Texas Usher Queen's Final Financial Effort Here

"This will be my last effort before I leave for San Antonio, Texas and the National Baptist Convention," says Mrs. Annie Sanders, one of the candidates vying for the National Queen title. On Saturday, September 1, at 7 p.m. at the Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church, a Ministers Musical will be held. The public is invited to come out and help her in this effort. "Let us make this one of the better efforts yet," she smiles.

"We will fellowship and praise the Lord in songs, and listen to our great ministers bring the gospel in music," she continued.

The public in attendance will be surprised to know what great talent there is throughout the churches in the Lubbock area.

Come and hear Reverends T. Williams, C. C. Peoples, C. Collins, A. Davis, W. Baldwin, H. Phillips, W. Haynes, J. Allen, A. Patrick, Bell H. Johnson, G. Bunton, and G. Williams.

Chatman Park Undergoes Improvements

The controversial asphalt surface on Chatman Park has been removed by workmen in the city parks and recreation department.

Plans called to install a new sprinkler system in the park so that grass can be planted next spring. The City Council awarded a contract for the automatic sprinkler system at last Thursday's meeting.

NAACP Thanks Public For Help

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) Lubbock Branch announced this week that their 1979 Freedom Fund Banquet raised a net of $898 over the banquet expenses of $1404. Half of the net proceeds goes to the national office of the NAACP to support its civil rights and educational work, while the remaining half stays with the Lubbock Branch for NAACP work in the Lubbock area.

Ms. Rose Wilson, the new president of the NAACP Lubbock Branch and chairwoman of the Freedom Fund Committee, thanked all members who helped with ticket sales and other work which made the Banquet a success.

Black Caucus Will Meet

Washington, D.C. - At a press briefing today, the Congressional Black Caucus announced its Ninth Annual Legislative Weekend scheduled for September 21-22, at the Washington Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C.

The Annual Weekend is designed to bring together the concerned and dedicated person throughout the nation to discuss major issues facing Black and poor people, and to develop the national legislative support network for the 17 Black Members of Congress, while raising funds for the Caucus' legislative activities. The fund-raising activities of the Legislative Weekend provide the primary support for the Congressional Black Caucus staff operation.

Declaring the theme for this year's Annual Weekend, "Children: Mankind's Greatest Resource," Congresswoman Collins (D-III), said that, "national attention must be focused on how our policies will affect our children and their development." She further stated that, "Current preoccupation with the issues of energy and inflation cannot be permitted to obscure the fact that our basic resource is our children. Let us commit ourselves to their well-being."

everyone for their support during the year, because without you, it couldn't have been done," she concluded.

How About These Fingernails?

A young Black sister who enjoys wearing her fingernails long is Monique Hester, an El Paso resident who is a freshman at Texas Tech University. She is a fashion design major.

Monique enjoys corresponding, reading, drawing, and listening to music. Of course, as you can tell, she also enjoys growing her fingernails.

She told the "Lubbock Digest" photographer that she would like to become a model and fashion designer.

City Council Endorses Traffic Signal Last Week

The Lubbock City Council on August 23rd voted unanimously to pursue the citizens' request for a traffic signal at the corner of East 23rd Street and Avenue A.

In spite of a Texas Highway Department recommendation against the signal, the City Council approved a motion by Councilman Alan Henry that a new recently named congressional representative for the International Year of the Child, said that, "We have asked Mrs. Jean Young, Chairperson of the National Commission on the International Year of the Child, to serve as Honorary Chairperson for this year's Caucus Weekend". He said that, "Mrs. Young will help turn our attention to the critical problems facing children of this nation and the world."

Clarence Mitchell, who has protected and defended the rights of traffic court be made. The motion was also stated that if the traffic volumes do not warrant a signal based on traffic engineering guidelines, that the City Council will ask the Highway Department to waive the guidelines and authorize installation of a signal based on other needs of residents living east of Avenue A.

The request for a signal at East 23rd Street and Avenue A first came before the Human Relations Commission Advisory Committee, and was referred by city staff to the Citizens Traffic Commission, which recommended continued study to the City Council.

Harold M. Chatman, recently appointed to the Citizens Traffic Commission by the City Council, presented the recommendation at last week's Council meeting.

A because of a number of vehicles on Avenue A was explained by Mr. Chatman. He said the reason for the low traffic volume on East 23rd Street is that most residents have long since decided to take longer routes into and out of the neighborhood because of the high traffic on Avenue A. Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan noted that if a traffic signal was installed at East 23rd Street and Avenue A, more people would be using that intersection in the future and the traffic volumes meet traffic engineering guidelines in the future.

