McKinley Shephard Attends Austin Meeting September 8

McKinley Shephard, candidate for State Rep. 75-B attended a meeting in Austin, September 8, 1979 sponsored by the State Republican Party and R.C. Scott and Associates, a Black public affairs consulting firm of Waco, hired by the State Republican Party to recruit the Black vote.

The meeting had Black representatives from different areas of Texas, who plan to run for office in 1980, ranging from County Commissioner to State Senate and State Rep. Wayne J. Thorburn, executive director for the state Republican Party said, "The Party is wholeheartedly behind this statewide effort to get more blacks into the Republican Party." He also said, "The Party needs the Black vote. We need to show people that we (Republicans) and Blacks share the same common issues and concern."

When asked about how this would come about, Thorburn said, "It's not going to be easy, because there are differences on each side. But we need to start building a good relationship between the two groups, and I know it can be done, and we can build support for the Republican Party through the Black vote."

Roscoe Scott, head of the Alliance of Black Candidates, said, "His firm is seeking out Black candidates on a statewide basis, to persuade them to run on the Republican ticket. He also said to unite the Blacks and the Republican Party, we need to break the ice, and this can best be done by electing a Black Republican. Electing a Black Republican will be a major breakthrough. He further went on to state that in some areas we may not be able to find a black candidate, and we have to turn to a white candidate who is responsive to the Black community. Thorburn also suggested we start at the local level and find out what the people are talking about."

Thorburn also suggested that because of the work that McKinley Shephard has done for the Republican Party, he should be appointed representative for the entire West Texas area, to find blacks who can be appointed to state boards and state positions. McKinley Shephard will send in his list of candidates to Joe Kervin, who is on the governor's staff, who then will present them to the governor and if the governor accepts the candidates, he will appoint them to the position.

McKinley Shephard says he is pleased with his trip to Austin, and thinks it was a very positive and informative session. He said he is also pleased with the new State Republican platform. He says, "I think it is a platform that has many things that myself and many blacks and minorities can identify with, and work under." McKinley Shephard will be speaking to the Lyon's Chapel Baptist Church on Sunday, Sept. 16, 1979.

Air Force JROTC Instructor Position Available

Air Force Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (Air Force JROTC) has an immediate opening for a retired Air Force officer as an aerospace education instructor at Palo Duro High School, Amarillo, Texas.

"This is an excellent opportunity for an officer who has been retired four years or less to get back into uniform," said John Grisham, chief of instructor management for Air Force JROTC. Individuals retired for up to five years may apply to Air Force JROTC for a waiver of the four-year cutoff point according to Grisham.

Last year Palo Duro had a total enrollment of about 1100 students, with 102 students enrolled in Air Force JROTC. The unit is supported by Reese Air Force Base near Lubbock, Texas.

Retired officers in Air Force JROTC teach fully accredited aerospace education courses. They are assisted by retired noncommissioned officers who teach drill and ceremonies and handle unit administration.

Applicants are screened and certified by the Air Force and nominated to local school boards for hiring. Air Force JROTC instructors work directly for the high school principal and can earn benefits such as tenure.

Retirees interested in the Air Force JROTC instructor position at Palo Duro High School or at any of the other high schools across the United States that support Air Force JROTC units should call John Grisham or MSgt Kirby Anglin (toll-free) 800-633-8750, ext. 7741, at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

A. Almeta Speaks, star of Public Television's "Almeta Speaks the Blues", and winner of three Emmy awards, will appear at the annual Mexican Independence Day Fiesta to be held at the Convention Center, with her performance scheduled for Saturday evening, September 15th. Admission is free for this event. The public is invited to attend.

Nine Counties Declared Official Disaster Areas

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Kent Hance announced nine counties in his 19th Congressional District have been declared official disaster areas following a devastating hailstorm in late August.

The Congressman made the announcement following final approval by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA). Counties declared as natural disaster areas were: Deaf Smith, Castro, Parmer, Lamb, Hockley, Terry, Gaines, Dawson and Martin. Also scheduled to be considered is Bailey County.

Farmers in the affected counties may apply for emergency loan assistance to recover losses caused by the natural disaster which are expected to exceed $200 million. Applications for the emergency loans should be filed in local FmHA offices. Applications for physical losses will be accepted for nine months and for production losses for 12 months.

The FmHA loans are made to qualifying farmers for losses to crops, property, machinery and equipment caused by the disaster. Loans for the losses will be made at 5 per cent interest. Amounts in excess of the loss needed to restore production or to make major adjustments in farming operations are available at 9 per cent interest for real estate purposes and at 9½ per cent interest for annual operating and chattel purposes.

"We are expecting the Small Business Administration to follow suit within the next two weeks," said Hance. "I would also like to express my appreciation to the local, state and national FmHA personnel who have acted so quickly in responding to this devastating disaster in our area."

"I have also been informed that some of the farmers who were hardest hit by the hailstorm may be eligible to get their current loan programs deferred for three years with a possible extension of seven additional years if they can maintain a status of good standing."

Other counties to receive the disaster status but located outside the 19th Congressional District include Swisher and Briscoe.

Hance strongly praised Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton for his aide in getting the counties declared disaster areas. In addition, he cited State Sen. E.L. Short and State Representatives Jim Rudd and Pete Laney for their help in the matter.

Policemen at Lunch Program Announced

The Lubbock Public Schools, in cooperation with the Lubbock Police Department, is pleased to announce a new cooperative program between these two entities. Policemen of the Lubbock Police Department have been invited to have lunch in the Lubbock public junior and senior high schools. Officers have been assigned to different schools for lunch between the dates of September 10 and October 5.

After that time the officers will rotate their lunch schedules so that each can have lunch in several different schools during the course of the year.

This program, initiated by Leota Matthews, consultant for social studies, and Gib Weaver, director of secondary education, is named P.A.L. (Policemen at Lunch). The purpose of this program is to promote cooperation and better understanding between the police department and the Lubbock Public Schools.

Also important is the hope that the junior and senior high school students will get to know policemen as real persons and better understand the place of law, order, and respect in our society.

As Arab's Price Gouge Continues
How Will Carter, Congress Cope?

Copyright, 1979, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—The arrogant Arab oil cartel known as OPEC is playing a vicious game of crack-the-whip which has sent the U.S. economy spinning into an ominous vortex of inflation and recession. Because of the petroleum price gouge imposed by the oil-producing nations of the Middle East, American workers are being laid off and American consumers are paying ever-soaring prices for everything they must buy.

Every expert observer we've talked to predicts the Arabs will wield the whip with increasing relentlessness in the future. They'll use the price of oil as a blackmail weapon to make Uncle Sam kowtow on such crucial foreign policy issues as the survival of Israel and recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In the face of these threats, President Carter has been waving his arms in exhortation like an orchestra leader without a baton and Congress has been fiddling in futility with a long-range energy program. Intelligence strategists in the government, however, have been weighing what countermeasures might be taken if the oil sheikhs decide to tighten the economic thumb screws further in the future.

Secret intelligence reports warn forebodingly that the United States can expect more oil blackmail from the Middle East. Here are some of the unpleasant alternatives we would face: Coming to terms with the Arabs and letting them dictate our foreign policy; living on half the oil we now consume or taking economic retaliatory action.

The first two options would end the United States as a political or economic leader of the free world, rendering us as impotent as the now toothless British lion.

On this basis, the intelligence experts have drawn up "contingency plans" on steps that might be taken if the Arabs persist in their oil squeeze. The blueprint, which has not been adopted and merely represents a hypothetical set of possible "retributive actions," consists of seven steps.

