blacktail jackrabbit in Utah. Another $40,000 was granted to study mosquito egg development. And $200,000 went to research the mysteries of toad fertilization.

Word of these curious research grants got back to government auditors, who tightened up the requirements for population studies. But sources told our reporter Moira Forbes that $300,000 is still being spent to study the protein synthesis in young snails and sea urchins.

Footnote: Readers can help us keep a watch on waste. Send examples of government extravagances to Jack Anderson's Watch on Waste, P.O. Box 2300, Washington, D.C., 10013.

Palestinian Plots: President Carter's wanderings in the Middle East kept security experts holding their breath.

It is no secret that the Palestinian extremists believe in the politics of assassination. Over the past decade, intelligence reports have told of Palestinian plots against most of the moderate leaders of the Middle East.

The most dramatic was uncovered in July 1977, by Israeli intelligence agents. This was a plot to murder Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The Israelis sent the complete file to Sadat. It contained the names and addresses of the gunmen and their arms drops in downtown Cairo. The Egyptian police quickly rounded them up, complete with weapons and secret plans.

The evidence linked the plotters to the Libyan strongman, Col. Muammar Qaddafi. Five days later, the angry Sadat ordered a border attack upon Libya. His troops and planes engaged the Libyans in several fierce border clashes.

Meanwhile, the names of more than one prominent American have also turned up on the Palestinian death list. Not long after the plot to assassinate Sadat, the Palestinians also conspired to knock off the American ambassador to Cairo.

He is a competent but controversial diplomat named Hermann Eilts. He stirred up a secret controversy in the State Department after the death of Spanish dictator Francisco Franco. Eilts cabled for permission to lower the American flag over the U.S. embassy in Cairo. He thought the United States should honor Franco because Spain had represented U.S. interests in Cairo during the American-Egyptian diplomatic break following the Arab-Israeli war of 1967.

The story of the plot to kill Eilts has been reported only in secret intelligence dispatches. A spokesman for the CIA refused to discuss the incident. The protection of American ambassadors has become too sensitive to talk about.

However, we can report this much: The Palestinians were also behind the plot against Eilts. The intelligence documents again linked the conspirators to Libya. We took up both cases with Libyan officials, who deny any knowledge of the plots.

Postal Problems: The Postal Service is being abandoned by government agencies and private citizens because mail delivery is so slow and erratic. Now, even the stamp collectors are abandoning the mails. The Postal Commemorative Society sends its members a hard-cover album for mounting stamps—via the United Parcel Service.

Expensive Toy: It costs the Navy millions of dollars in repairs to keep the fleet afloat. That goes for the toy fleet, also. Several years ago, the state of Massachusetts gave the Navy a scale model of the aircraft carrier Wasp. The model is toted around by Navy recruiters. But now the toy ship needs an overhaul, which will cost the taxpayers $4,000.

Long Lunches: Productivity at the Department of Energy printing office has been suffering and we think we've found the culprit. It is a liquor store which rents space above the office. Some employees trek up the stairs for a liquid lunch and fail to return. The director of the printing office admitted the liquor store had presented some problems.

And it will probably be a long wait before the teachers know what good or bad awaits them because only this week did deliberations on the voter-mandated tax relief amendment begin on the House floor.

Until that issue can be resolved, a school finance bill waits in the wings.

Tax Relief Amendment

Not surprisingly, debate over an omnibus tax measure was slow, tedious and sometimes boring as Rep. Bob Davis of Irving, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, tried to explain the committee's bill that would reimburse local school district $421.7 million over the next two years to replace revenues lost because of new property tax exemptions.

Estimates vary, but a realistic amount of how much your school taxes might go down is just over $40 a year. Maybe. First, a school district must decide to slash taxes by the same amount of state money being reimbursed.

More debate is undoubtedly ahead on the tax relief amendment bill. And then more arguments in the Senate. House members have introduced 100 amendments to the Ways and Means' bill. No telling what changes will be proposed in the Senate.

And if it dawns on you that the 66th session is headed for a special session (or sessions), don't feel alone. Rumors to that effect are already circulating through the Capitol and for good reasons.