Because Avenue A is a U. S. Highway, approval from the Texas Highway Department is necessary before a signal can be installed. However, the City Council indicated they would be as persistent in seeking state approval at this location as they were in seeking a traffic signal at Parkway Drive and Zenith Avenue.

WHY NOT??

Where Do We Really Stand??

Recently in Hartford, Conn., Muhammad Ali was asked about the resignation of Andrew Young as the U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations. Ali said: "Just like me when I was jumped on for Vietnam. They made me ten times greater. They'll make Andrew Young ten times greater."

"Andrew Young is right, and all those who are crucifying him are gonna look like fools, cause its gonna be cold this winter," he said, adding that Young's resignation only can worsen U. S. relations with the Arab World, posing potential oil supply problems.

If the number of cases that flood the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) is any indication, job discrimination is alive and very well everywhere in America. The EEOC receives 85,000 new cases a year, more than one every two minutes the EEOC offices are open.

U. S. LAND OF THE FREE? BIDS COME ONCE EVERY TWO MINUTES!!!

Money in America still talks to help curb crime in the minority communities. We need money and jobs! It's just that simple. Minority Business Development Agency, formerly the Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE) as well as the Small Business Administration (SBA), can play a substantial part in the minority business development as well as numerous other sources with set aside funds for affected class minorities.

Minorities need more medium sized and large businesses to help hire other minorities to curb the crime rate in the minority communities as well as reduce the unemployment and underemployment rolls.

The most key and crucial issue is if you are Black, no matter what your status, position or standing is as far as white America is concerned, you are still just another "nigger", and don't you forget it.

Everyday I see Blacks, once they get a so called good job, position or what have you, they quickly change and how soon they (Blacks) forget where they have come from and who they really are. As soon as the props are knocked from under them, how fast they want to come home and become militant.

Together and collectively, we can make it, but it takes us all. No matter our status, we are all Black and in this boat together - Toms, Conservatives, Radicals, Liberals, and all the in betweens. We all want the same thing - FREEDOM, JUSTICE, EQUALITY and EQUAL OPPORTUNITY. That's the bottom line. Let's all get together for the common goal for all. Numbers mean power. Let's remember that and remember, no matter our financial, social, or any other standing as far as white America is concerned, we are all "niggers" and let us band our forces together and march to the polls. Remember Malcom X said we must use the ballot or the bullet. We don't have the bullet. If we did, we would be wiped out before we started. So we have no choice but the ballot. It is a terrific weapon. Try it and see!! The ballot will change conditions and minds. If we go to the polls in numbers, truly we can and we will really overcome.

Boat people are invading this country by the thousands each month. Black people unemployed and hungry loyal citizens will have problems. Boat people, on the other hand, will bring perhaps a spy in each boat load. Think about it!!

LEGISLATIVE ALERT

FOCUS ON INDONESIA: U.S. ASSISTANCE TO A GOVERNMENT DENYING HUMAN RIGHTS

(This is the final part of a series of 8 articles describing activities of foreign governments aided directly and indirectly by the U.S. and which flagrantly violate human rights.)

We are asked to join with members of the Congressional Black Caucus who have led in the opposition to such U.S. assistance.)

Political detention by the Indonesian government is one of the most serious and long-standing violations of human rights in the world. The present military government officially says it holds 31,000 prisoners for political reasons; Amnesty International places the figure closer to 100,000.

Since the abortive coup of September, 1965, the military government of Maj. Gen. Suharto has been arresting and detaining persons indefinitely for alleged "direct or indirect involvement in the coup." In the period following the military's takeover, as many as 1 million persons were massacred, according to a University of Indonesia study. An estimated 600,000 other persons were arbitrarily arrested.

Since 1975, the right to self-determination has joined prolonged detention as the most viable violation of human rights in Indonesia. In December of that year Indonesia invaded the former Portuguese colony of East Timor using American weapons.

It is now in the second year of war against Timorese nationalists in defiance of two U.N. resolutions.

While acknowledging these issues the U.S. government continues to support the ruling military government without hesitation. In fact in fiscal year 1978 the Carter administration is planning to raise military sales credits by 73% to $40 million, giving Indonesia more credits than ever to buy weapons. Meanwhile the gap between rich and poor continues to widen.

HUMAN RIGHTS... IN ARGENTINA

In our growing global concern for human rights, the American public has largely overlooked one crucial area within our own hemisphere where a potentially ominous trend may be taking shape.