- A freeze of all Arab assets in this country which now amount to billions of dollars in holdings.
  - A cut-off of shipments of food, spare parts, machinery and know-how to the Arab countries.
  - Adoption of an artificial price-rigging of wheat and other grain shipments essential to the Middle East to match increases in the OPEC price of oil.
  - Ordering U.S. firms to stop doing business with the Arab world.
  - Blocking Arab shipping and communications interests from using U.S. facilities.
  - Suspending technical and military assistance.
  - Stopping visas to Arab students and businessmen.
- The secret intelligence papers caution strongly that such retaliatory moves would provoke Arab hostilities and "drastically reduce or perhaps halt" oil shipments into this country. This could lead to a crisis calling for military intervention on our part. In such an extreme case, the 82nd Airborne Division has had field exercises centering on a take-over of the Mideast oil fields and the Marine Corps has been trained in seaborne landings on shores similar to those in the area.

Jimmy Carter-Truman: In these dark hours of politically disastrous polls, Jimmy Carter envisions himself as doing a Harry Truman in 1980. He and his inner circle are casting him in the image of the Man from Independence who staged the biggest upset in presidential history by defeating Tom Dewey in 1948.

But while Truman captured votes by lambasting a "do-nothing" GOP Congress, Carter may have to rely on help from the Republicans on the Hill this year and next. When Congress returned last week, we talked to a number of Democrats who had taken soundings from their constituents during the summer recess. Without exception, they told us they'd found the folks at home were disenchanted with the president.

They reported there was no personal animosity toward Carter; they just believed he wasn't big enough for the job. Seven Democratic senators who face tough re-election races say they'll disassociate themselves from the president. They fear his coattails may prove to be a lead balloon.

Evidence of their lukewarm support will become apparent in the remaining months of this year's session. They'll either shun backing the Georgian's legislative proposals or offer their own versions.

On the other hand, the word in Capitol cloakrooms is that Republican senators and House members will take it a little easy on the beleaguered president. Because of his low standing in the polls, they want him to get the Democratic nomination on grounds he'll be easy to beat next November.

My sources tell me word has been passed to ease up on attacks on Carter—until after the Democratic convention renominates him or picks someone else.

Headlines and Footnotes: Republican presidential hopeful Phil Crane has discovered a political truth: Never count your campaign egg until it's hatched. The Illinois congressman hired right-wing fund-raising magician Richard Viguerie to get him money but the two came to a parting of the ways recently. Viguerie Enterprises hauled in $2.5 million in contributions on Crane's behalf but the bottom line was that Viguerie's outfit deducted $2 million of that for their help.

- What a difference a state makes if you are sick. A study by the Indiana Blue Cross Company found that the cost of staying a day in a hospital in Wyoming averages $133. A patient hospitalized the same day in Massachusetts would be paying almost double that.

- The Pentagon brass is costing the taxpayers millions a year by throwing away gold and silver, according to the experts. The military uses silver in its photography labs and medical facilities; gold is used in items such as buttons and eyeglasses. Other government agencies such as the Veterans Administration manage to recoup up to 85 percent of the precious metals they deal with by recycling. But the Defense Department recovers only 21 percent of the silver it uses. Metallurgical experts estimate that the brass and braid of the military services are tossing away about $320 million a year in recoverable gold and silver.

Along with poison ivy and stinging insects, polluted water can spoil a camping or fishing trip.

The clear bubbling stream that looks so clean and pure may contain bacteria that can cause mild to severe illness. Most waterborne diseases are caused by human wastes. A few intestinal diseases are caused by animal wastes.

The American Water Works Association recommends several methods of purifying raw water when treated supplies are unavailable.

Most people know that boiling will kill most disease-causing bacteria, but few know that water ought to boil at least 20 minutes to be safe. It's a good idea to strain the water through a tightly woven cloth before boiling.

When boiling isn't possible, you can purify water with special chemicals, but only if the water is perfectly clear.

The chemicals are readily available in convenient tablets in most drug or sporting goods stores.

You may have to strain the water several times, being careful to clean off the filter each time if you can't use a fresh filter cloth.

Water from underground springs or wells is less likely to contain contaminants than surface water. If you can't locate underground sources, look for a stream, lake or pond—in that order.

The best precaution is to carry along enough treated municipal water, if possible. Above all, the American Water Works Association urges that when you enjoy the outdoors, think before you drink.

AUSTIN—Texas Attorney General Mark White said last week that important evidence for his investigation into the cause of history's largest oil spill was lost when a SEDCO drilling rig was scuttled by its owners.

White is investigating Gov. Bill Clements' SEDCO drilling firm and other parties involved in the Campeche Bay oil spill to determine if negligence was the cause of the spill.

He told Austin reporters he was "shocked" to learn SEDCO had towed the rig into Gulf of Mexico international waters and sank it in between 6,000 and 10,000 feet—an irretrievable depth.

"I couldn't understand why they would have taken this action. You know this (the drilling rig) was obviously going to be a piece of evidence that would be important in terms of an assessment of negligence," White said.

Gil Clements, the governor's son who now runs SEDCO, said the decision to sink the rig was made after company and insurance officials determined the rig could not be salvaged.

Clements said that after the June 3 blowout, the rig was towed from the spill site and examined by insurance officials who settled with SEDCO for $20 million.

The rig was then scuttled after the first of July, according to Clements, who said he suspected "that White's staff was told early on that this rig had been sunk."

White was looking into reports that when SEDCO pulled the rig from the well, that action cracked a well-head casing, which may have resulted in the uncontrolled flow of oil into the Gulf.

"Profit": No Dirty Word

The balance of power in Washington is shifting to the Southwest and South, and citizens can expect to see a change in federal laws, Speaker of the House Bill Clayton told a Beaumont audience last week.

Clayton said the population growths in those parts of the nation will result in more votes in Congress—and Texas will receive two additional congressional seats.

New industries and residents come here because "the people in Texas don't think profit is a dirty word." The result in Congress, Clayton said, will be "a lot of difference in the formulas written for federal regulations."

Party Switch

A power shift of another sort occurred last week when veteran Democrat Sen. Bill Braecklein of Dallas announced he is becoming a Republican. His reason is he can't support President Jimmy Carter and he believes Carter is too great a burden to carry in his district, which almost went Republican in the state senate race four years ago.

Dallas State Rep. David Cain and County Democratic Chairman Ron Kessler are both eyeing that party's slot for the race against Braecklein.

Creighton to Step Down

State Sen. Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells, has announced he will retire, giving up his seat of 20 years to devote full time to law practice.

"I'm tired," Creighton explained. "I've had 20 years in the senate, plus another eight years public service as Palo Pinto County attorney. That ought to be enough, don't you think?"

A staunch business supporter, Creighton chaired the economic development committee. Supporters of Gov. Bill Clements had tried in past weeks to get Creighton to switch parties, but he balked at that, saying he ran as a Democrat and would die a Democrat.

Creighton was the last "admitted" tobacco chewer in the Senate, and an adept pilot who once had to crash land his plane in an emergency while en route to a Colorado hunting trip.

He is also the only Texas senator to have been married on a radio show. He and his wife, Sue, were married in 1950 on the "Bride and Groom Show" in Hollywood.

Marathon Suit Settlement

The Texas Railroad Commission approved final settlement of the marathon natural gas contract dispute between Coastal States Gas Corp. and LoVaca Gathering Co. and some 400 customers.

The six-year legal battle is the longest and most complex in the commission's history.

The $1.6 billion breach of contract suit began in 1970 when it became apparent Coastal LoVaca would be unable to meet long-term contract conditions to supply natural gas to Austin, San Antonio and other Texas cities.

Under the settlement, customers will drop their $1.6 billion damages suit, LoVaca will be separated from Coastal States and transformed into a new company known as Valero Energy Co., Coastal States will spend $180 million minimum over the next 15 years exploring for gas for Valero, and Austin, San Antonio and the Lower Colorado River Authority will have the chance to buy extensive lignite leases now owned by Coastal in Bastrop, Fayette and Washington counties.