More than sixty days of the 140-day session have passed. And even though a constitutional provision spells out that the first 60 days of a regular session should be spent introducing bills and hearing testimony before committees. Capitol observers say legislators are waiting anxiously for the first confrontation between Clements and the predominantly Democratic Legislature. After the first real donnybrook, Capitol experts say things will get back to normal. But it may be too late in the game which means you can bet on a special session (or sessions).

Presidential Primary

Some legislators are saying that Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby made a tactical error by pumping lobbyists this week to support a bill that would separate a proposed presidential primary from regular state primary elections.

Hobby gathered 100 lobbyists in the plush surroundings of an Austin drinking establishment and tried to persuade them to think like he was thinking when it comes to a presidential primary bill.

Some legislators felt Hobby should have been more "discreet" about such a meeting. Speaker of the House Bill Clayton disagreed. "I always figure," said Clayton, "that if you want a job done, you solicit troops from anywhere you can get them."

Hobby said he was only using "every device I know of in the Legislature to accomplish this goal."

So far, Clements has remained uncommitted concerning the question of a presidential primary bill. But the governor has stood firm in his belief that Texas voters should be given the right of initiative and referendum—the right to initiate law or strike down those already passed by the Legislature.

Hobby also tried his best to convince lobbyists they should labor night and day against any such laws that give voters initiative and referendum powers. Hobby feels initiative and referendum powers might open up the lawmaking process to crackpots and special interest groups.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—If you aren't convinced that teachers are piping hot over what they are paid in Texas to perform the delicate and crucial task of training young minds, then you should have been in the Senate chamber at mid-week.

Unfortunately, you might not have been able to find a seat as more than 3,000 teachers stuffed themselves into the Senate gallery for the beginning of school finance hearings.

Teachers came from every nook and cranny of the state. Some sat several hours in the cramped gallery and then drove most of the night to make it back to their classrooms by the next morning.

If nothing else, the teachers proved they are angry, determined and "tired of begging for better wages," said one teacher from West Texas. "We're furious," declared another teacher from Dallas. "Even Republicans are upset."

Gov. Bill Clements, the first Republican governor in more than a 100 years, proposed no new raises for public school teachers. Most teachers described the Legislative Budget Board's 5.1 percent hike in salaries as "minimal."

"I think Clements is just getting even," a teacher from South Texas said. "This is what we get for working hard for John Hill." For those who missed the last elections, former Texas Attorney General John Hill was Clements' opponent in his bid for the governor's office.

Teachers, smarting from Hill's loss, hope to have better luck backing Sen. Pete Snelson's school finance bill that would raise their salaries 15 percent over the next two years. Two other school finance bills before the Senate are not as generous to the teachers. "There are some of us though," said one teacher, "who cannot go on in this profession because year after year we are falling farther and farther behind because of inflation."

But teachers realize that voters have been racked by the same debilitating effects of inflation and are in no mood to increase the salaries of state employees.

Few teachers who crammed into the Senate chamber this week came with any childish notions that their struggle for fair and decent wages would be an easy one.

Although it was written for use in school curriculum, Photograph Analysis by Arlene H. Eakle will be of interest to genealogists with old family pictures. Softbound, 64 pps., illustrated, footnotes, bibliography, not indexed, $5.50 (plus $1.50 postage and handling fee). Order from Family History World, 10 S. Main St., Salt Lake City, Utah 84101. Ms. Eakle points out that photograph analysis does more than identify the photographer, subject, and date; it also includes an in-depth evaluation and meaningful interpretation of the contents which relate each individual element to the total picture. A sample chart helps the observer inventory the picture's contents and corroborate this information with other documents, histories, and oral interviews. Much may be learned about family relationships, social standing, occupation, and even health. This same process can be made on sketches, paintings and artifacts. Other contents in the book are discussions on finding the name and location of the photographer, description and dates for different photographic processes, aerial photographs, and how to make an effective photo-essay.

Good news! The 1900 census and soundex for Texas is now available for viewing on microfilm in the genealogy section of the Mahon Public Library, 1306 19th Street.