For several years now, the Argentine government has been engaged in what some newspaper sources in that country have described as "the biggest outbreak of religious persecution in (Argentina's) history as an independent nation."

Since 1976, the places of worship of the Jehovah's Witnesses have been closed, as have been the publishing facilities of the cult's magazine, The Watchtower. Hundreds of Jehovah's Witnesses children have been expelled from or denied admittance to public and private schools. Dozens of others reportedly have been arrested, tortured and imprisoned. In a legal brief prepared by the Argentine Ministry of the Interior, the Jehovah's Witnesses were the subject of the following innuendos: "Liberty cannot be thought of in the case of a religion that admits cannibalism, ritual murder, or polygamy, and, by the same token, a religion such as is present in this case cannot be admitted regardless of the form it takes."

The present difficulties of the Jehovah's Witnesses began shortly after World War II, when the Argentine government formed a department of cults or religion within the Ministry of Foreign Relations. All religions were required to register with this newly formed agency.

On May 26, 1950, this registration was denied to Jehovah's Witnesses; and on July 12 of the same year their legal recognition was revoked.

These events coincided in time with the emergence in Argentina of a strong Hitlerite or Nazi sentiment which, in Germany, had included persecution of Jehovah's Witnesses along with the Jewish people.

In the minds of some observers, the intensified persecution of the 33,000 members of the Jehovah's Witness sect in Argentina may simply be the testing ground for a trial run for more massive Hitlerite attacks upon other minorities including the Jewish people. That a human rights set-back of major proportions may be presently underway in Argentina there would seem to be no doubt.

The Jehovah's Witnesses have been known to be in some sense, godly distributors of the domestic peace both in this country and abroad, in that they challenge, in simple but compelling ways, local and national customs which would seem to be inconsistent with the highest human good.

The Jehovah's Witnesses are the only major religious group in the United States which has consistently taught that religious teachings and practices which thwart marriage across artificial racial lines may be inconsistent with the will of God.

Such social gospel teachings in the America of the 1920's and 1930's would have been seen as antithetical to our national traditions or even, among some, our virtue. Under the intrepid leadership of Judge Rutherford during that period, the Jehovah's Witnesses sought racial harmony and oneness among the masses of largely lower income whites with the black community.

The issue of The Watchtower which is devoted to the Argentinean difficulties of the Witnesses has, perhaps significantly, only one other major article. The article, couched in theological context characteristic of the Jehovah's Witnesses, is entitled, "How All Men Come From One Man."

The difficulties of the Jehovah's Witnesses also stem from their evasion of oaths where possible, and from their unwillingness to bear arms. But the Jehovah's Witnesses have been assiduous in their adherence to the law and in their presenting themselves without bombast and in humility before the authorities, and then to request exemption or to accept imprisonment.

That the ghost of Hitler is on the loose throughout the world should be clear in many ways. Apartheidism, Ku Klux Klanism, and the myriad forms under which both human rights and the human spirit are stifled know no national or ethnic limits.

Such forces which deny any aspect of our common humanity threaten the peace and well being of us all.

Persons concerned with this raising of the dragon's head in officially Roman Catholic Argentina should write to local Roman Catholic bishops expressing concern. They should also write to the White House, Washington, D.C. and should be in contact with their local members of the U.S. Congress. For further information or to make contributions, one may address:

Frederick Franz, President, Watchtower Society of New York, Inc., 117 Adams Street, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11201.

Prayer Poem

The hymn, "Softly and Tenderly," reflects the spirit of rest, comfort and reward which the seekers of God will always find. The author of this prayer poem is Will L. Thompson, of whom little seems to be known.

Whether our ageless gifts are great or small, God accepts them... and us... and then uses these gifts to conform to the divine purpose. "Softly and tenderly Jesus is calling, calling for you and for me." Can we express these sentiments more nobly than in the following words?

Softly and tenderly, Jesus is calling
Calling for you and for me;
See, on the portals He's waiting and watching,

Watching for you and for me.

Why should we tarry when
Jesus is pleading,
Pleading for you and for me.
Why should we linger and heed not His mercies,
Mercies for you and for me?

Oh! for the wonderful love
He has promised,
Promised for you and for me.

Tho' we have sinned, He has mercy and pardon,
Pardon for you and for me.

"Our hearts are restless," said St. Augustine, "until we find rest in Thee."

"Thank You"

We would like to take this time and space and thank the residents of our neighborhood for coming to our rescue while we were out of the city on vacation last week. There were kind neighbors who helped clean up the mess and water during the hot water heater that burst in our house. Because of your concern, you did much to help us. May God continue to bless each of you is our prayer.