Dandelions are also called "lion's tooth," because of their sharply dented leaves.

CHICKEN DIJON... A FRENCH CLASSIC

Dijon, the capital of Burgundy, is famous for esoteric dishes such as lark and woodcock pates, and for its world-famous specialty—mustard. According to Larousse Gastronomique, "The famous mustard has, quite rightly, for centuries been considered the best." Dijon mustard combines white and black mustard seeds, often with herbs added, and the mustard gets its unique flavor from verjuice, an acid extracted from unripened grapes. This quality mustard is readily available in the U.S. packed in distinctive, decorative jars or crocks.

The fine chickens of Burgundy team with the mustard in "Poulet Dijon," a regional classic and a superb dish for your next buffet supper or dinner party. The chicken is flavored with a savory mixture of mustard, chopped onion, garlic and parsley. The ingredient list is short; the chicken is easy to prepare; even a novice cook can turn out a splendid version of this French classic.

POULET DIJON

(Makes about 8 servings)

- 2 chickens, quartered, about 3 lbs. each
- Salt and pepper
- 1/4 cup butter
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 1 clove garlic, chopped
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed chicken broth
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley

Sprinkle chicken on all sides with salt and pepper. In large skillet heat butter and brown chicken pieces slowly on all sides. In small bowl, mix remaining ingredients until well blended. Pour mixture over chicken. Simmer, turning pieces occasionally until chicken is tender, about 40 minutes. Remove chicken to platter. Stir pan juices scraping all brown particles from skillet. Simmer until sauce is slightly thickened. Spoon sauce over chicken. Serve with hot petits pois and Champignons de Paris.

A carefully prepared new work is Craven Precinct-County, North Carolina, Precinct-County Court Minutes, 1712 Thru 1715, Book I by Weynette Parks Haun. Softbound, 100 pp., indexed by place and surname, $15 (North Carolina residents add 4% sales tax). Order from Mrs. Haun, 243 Argonne Dr., Durham, N.C. 27704. This book is a verbatim transcription of all legible court entires. In order to salvage as much unreadable information as possible, the minutes were compared with the early deeds and wills.

Part of the publication presents as nearly verbatim as possible Craven County deeds from 1713 to 1715. Some common surnames appearing in these records are BELL, BLUNT, BRICE, CHANEYWOOLF / CHENNEWOLF, DAWSON, FORGESON, FRANKS, FULFORD, GRAVES, GREEN, HILL, LEPPER, MACFARLAND, and SHACKELFORD. Blacks are listed by given names only.

This volume is a necessity for researchers with ancestors in the area during that particular period. Craven County, North Carolina, County Court Minutes, Book II, now in preparation, will also be a valuable asset to genealogists and historians.

Classes in "Basic Genealogical Research" will be held in the library at South Plains College in Levelland on Monday nights (beginning September 17) for six weeks from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Christine Knox Wood, C.G., will be the instructor. Mr. Lonnie R. Bunkley, 3901 Don Diablo Drive, Los Angeles, Calif. 90008 (phone 213/299-1666) is writing the history of his family and would appreciate hearing from members of the BUNKLEY family. His paternal great grandparents were Stebo BUNKLEY, b. 1833 in Georgia or Africa, and Elizabeth "Lizzy," b. 1847 in Virginia. Her maiden name was probably PRESLEY. They lived in Chambers County, Ala. in 1880. Some of their relatives during the latter years of the 1800s were Frank, Washington, Lavirginia (?), Chaney, Lelihia, and Robert PRESLEY; Allen, Elizabeth, King, Pheby, Mariah, Carrie, Miller, Francis, Cato, Minerva, Also, Cathrina, and Jennie BUNKLEY.

Children of Stebo and Elizabeth BUNKLEY were Isiah "Ike," Stevenann, Lucy Ann, Crawford, and Estella. Ike and Crawford and probably a cousin named King moved to Smith County, Texas, where Ike and Crawford married two sisters, Mary Jane and Emma FERGUSON. Ike and Mary Jane BUNKLEY later moved to Bonham, Texas, where their son Crawford was born. The family then moved to Denison, Texas, where Lonnie (son of Crawford) was born.

Mary Jane, Emma, William, and Beatrice FERGUSON were children of Nat (maybe Stephenson) FERGUSON, b. 1819 in Maryland, and Delia FERGU-SON, b. 1835 in Alabama.

Kelly's Heroes

by Joe Kelly

Long after the 21-7 USC victory over Texas Tech last Saturday night, a visiting sports writer asked a pertinent question. Had USC, he asked no one in particular, really gone all out to win? He meant no disrespect for Tech, but he based his question on the way the Trojans had twice taken the ball and gone steadily downfield.

It was a fair question and took nothing away from the Raider defense, which performed brilliantly for much of the game. It did seem, particularly on the first two drives, that USC simply made up its mind that it was going to score.

If the premise is true that the Trojans really played just well enough to win, then Tech still is untested to a large degree. It proved that the Raiders can't stop the powerhouses when they want to grind out yardage.

On the other hand, if USC was playing up to its potential, other teams must regard Tech in a new light. The Raiders ARE for real and can play with any team in the nation. The defense generally was even tougher than anticipated and did a pretty good job of stopping the USC power.

Speaking of power, USC didn't rely nearly as much on backfield power as it did fleetness in its halfbacks. And the Trojans had more than their fair share of speed. Marcus Allen and Michael Hayes had more than enough speed, thank you, to make it miserable for the Tech defenders.

Indeed, there seemed to be no letdown when Charles White, the great All American, went out of action. His loss was unfortunate because it robbed fans of a chance to see a really outstanding runner.

But what impressed most observers was the awesome defense of Southern Cal. Rex Dockery had mentioned it long before the game and the Trojans lived up to their advance billing. They were tough.

And, while Tech may not be blessed with 9.2 sprinters in its backfield, the runners aren't really running in hipboots. Yet, at times, it seemed like it. Split end Edwin Newsome was caught from behind. Quarterback Ron Reeves was caught from behind. Fullback James Hadnot was caught from behind. In fact, maybe the most impressive thing about USC was its tremendous pursuit and its blazing speed.

Still, the Trojans didn't run away from the Raiders and Tech was in the game all the way until the final USC touchdown. Indeed, much has been written already about two plays that might have turned it around—the penalty on the intercepted pass and the fourth down pitchout that failed.

It's easy to go back and second guess, to say if this had happened, it would have been different. The fact remains, no one will ever know if Tech would have scored after intercepting the pass, or if it had made the first down. Still, it is interesting to ponder, because Tech could move the ball against the Trojans.

Bob Galt, the experienced Dallas Times Herald reporter, said that he had kept his glasses on the passer on the interception. He stated, flatly, that the call had been a good one, that the Tech player had "come in with a typical Oklahoma chop." It was an elbow thrown at the head.

As for the fourth down play, if Tech had it to do over, it probably would have run Hadnot straight ahead, or had Reeves try a sneak. Either might have worked, or either might have been stopped. We'll never know.

From a Raider standpoint, the game pointed up one strong fact: Tech needs more backfield speed. The Raiders still lack the breakaway running strength, and there apparently is nothing it can do about it, unless a freshman comes to the front.

Otherwise, Reeves had only a fair night passing. Field position had something to do with this, since the Raiders seldom were in a position where they could throw with any comfort. Indeed, Reeves tried only 13 passes, far below what you would look for normally.

Tech's pass defense generally did a good job, although it broke down on one touchdown pass. It took a sensational catch to complete it, but one cardinal rule was broken: the defender let the receiver get behind him. That's a no-no, even with a sensational reception.

Paul McDonald used his passes intelligently and with deadly effect. He didn't go for the bomb, but used his passes as a strong offensive weapon. He completed 58% and generally kept Tech's defense a little looser because of it.