Ms. Virginia S. McCarroll, 616 West 148th St., New York, N.Y. 10031 seeks information on her MCCARROLL (also spelled MC-CARRELL, MCKARROLL, MC-KERRELL, etc.) ancestors. Her great great grandparents were PRIMAS (PRIMUS) and MARY ANN, both born in Virginia. All of their children, however, were born in Alabama. Ms. McCarroll's great grandfather was born c. 1837 and died in 1933.

There was a planter and slaveowner, William J. MC-CARROLL, who moved from North Carolina to Perry County, Ala., where he lived in the city of Marion with Mx. McCarroll's relations in 1832. In 1835, he died and left his estate to his wife and three young sons. His wife remarried and the sons came of age about 1846. During this time some of Ms. McCarroll's family were sold. Where were they from 1846 to 1865? Some of the same people were residing in Marion during the 1870, 1880, and 1900 census. Ms. McCarroll would appreciate any information on her family, especially data found in the Freedmen's Bureau Records for Alabama.

Miss Della Smith, 1171 East 47th Place, Los Angeles, Calif. 90011 is searching for information on her grandmother's kinfolks, Martha and Sidney WRIGHT (both born in Lewisville, Ark.), Pompey FLOWERS (born in Texarkana, Ark.), and McKinley WRIGHT (born in Texarkana, Ark.). She is also researching the following families: WEST-BROOK, SMITH, and REEVE, all of Dallas and Cleveland Counties, Ark.

According to the Haskell (Texas Free Press, dated March 28, 1891, the first black marriage occurring in that county took place on March 24, 1891. The contracting parties were Tom BRANCH and Henrietta GUNNELS. Judge H.G. MCCONNELL officiated.

Please send your queries and genealogical information to Marleta Childs, 2308 21st St., Lubbock 79411.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

I don't know when, in a goodly time, I have enjoyed a film entertainment more than the British-made "The Great Train Robbery," which, at this time of writing, is still current at the United Artists South Plains Cinema IV.

It took me a while to catch up to a screening of this picture, but, believe me, it was worth it. It is pure movie entertainment in an adult manner, though kids love it too. The dialogue is non-stoppable (some think too much) but it is measured, witty and the double entendre cracks are so finely monitored that no offense could possibly be taken, even by your maiden aunt from Shallowater.

But, films mean action and it is in the train robbery sequences, with the master mind Sean Connery himself, sans stunt men and the like, negotiating the length of the train on the roofs of the carriers, menaced by wind, smoke, low bridges and hanging signal arms the highlight.

"The Great Train Robbery" has a unique plot and a hundred fascinating ways and means to glue the eye to the screen.

The time is in the 1850s and the London bank is sending the Crimean War soldiers' pay in gold bars fortnightly. The highest security is maintained, with specially-built safes in the luggage van, only accessible by the use of four different keys. These are in the hands of the president of the bank, a bank official and two in the station master's locked key locker.

How to get a waxen image of each key from which duplicates can be made provides an intriguing section of the movie.

Then, comes the big day. Ruses, deception and daring-do come into play as the lengthy account of the first robbery on a moving train in history is taken up in painstaking yet totally understandable detail.

There is a twist ending to this lovely film that is a delight.

Sean Connery, who first came into clear focus with the American film-going public as the original James Bond, has charisma galore, all the macho qualities a man would ever need, plus a vibrant acting talent and appeal, is the master mind and he is simply superb. If his train-roof crawling doesn't have you gnawing your nails more than once, or ducking the theatre seat as those low bridges bear down relentlessly, then you ain't got no responsive feelings at all!

Donald Sutherland, whose career seems to be moving into high and excellent gear now, is the key-impressionist colleague and is delightful, too.

It is Lesley-Anne Down as Miriam, in a multiple character part, who just about steals the film who is terrific. She is as canny as her male colleagues and her smooth work is a powerhouse to watch.

The 19th Century England is meticulously reproduced and costuming, settings and props are noticeably fine.

Michael Creighton directed this one flawlessly and Jerry Goldsmith has provided another of his unobtrusive but commanding musical scores all the way.

The supporting players have been culled with all the care and shrewd talent that the leads were selected.