Thank you,

WORDS OF LIFE
Biblical Inspiration For The Week

"God has given... understanding."

-1 St. John 5:20

1. Understanding alludes most of us. We go through life for many years not fully understanding our parents, not understanding the needs of those whose lives are kept beyond our acceptable contacts, not fully understanding the sordidness and the glory of our past, and (perhaps more fortunately) not understanding or seeing the future. Life and the failure to understand are, most often, a common human experience. 2. Understanding "removes the veil." St. Paul says that here we only "see in part." That is because we can only fully comprehend most things "by-and-by." A darkened glass, the veil of the temporal, hides our vision of those things beyond the human sight. It is "over Jordan" that we see things fully, and so come to understand ing. Here, at best, is Mt. Pisgah; on the other side is Canaan Land.

3. God, nonetheless, gives us understanding. In rare moments of glory, the veil for a moment or for an instant parts, and we see in our mind's eye "the great White Throne," "the Heavenly Host" among whom our loved ones are and the vacant places prepared for us—who someday will see... and understand... God "face to face."

American for over 30 years on Capitol Hill, will Co-Chair the Legislative Weekend along with Mrs. Young. Caucus Fundraising Committee Chairman, William "Bill" Clay (D-Mo.) stated, "This year the fundraising activities have been expanded to include the First Annual V.I.P. Reception and Buffet Dinner Dance so that more supporters can join us." "As in recent years, we will have more supporters attending our Annual Awards Dinner than can meet in one ballroom. A live color telecast will transmit the Dinner program to an adjacent ballroom in the Hilton. The main Dinner ballroom has been sold out, but, seating for the Awards Dinner is still available in the adjacent ballroom. The Awards Dinner is a major event of the Weekend. Dinner honorees, speakers, master of ceremonies, and entertainment will be announced at a later date," Congressman Clay emphasized. "Events of the Ninth Annual Legislative Weekend begin Friday, September 21, 1979. The opening Plenary Session on Friday will address legislation affecting Black children. Later, that afternoon, the Legislative Workshops and Brain Trusts will convene to focus on the specific economic, social and political events of the past year and plans for the future. During the past year, the Black nation experienced further retrenchments by foes and retreats by friends. The need for increased legislative advocacy, and the need for increased support and expansion of our national legislative support network are critically important issues to be addressed this year," Chairwoman Collins advised. "All the events of the Ninth Annual CBC Legislative Weekend, from the National Black Leadership Roundtable meetings and the Legislative Workshops and Brain Trusts to the Fashion Show and Awards Dinner, serve interrelated purposes. The first purpose is to provide forums for the exchange of ideas and information on areas of concern to Black America. Secondly, in order to properly use that information, we must have funds for a legislative coordinating unit. That unit is the staff of the Congressional Black Caucus," summarized Congressman Clay. For further information contact: Connye Smith, Weekend Coordinator: (202/225-1691) or Carl Green, Legislative Workshop (202/225-1691).

Lubbock Woman, Sonya Toines, OACAA Specialist

Community Food and Nutrition is designed to reduce hunger by providing education and access to food programs for the low-income and economically disadvantaged. Community Action has been operating this program since 1977, going out into the community providing education on proper nutrition, and surveying food programs in the school systems. Sonya D. Toines is the OACAA's Nutrition Specialist, and she will be handling the food programs for this fiscal year. Sonya is from Lubbock Texas and is presently living in Odgen with her husband, Edwin. She holds a B.A. degree in Business Administration, earned at Prairie View A and M University in Texas. Sonya is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Fair, Jr. Utah Against Hunger is having a Food Stamp Awareness Campaign Drive. The Ogden Area Community Action Agency is joining forces with Utahns Against Hunger in a Food Stamp Awareness Campaign Drive. Utah is one of the lowest participating states in the Food Stamp Program. It has been stated in Utah, low-income are viewed as a causation factor in higher taxes, and as chillers rather than victims, and they are treated as such, but, then poverty can happen to anyone. The concerned of the FSAC is to encourage, poor people to at least apply for food stamps, to change the image of eligible food stamp recipient, and to remove the myths and misconceptions of the FSP and its recipients. There will be Public Service Announcements, bag stuffers, fliers, and posters in the Odgen Area in the near future, explaining the Food Stamp Program. If you have any questions about this service, call Mrs. Toines at 394-2657.