Now Tech gets another test, a major one, by New Mexico. The Albuquerque school is off to a 2-0 record and brings here a squad that has more speed than the Raiders, probably as much as USC. And it has a passing attack that is deadly.

Raider fans ought to support this game because it is liable to be one of the better contests. Defensively, it is doubtful that the Lobos will be as tough as USC. That means the Raider offense ought to be more potent and it could be a high scoring game. Last year, you may remember, Tech won, 36-23, and a carbon copy is entirely possible.

Elsewhere in the league it was not an auspicious opening weekend. Two teams won against outside foes, two teams lost. Houston came from behind to whip UCLA and Baylor struggled to beat Lamar.

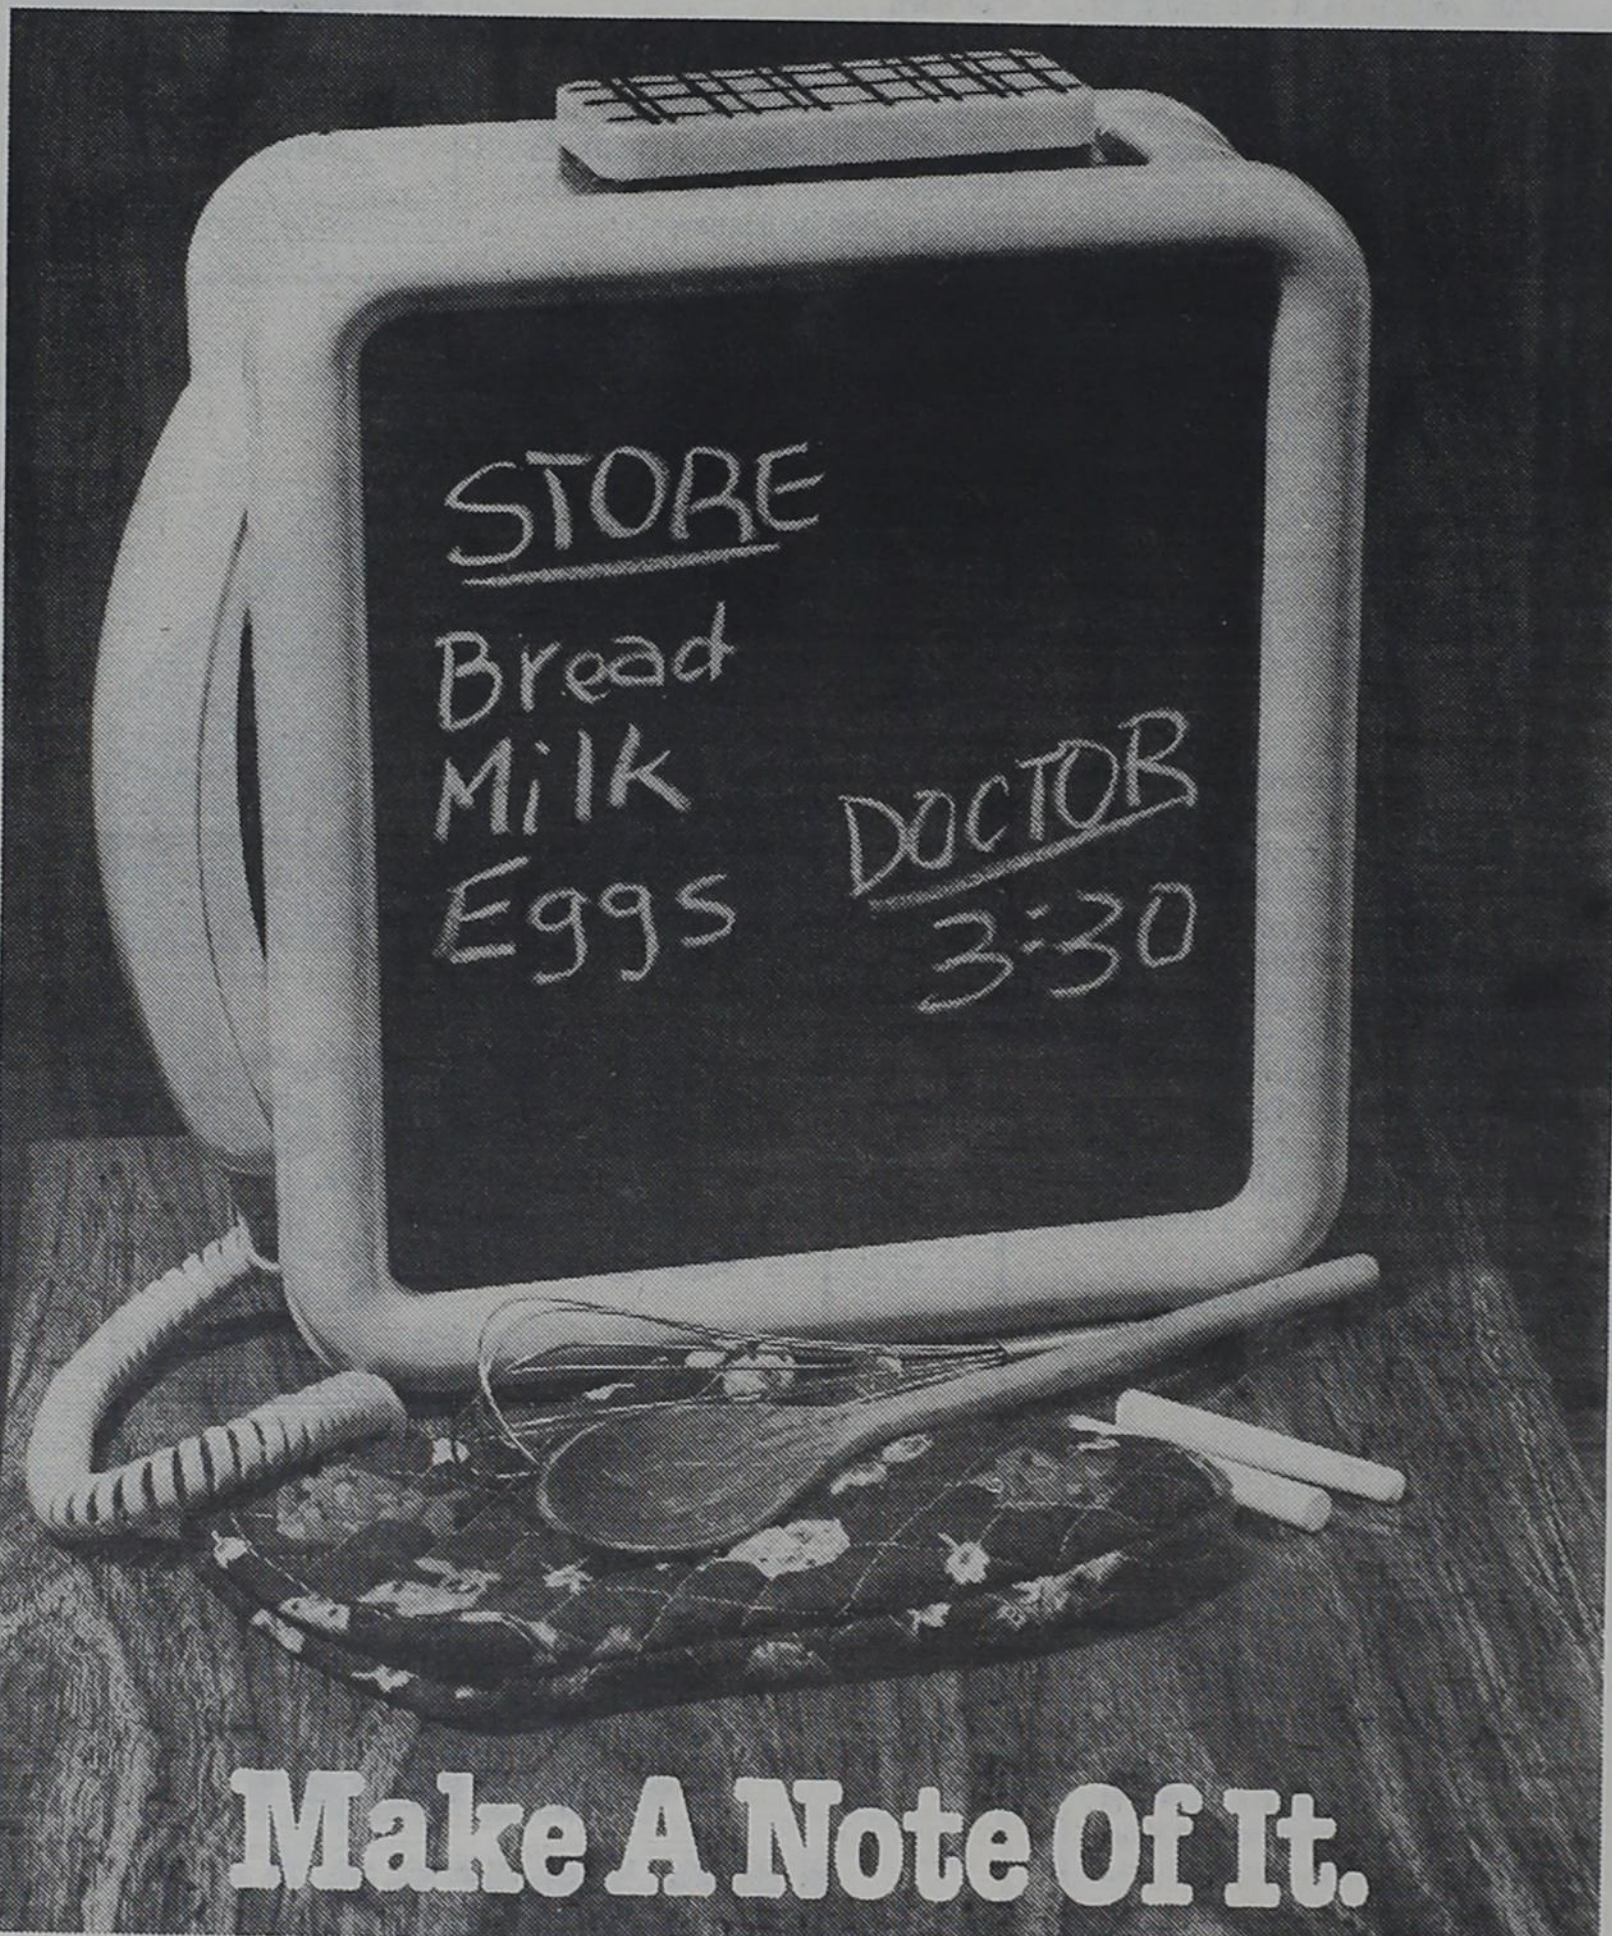

Tech lost, but the shocker was Brigham Young upsetting A&M in Houston. Poor Tom Wilson got off to a bad start, even though the Aggie defense was suspect before the season started. Indeed, one writer said that it was entirely possible that A&M would come to Lubbock 0-4. I find that hard to buy. The Aggies have too much talent.

SMU got "Mustang Mania" off to a good start with a tough win over a Rice team that was tougher than expected. And the performance of two heralded freshman backs doesn't augur good visions for conference teams.

The baseball season is winding down and only Baltimore seems assured of a playoff berth. The other races are humdingers, with Cincinnati battling to beat out Houston, Montreal battling to do the same to Pittsburgh, and California a shaky leader over Kansas City.

The World Series is only a month away and right now no one is sure who will be in it. The best two races, of course, involve the National League. The Pittsburgh-Montreal fight and the Houston-Cincinnati scrap are really packing fans in. It's a great way to finish the season.

Security Information for Apartment Managers

Remember that an apartment which has extra security is a positive factor in attracting new tenants. Apartments, like houses, are built to obtain the highest percent of occupancy possible.

As an apartment manager, you can take positive steps in the area of crime prevention that can lead to a greater number of permanent tenants. If you want to secure tenants, secure your apartments against crime. You're not merely leasing "area," you're leasing places of residency. People expect to be secure in their homes.

Here are some things apartment managers and owners can do to make their units more secure and to ultimately increase their occupancy rate.

- Install adequate locks initially and change locks after someone moves. Often-used spring-latch locks can be defeated with no signs of forced entry; they are an invitation to burglars. One-inch-throw deadbolt locks are excellent.
- Install solid-core exterior doors on apartments.
- Install door viewers with a 190° angle of view on outside doors.
- Make hinge pins nonremovable on exterior doors.