All in all, "The Great Train Robbery" is an entrancing adventure from start to finish. It is lush, provocative and exciting to the eye and ear and is well worth the 110 minutes of your time before it gets away from its South Lubbock berth. Don't miss "The Great Train Robbery."

"Fast Break," also at the South Plains Mall, stars Gabriel Kaplan (Gabe) from "Welcome Back, Kotter" on TV. The film, about a renegade basketball team comes along coincident with the current national basketball playoffs on the tube, too.

It is a likeable film, but of no import. It owes its production values to the TV tube, more than the movie mills, and is geared accordingly.

"Fast Break" will find its supporters, but they'll be fans, too, of "Kotter" which follows.

Upcoming is the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra's fourth subscription concert at the Memorial Civic Center Theatre Monday and Tuesday nights (8:15 p.m.) when the Symphony pays gratitude to the Texas Tech University Music Department by presenting as featured artists two of the department's brightest musicians. They are David Hackman, trumpeter, and the lovely and gifted Gail Barber, the orchestra's harpist.

The evening is one of contrasts and tickets for either performance are available at the Symphony Business Office, on Broadway west of Ave. Q or by telephone. Don't miss this melodic evening. Symphony does mean "The Sound of Music" and whatever language rampant today can make its meaning the clearer.

The fullish April calendar of music and live theatre is fast approaching, so watch this space for news of the events as they arrive.

The apparently-favored nominee for Best Picture for the upcoming April 9 Academy Awards, "The Deer Hunter," a powerful story of Vietnam action, starts its local run in town at the UA South Plains Cinema IV this Friday. It'll be a big draw based on advance notices and word of mouth, so mark the starting date.

That's about it for this time around. Watch closely the next couple of weeks for word on the burdgeoning entertainment competition in the city. It's the gala finale before the welcome summer heat moves into the area.

China Trip Topic At Lunch Bunch

Mr. Charles Swift returns to the Lunch Bunch Tuesday, March 27, at 12 noon, with more slides and stories from his recent trip to China.

Mr. Swift spent July, 1978, touring China along with other educators and scientists. His group, which included many from Pacific islands, was privileged to visit places like Peking University that are not normally open to tourists.

In order to allow plenty of time for questions and discussions, the March 27 program will start at 12:00 noon instead of 12:15, but those who can't get there till 12:15 are still welcome. The program at the Mahon Library, 1306 9th, is free and open to the public.

The sure sign of a limited mind is a flow of positive statements.

Upward Bound Student Goes to Washington, D.C.

Johnny Gomez, member of the Texas Tech University Upward Bound project, will participate in the 1979 Presidential Classroom for Young Americans in Washington, D.C.

Johnny will be representing Upward Bound, Lubbock High School, his community and the state of Texas as a member of the Classroom's National student body.

During the intensive one-week program, Johnny will join 400 other outstanding high school students from across the nation and overseas in an indepth study of government and politics through direct contact with government leaders and Washington observers. Students attend formal seminars at which national decision-makers carefully selected to be representative of the full spectrum of current political thought, discuss the numerous operations and responsibilities of the Federal government.

Several of the seminars are on-site briefings at Federal agencies and on Capitol Hill. The curriculum focusses upon the nature of the Federal institutions and the decision making processes that are responsible for the formation of national public policies.

The goal of the program is to foster leadership potential and civic responsibility among the student leaders by exposing them to the dynamics of our democratic system at its nucleus—Washington, D.C.

Chartered in 1968 as a nonprofit educational program, Presidential Classroom has provided more than 18,000 young people with firsthand exposure to prominent government leaders and key observers of official Washington. Among past speakers have been Senators, Representatives, Justices of the Supreme Court, Cabinet Secretaries, members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, foreign ambassadors, White House staff, news media personnel and high-level executives from many different Federal agencies and the private sector.

Complementing the formal learning experience of the Program is the opportunity for students to explore the geographic, cultural and socio-economic diversity of their peers in the National Student Body. Sharing a common interest in leadership and government, the students represent a cross-section of American society and provide one another with valuable perspectives on our national diversity.