MEDICINE FOR OUR TIMES

(A book for seekers of personal growth)

A review of Growing Up, Spiritually by Kenneth Hagin. Tu-su: K. Hagin Ministries. 162 pages, paperback $7.96.

For black Americans who wish to be introduced to the increasingly visible religious resource known as the "full gospel" movement, here is a thoroughly credible book. One of the most revealing titles is the treatment of spiritual growth by Kenneth Hagin in his approach to verse 5 of the 23rd Psalm, "Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of my enemies." Hagin depicts these enemies not in personal terms, but in terms of attitudes which hinder personal growth and group progress, such as "inability," a feeling of "lack of opportunity" for "I can't," fear, doubt and the need to make excuses. Hagin does not speak directly or even consciously to black Americans, but his message "hurts." It reminds us that something may be

Southwestern Bell Telephone Involved Here With Students At Adult Learning Center

Business and education have much to gain from working together, according to Southwestern Bell's Dolores King.

"Many of our goals are identical," said Mrs. King. "Certainly we have a mutual goal of seeing that a student is prepared for employment in a worthwhile career."

To help in the educational process, Southwestern Bell offers schools a wide range of free programs covering subjects in which the company has the expertise to be of help, Mrs. King said. She added that the programs are easily adaptable for any classroom discussion.

"We offer more than 50 films, ranging from 10 to 30 minutes, covering such subjects as future communications, lasers, present telephone systems, Alexander Graham Bell, telephone courtesy and women in engineering," she explained.

In one classroom program, a combination of films, booklets and role playing teaches young students how the telephone works and how to use the telephone most effectively.

"The program, called 'Telezonia', familiarizes the students with all areas of telephone service," Mrs. King explained. "We instruct the students how to listen and speak on the telephone, how to use the telephone directory properly and how to make emergency calls."

Phone sets and a loud speaker unit are set up in the classroom to encourage class discussion. A visit by a telephone technician can also be arranged. The 'Telezonia' program is also available in Spanish, Mrs. King added.

"We also have two special programs developed for exceptional students," said Mrs. King. Speaking Over Barriers teaches trainable mentally retarded children how to use the phone for social and emergency situations. And for students with speech disorders, 'Magic of Speech' can help correct articulation problems.

For high school students, a program entitled "Thank You, Please Call Again," instructs students on how to use the telephone in a business situation.

"We set up telephones around the room to simulate a business and then students divide into secretaries, customers, and other roles," explained Mrs. King. "The idea is to teach the students to use the telephone effectively."

"Since the students at this age are becoming more oriented toward career in the middle and upper grade-levels, we also have a program entitled 'A Career Is Calling' which describes a variety of jobs within the company," Mrs. King said.

Three class participation games are also available for college-level students and professionals, Mrs. King said.

News From Home Folks

This feature is a news compilation from more than 100 black-owned and oriented newspapers in this nation. It deals with what blacks, who are all-too-often little recognized, are doing to promote full participation in American life by black Americans. It is thus a salute from all of our readers for unsung heroes... and is designed to be a challenge for all of us to keep on doing our very best.

The Chicago Observer tells of a courageous black Congresswoman's battle with corporate America to help end racial apartheid atrocities which mutilate black lives in white-minority ruled South Africa. May her tribe

"Relocation" considers the legal, moral, and social factors involved in moving a company from one location to another. In "Trebodies Island", the students become executives who compete to provide service to the residents of the island, and "Where Do You Draw the Line" focuses on ethics in the business world.

"We at Southwestern Bell feel that we have a responsibility to the schools and colleges to help students understand communications and the business world," Mrs. King said. "Through these programs, we hope to help students better understand our company and the jobs involved, and in return, we hope to learn more about the needs of the educational community."

increase! We thank the Observer for the following:

Congresswoman Cardiss Collins called on stockholders of Continental Bank to cease lending money to South Africa and to stop selling the South African Kruggerand—the gold coin that is fast becoming the symbol of South Africa's ties to the West.

At a recent stockholders meeting, Congresswoman Collins countered arguments justifying American corporate involvement in South Africa as beneficial to South African blacks. "While this argument might have some merit in instances where U.S. foreign investment is accompanied by equitable growth," she asserted, "it fails to apply to South Africa, for the simple reason that under that country's system of government the black majority is denied the benefits of citizenship and is therefore precluded from participating in the benefits of economic prosperity. Short of radical social, economic and political change in South Africa," she concluded, "it will be not possible to imagine a constructive role for U.S. capital in that country."