- Pin sliding glass doors.
- Pin windows, both sliding and single hung.
- Do not allow shrubs to cover windows and doors.
- Provide adequate night lighting around the complex. This can prevent thefts, robberies and assaults.
- Insist rent payments be made with checks or money orders. Cash payments invite armed robbery of tenants and managers.
- Empty coin-operated machines in the complex regularly. Additionally managers and owners should encourage their tenants to:
  - Always lock their car.
  - Always lock their apartment, even when they go on short trips to the game room or to the swimming pool.
  - Always securely lock their bicycle.
  - Always securely lock their boat and motorcycle. Outboard motors should be securely locked to the boat.
  - Exercise caution in dealing with strangers and in displaying valuables.
  - Enroll in the Operation Identification property-marking program.

G.O.P. Senate Hopes High

Republican hopes for gains in the U.S. Senate, in next year's elections are high because of two circumstances. The first, which won't change, is that the 34 races next year, 24 involve Democratic seats.

The second Democratic liability is that President Carter's stock is so low he may drag some fellow Democrats down to defeat. This situation conceivably could change, if the President makes a comeback, or if someone else is the Democratic standard-bearer—which many Senators now hope will be the case. (Senators Jackson and McGovern, of Washington and South Dakota, have already called for a new nominee—as have several New England Democrats.)

A recent survey indicated that eight Democratic seats are considered in serious jeopardy. They are those of Frank Church, Idaho, considered a loser; John Culver of Iowa, also now rated a loser; John Durkin of New Hampshire, rated a loser; and George McGovern of South Dakota, loser.

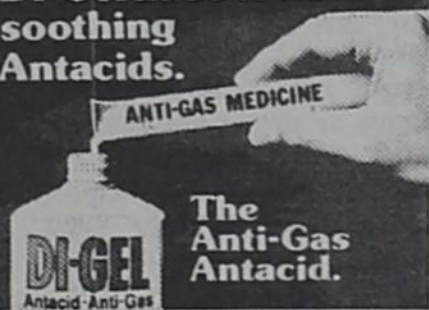

Potential losers are Birch Bayh of Indiana, Alan Cranston of California, Gary Hart of Colorado, Patrick Leahy of Vermont, and Donald Stewart of Alabama.

Other Democratic races in 1980 will involve the seats of Tom Eagleton of Missouri, John Glenn of Ohio, Mike Gravel of Alaska, Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, Russell Long of Louisiana, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Richard Stone of Florida, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, Wedell Ford of Kentucky and Robert Morgan of North Carolina. (The last three seats are considered the safest for Democrats.) Senator Herman Talmadge's Georgia seat is also considered safe for Democrats, whether or not Senator Talmadge is challenged in the primary.

Three Democrats are retiring—Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Warren Magnuson of Washington and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut. Democrats are favored to retain the latter two seats, but Illinois is considered a potential gain for Republicans.