Johnny Gomez is a senior at Lubbock High School. He has participated in the Upward Bound program since October 1977. Johnny plans to enter Texas Tech in the Fall of 1979. He will be a pre-law major. At Lubbock High school, he is very active in the athletic program and is considered a very good competitor.

Ringling the Bell . . .

with Bob Tieuel

The Black Experience Comes to West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico: Our many thanks to bellringers in these areas especially for making it possible to establish a Black Arts and History Library in the old and historic town of Pecos, Texas. It will be housed in the educational unit of Friendship C.M.E. Church, located at 315 South Pecan St. On Sunday, March 25, a big financial drive will be launched at the church at 3 p.m. and our readers are invited to be present. If you cannot be there, you may aid in this effort by sending your donation to: Black Arts & History Library—Att.: Bob Tieuel, Jr. director, P.O. Box 761, Pecos, Texas 79772.

We have received so many requests for our "Dear Mom" letter written in December 1978, we have had a number of copies reprinted for free distribution to bellringers. Just enclose a self-addressed envelope, stamped, and we will get yours in the mail. See address above or write me in care of this newspaper. Thanks again.

Roots: The Next Generations averaged only two thirds of the audience established by the original ABC mini-series but the sequel scored well enough in the ratings to give ABC the second highest weekly average in TV history. It is estimated that 110 viewers saw the second run.

Our nomination for "Woman of the Week" is Mrs. Ella Mae King, civic and church leader of Albany, Texas. Although she is not as active after so many years of devoted service, her influence is still felt. During the great flood in Albany in 1978, the Christian Methodist mission church was swept away by the ravaging waters, leaving only the concrete steps standing. Rev. E.J. Lout, district superintendent, made an appeal for help in rebuilding the church and it came from over the nation. And in March 1979, a beautiful and much more modern church will be opened, with Bishop C.D. Coleman of Dallas and other lay and clerical leaders participating. And Ms. Ella Mae King will be there to witness this modern day miracle. Why not name the new church: King Memorial—a fitting tribute to Ms. King and her also devoted and faithful husband, who have worked in the mission fields of West Texas a long, long time.

To: H.M. of Midland: There is a distinct possibility that striking policemen and firefighters in the recent disorder in New Orleans, at some point in time, injected the racial issue as well as politics to embarrass New Orleans first black mayor, Mayor Earnest Morial.

State Republican Chairman George J. Despot denied reports linking Republicans to the circulation of recall election petitions and truckloads of revelers during Mardi Gras days, bombarded Mayor Morial's bus with eggs, onions, and dog biscuits. They also yelled racial insults. Even so the Mayor stood the test in a most effective manner and Mardi Gras' show went on, although millions of dollars might have been lost by the city for the ill-advised strike of men who have sworn to uphold the law and not defy it.

In spite of racism raising its ugly head at many points in our great nation, much progress is being made towards racial understanding and goodwill.

It is our prediction that Kansas City, Missouri will elect its first black mayor in history in elections to be held next week. He is an old friend and a city councilman-mortician and civic leader, who ran first in a field of six candidates early in March: Bruce Watkins.

Until later, be a good neighbor. They come in all colors and creeds. Footnote: To Clovis News Journal: Thanks for the story on black journalists. We are following it up you know.

Bulletin: Lawrence P. Lakey, former pastor of Christ Temple Christian Methodist Episcopal Church in Tulsa and Philips Memorial of Phoenix, Arizona, has been named the new director of the Tulsa Urban League, Tulsa, Oklahoma. Lakey is well known in bellringer circles in West Texas and S.E. New Mexico, where he has appeared as a guest speaker on several occasions. He is a brother of Rev. Othal Lakey of Dallas, Texas, editor of the Christian Index, official organ of the C.M.E. Church.

maximum training or education entitlement. If that same veteran were to embark on a full-time, four-year college program, it should be started this year so that it could be completed by 1983 when the veteran's eligibility expires. In any event, benefits would be payable only until the veteran reached the time limit no matter how far along the program was.

"There are so many ways the GI Bill can be adapted to individual needs and circumstances," Coker said, "I hate to see anyone lose their rights to this program simply because they let time slip by."