Citing estimates of $2.2 billion in credits extended to South African banks—an amount she asserted equalled the foreign exchange required to cover South Africa's defense cost—Congresswoman Collins accused the banks of "contributing directly to the reinforcement of the repressive institutions of apartheid."

The Congresswoman called on the stockholders of Continental Bank to "search their consciences, recognize reality and reassess their responsibilities at this critical juncture in United States Foreign policy."

The KITCHEN BEAT

In today's black American home, cooking is no longer the responsibility of one person. Because of busy and varied schedules, usually every member of the family at some time or another has to prepare personal meals or meals made for other members of the family. The Kitchen Beat is designed to meet some needs of the various cooks in the modern black family.

LOW-SODIUM FRIED POTATOES ARE HIGH IN FLAVOR

The American Heart Association reports that high blood pressure affects an estimated twenty-three million Americans, of whom 5 million are black. Most must follow a low-sodium diet. If your doctor prescribes a low-sodium diet you can still have tasty meals. Our recipe for salt is believed to be an acquired habit formed early in childhood. As a result, most of us are accustomed to seasoning our food with salt in cooking and at the table.

When it is necessary to follow a low-sodium diet and reduce salt intake, it doesn't have to be difficult to adjust to the taste transition. By becoming familiar with subtle uses of spices, herbs and other seasonings, you can fix tasty dishes without using table salt. Delicious fried potatoes made without salt? Impossible, you say. Not when they are fried in Fleischmann's Unsalted Margarine. Fleischmann's is made with 100% corn oil so that it is also low in saturated fats and cholesterol free. Extra flavor is added to this recipe with crushed garlic and chopped onion. Simply fry the potatoes, garlic and onion until golden brown, sprinkle with white pepper, paprika and serve.

Golden Fried Potatoes Courtesy Fleischmann's Margarine

- 4 tablespoons (1/2 stick) Fleischmann's Unsalted Margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 4 cups coarsely diced potatoes, parboiled
- 1/8 teaspoon McCormick ground white pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon McCormick paprika

Melt Fleischmann's Unsalted Margarine in a large skillet over medium heat. Add onion, garlic and potatoes to skillet; fry 8-10 minutes, stirring occasionally, until potatoes are golden brown. Stir in pepper and paprika. Spoon into serving bowl or basket. Makes 4 servings.

'Officer of the Month' 'We Need More Like Him'

"If I could clone him, I would immediately," said Chief Glen D. King in presenting Simon Young the Officer of the Month plaque in Dallas, Texas recently.

"We need more officers just like him," the chief said. "Simon Young is an example for everyone in the department to follow."

Simon A. Young, 38, is the Community Relations Officer for the Southwest Division, and was nominated for the July award by his division commander, Dep. Chief Don Stafford.

Young was presented the award at the Salesmanship Club meeting last week, after being selected by the Dallas Police Community Awards Committee.

The seven-year veteran was cited for both his on and off-duty civic achievements.

Young teaches the seventh-grade Bible class at the Marsalis Avenue Church of Christ, coaches a church basketball team, as well as plays on one, is the chaplain of the Texas

"Officer Young has the unique ability to interact with all community groups for the benefit of the police department by guiding community groups toward constructive action," Chief Stafford said in nominating Young.

He received a temporary assignment last year recruiting minority members of the department. According to Chief Stafford, "Officer Young recognizes the importance of this program, and even though he is no longer assigned this responsibility, he continues to assist toward its endeavor, even on his off-duty time."

Young has received 16 commendations, nine of them in the last year. In January, he received the department's Certificate of Civic Achievement.

He and wife, Grace, have three children. He is the brother of Ethel Young, Katie Rollison, James Young, and Emma Rayford, all of Lubbock.

Simon Young

The 1977 estimate of the farm population was 7,806,000 persons—down 5.4 percent from 1976, and 19.6 percent lower than in 1970.

There were about 400,000 blacks on farms in 1977, a sharp decrease from the approximately 850,000 in 1970. Proportionately, blacks have dropped from 9 to 5 percent of the total farm population so far in this decade. By comparison, the black population comprises 11.6 percent of the total U.S. population.

For husbands and wives, the problem of communication—or the lack of it—is often far more serious than marriage partners suspect. The following inventory from the Macon, Georgia, Times may be helpful to the married and the unmarried alike:

Cindy Gough, Cooperative Extension home economist - human environment, says good communications is "most important" for a successful marriage.

Yet husbands and wives often aren't aware of some of the mistakes they make when they try to talk—or communicate—with one another.

So Mrs. Gough has devised