Los Dos Laredos on the Rio Grande

By Connie Sherley
Texas Travel News

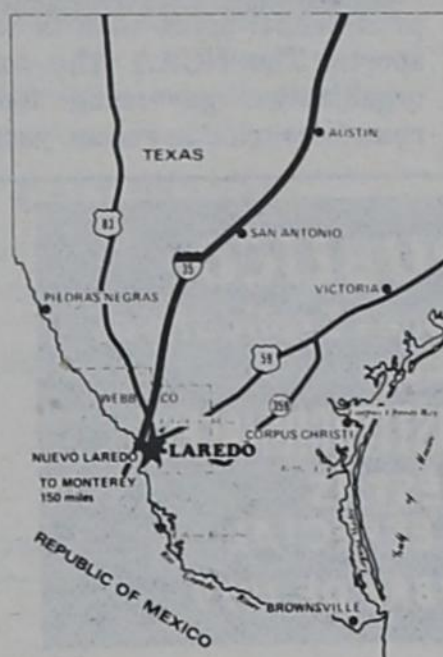

LAREDO—When Texans say, "Los Dos Laredos," they mean the twin cities separated by a river that's also the international border between the United States and Mexico.

On the Texas side, where Laredo is situated, the river is known as the Rio Grande. On the opposite bank, in Nuevo Laredo, it's called the Rio Bravo.

Time was when the cities were united as capital of the Republic of the Rio Grande, formed in 1840 when the area between the Nueces and Rio Grande rivers was left under Mexican rule after the rest of Texas became independent.

The residents were neglected by the autocratic Mexican ruler, Santa Anna, and declared their independence. Fighting ensued that culminated four years later in the annexation of part of the area by Texas, with the remainder remaining as part of Mexico.

Adjacent to the charming La Posada motor hotel is the building that served as the tiny republic's capital. It is maintained by the Laredo Historical Society and quoted in both currencies.

Most residents speak English and Spanish as dual tongues. There is a bit of Spanglish, too, a mixture of the two languages.

In this part of South Texas spring arrives early and summer lingers so long that winter scarcely is noticed. There can be a bit of cold in January, of course. The lifestyle is easy, with emphasis here on the outdoors. The wide open spaces make the sky seem bigger and bluer.

Laredo has been experiencing a growth associated with gas discoveries, the city's importance as a shipping point via both rail and highway, and the popularity of fishing in Falcon Lake and Lake Casa Blanca and hunting for whitetail deer, javelina, wild doves and wild turkeys.

For information you may write to the Chamber of Commerce, Dept. GW, Box 790, Laredo 78040.

has many interesting exhibits. The La Posada, by the way, has a fine courtyard swimming pool and excellent dining facilities. Also deserving praise in Laredo is the Hilton Hotel, with a rooftop lounge overlooking both Laredos.

Citizens of the two cities move back and forth across the pair of international bridges on foot or in vehicles. No passports are necessary, only an oral declaration to customs officials concerning citizenship.

Pesos and dollars are interchanged for purchases in both cities, and prices are

GOLD

FACTS & FANCIES

High school and college students buy some two million karat gold school rings annually.

Many students see their karat gold school ring as more than just a fine piece of jewelry, they see it as a symbol of their passage into adulthood.

Gold school rings can be customized with the student's birthstone or sign, engraved initials or signature, favorite school activity, and a variety of stone cuts and colors.

Many parents, recognizing the intrinsic and symbolic value of a karat gold school ring and the meaning that such a ring can have for their youngsters, are giving school rings as gifts to their offspring.

Football Time

For high school and college students the big school sport is often football. It is the sport (with basketball) that attracts big crowds and intense alumni interest—too much, in fact, in many instances.

U.S. football is a sport of violent body contact. It is a game similar to rugby in some respects but even more violent. To most foreigners, its violence is excessive and, therefore, soccer is the sport known the world over as football.

The brutal body contact in football is far more acceptable in professional sport than in school sports. The NCAA (the college organization governing football rules) has tried in recent years to reduce the number of serious injuries which occur each fall in college and high school football.

Whether enough has been done yet is a hotly-debated question. But football's popularity continues unabated. It is a dramatic and exciting body-contact game, perhaps the most exciting of spectator sports in America. The training is rigorous and demanding; coaches think this discipline is a lifetime asset.

But perhaps partly because of the excessive violence of U.S. football, other sports, such as soccer, have been growing with astonishing speed in recent years, so that today many potential players are choosing soccer over football.

Five Jail Inmates Indicted for Beating Two Other Inmates

A present and a former Texas county jailer and five jail inmates were indicted by a federal grand jury in Austin, Texas, August 31 in connection with the beating of two other inmates.

Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti said a three-count indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in Austin against Freestone County jailer Ted S. Spurgeon, former jailer John H. Whitley, and inmates McClendon Brackens, Aaron Ealy, John W. Keeton, Nathaniel Parker, Jr., and Leonard R. Tillis.

One count charged the two jailers and inmates Keeton,

Parker, and Tillis with conspiring to injure and intimidate Donald W. Norman, an escaped prisoner who had just been returned, on September 21, 1978.

The indictment said Spurgeon and Whitley put Norman in a cell with the other three prisoners so they could beat and sexually abuse him, violating his constitutional rights not to be deprived of liberty without due process of law and to be kept free from harm while in official custody.

The second count charged Keeton, Parker, and Tillis, aided by the two jailers, with beating Norman in violation of his constitutional rights.

The third count charged Brackens, Ealy, and Parker, aided by Whitley, with beating another inmate, Bill L. Black, in a cell on September 8, 1978.

The maximum penalties upon conviction of each count are:

Conspiracy against the rights of citizens (18 U.S. Code 241), 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Deprivation of rights (18 U.S. Code 242), one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The Goliad Regulators

Texans returning from the Civil War found their farms and ranches in ruin from neglect. Four seasons of unbranded cattle roamed the open range. Ruffians were everywhere in Goliad County stealing cattle, robbing banks, and murdering. Citizens were afraid to testify against this element because those who did were hunted down and killed. Fear crippled the county.

A group of about 50 area residents, mostly small farmers and cattlemen, organized "The Regulators" and called for help from Gen. J.J. Reynolds, commander of the Federal troops during Reconstruction. Gen. Reynolds appointed Jack Helm special marshal in 1868. Helm came to Texas from an unknown place, some believe to escape prosecution, and rounded up cattle for the notorious Shanghai Pierce. Helm settled in DeWitt County and served as deputy sheriff.

It was from that position and with a reputation for being powerful and fearless that Helm arrived in Goliad brandishing unlimited authority. Immediately the Regulators composed a list of suspected criminals and undesirables and called on each one, advising him to leave the state within 10 days. Those not complying received a second visit and were shot or hanged.

Some believe the local men involved in the Regulators also wanted to run out all nonland-owners who were potential nesters. Helm sent the Regulators out with instructions to arrest, but not get to jail with the accused. They were ruthless in the pursuit and execution of "sentences". They killed suspects against whom they held only circumstantial evidence. They engaged in bravado. On one occasion they shot one man and told his friend he could have his life if he could ride his horse, which was tied to a tree, to freedom. The horse broke loose and the man got away, only to be met by some late arriving Regulators who shot him on sight.

Finally the reorganized Texas Rangers were called in to help restore order. Along with the Rangers, many give the Regulators credit for clearing out the rowdy element and helping Goliad County settle into a peaceful community.

QUALITIES In Sound Little Known Facts

Mozart died at the age of 35, but during his short life, he wrote 1,000 operas, operettas, symphonies, violin sonatas, divertimenti, serenades, motets, concertos for piano and many other instruments, plus chamber music, masses and litanies. He wrote one opera in 18 days.

No matter what your musical preference is, from classical to pop, it will sound its best when the heart of your music system is a top quality stereo receiver like the new Realistic STA 2200 digital receiver from Radio Shack.

The shortest opera ever written, The Deliverance of Thesus by Darius Milhaud, lasts only seven minutes, 27 seconds.

THEN and NOW

America's energy problem is older than many know and is being solved in more ways than many realize.

THEN: As far back as 1960, our demand for gasoline exceeded our domestic supply. That year, we needed over 125 million more gallons than we had.

NOW: Today, our trucking industry is continuing its long-term efforts to save energy through a voluntary program of buying and using fuel efficient optional components. The Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association reports that the Department of Transportation estimates the U.S. truck industry has saved over 2.6 billion gallons since 1973.

PLAN A FESTIVE FALL DESSERT PARTY

Invite favorite friends over for a fall dessert party. Your guests will delight in a home-baked Minced Fruit Pie, with oven-scent aromas of cinnamon, nutmeg, apricots and rum. Toast the holidays with a Bacardi Lime Punch, enhanced with Bacardi rum, banana-pineapple nectar, fresh cranberries and lime. Compliments galore will be your just desserts.

BACARDI MINCED FRUIT PIE

- 1 1/2 cups dried apricots, chopped
- 1 cup pitted prunes, chopped
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup Bacardi dark rum (80 proof)
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/3 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup walnuts, chopped
- 1/3 cup almonds, sliced
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- Pastry for double crust 9-inch pie

In saucepan, combine apricots, prunes, water and rum. Cook over high heat 5 minutes or until fruit is soft. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients, except pastry. Stir to blend well.

Line 9-inch pie plate with half pastry. Fill with fruit mixture. Roll out remaining pastry and cut into strips.

Use to decorate top of pie. Press into bottom pastry and crimp edges to form rim. Bake at 400° F. for 30 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Remove from oven and cool on wire rack. If desired, serve with vanilla ice cream or sweetened whipped cream. Makes one 9-inch pie.

BACARDI LIME PUNCH

- 2 cans (6 ounces each) frozen daiquiri mix
- 6 ounces water
- 1 bottle (28 ounces) lemon-lime soda
- 1 can (12 ounces) banana-pineapple nectar
- 1 cup Bacardi dark rum (80 proof)
- 3 to 4 drops green food coloring, if desired
- Ice ring (frozen with cranberries)
- 1 cup fresh cranberries
- 1 lime, thinly sliced

In chilled punch bowl, combine daiquiri mix, 2 cans water (using daiquiri mix can as measure), soda, nectar and rum. Add ice, berries and lime. Makes about 2 quarts.

Energy Saving Tips

from Mrs. Jane Cohen, Extension Agent - Home Energy

1. Portable electric appliances such as electric skillets can save energy for you in two ways: by cutting down on energy used for cooking, and by saving hot water used for washing dishes. Such appliances look attractive, and if you use them you'll have fewer pots and pans to wash.

2. Check the temperature setting on your water heater. Reducing the setting from 150 degrees to 140 degrees can save over 6 percent of the energy used by the water heater. Lowering the temperature setting from 150 degrees to 120 degrees can still provide all the hot water needed and can save over 18 percent of the energy used.

3. Late afternoon and early evening hours are periods of peak demand for the Nation's electrical systems. To meet this demand, electric utilities often must use back-up generating equipment that is not energy efficient. Try to use energy-intensive appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers in the early morning or late evening hours to help reduce the peak load.

4. Be sure to pay attention to small repair jobs that could help avoid substantial energy waste. Leaky hot water faucets can waste as much as 63 gallons of hot water in one week. By repairing such a leak, you'll not only save water, but the fuel required to heat it as well.

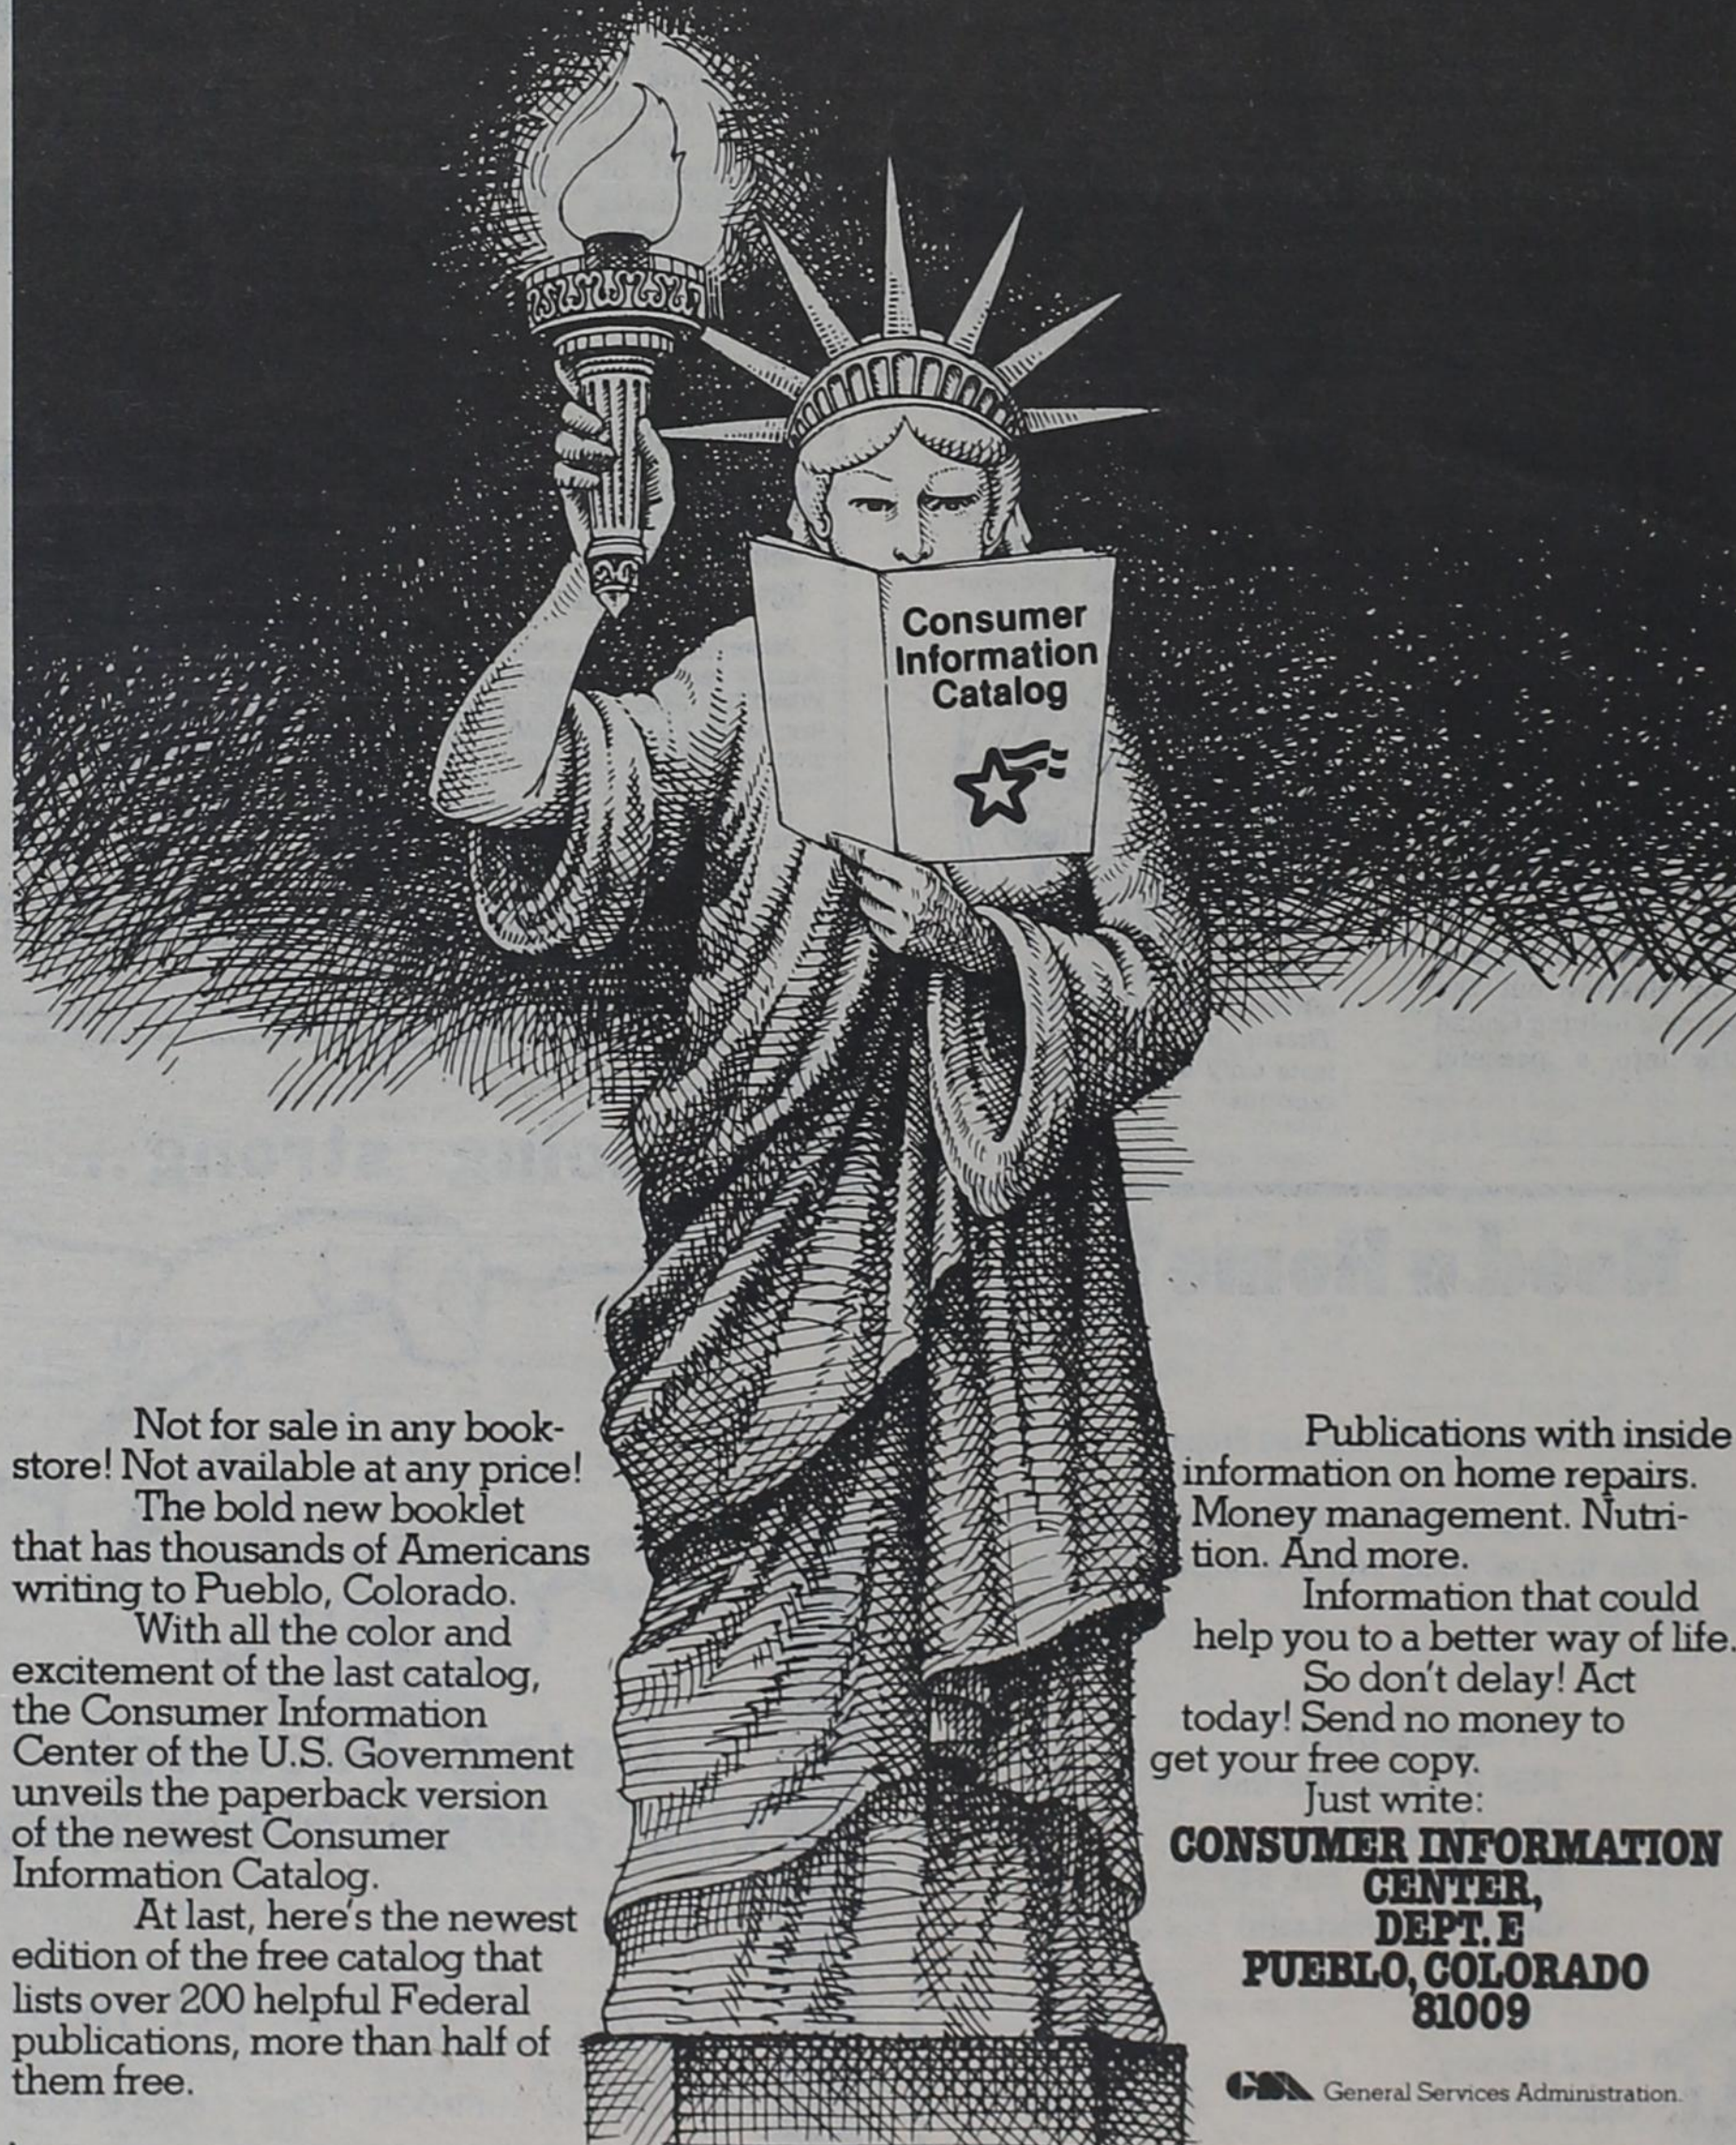

5. Don't forget to defrost your freezer regularly. Never allow more than one-quarter inch of frost to accumulate in the freezer. Frost on freezer walls makes the motor work harder, wastes energy, and takes up usable space.
