STOKES SPEAKER AT REESE BLACK HERITAGE WEEK

BLACKS IN THE NEWS

"BLACKS SHOULD NEVER GIVE UP"

Gene Gaines

Our Black in the news this week is a young man who refused to give up in attaining a college education. He is Gene Gaines. "I didn't give up in getting my college education," he says.

"I enrolled at Amarillo College after nine years in the U. S. Air Force as a freshman," he says. At the time he enrolled at this college, he was a 26 year old man with the determination to pursue his education. "I've always wanted to become an attorney regardless of price. I reached that goal in 1976 after eight years of going off and on to college," says Gaines.

Gaines attended West Texas State University at Canyon and graduated with a major in economics and a minor in government and English in 1968. He has been a member of the State Bar of Texas and licensed as an attorney and coun-

Little "Miss Valentine" Crowned At Lyons Chapel Baptist Church

Little Miss Kim Titus was crowned as "Miss Valentine" of Lyons Chapel Baptist Church last Sunday evening. She was crowned by last year's queen, Miss Shelia Hightower.

Kim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Titus; the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ray; and the great granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewin Butler.

A special compliment was given to all of the young ladies for a job well done. All of them looked simply lovely in their long dresses and fancy hair styles.

Lyons Chapel has always enjoyed Youth Day. It gives the young people of the church an opportunity to express themselves before the congregation.

Last Sunday evening, young people of

"Let us continue to help them to excel in whatever goals they strive to conquer," says Dr. Floyd Perry, pastor.

selor at law since Sept., 1973. He received his J.D. May, 1976 from Texas Tech University School of Law.

A young man who is concerned about the welfare of Blacks in the community, he has owned his own business, a roofing company, from May 1970 to Sept. 1973. He was a Manufacturing supervisor from August 1974 to Dec. 1975 at Texas Instruments.

A native of Anadarko, Oklahoma, he is the only Black attorney in Lubbock and has experienced many obstacles in his path to reach his goal. He never did give up. "I wanted to become an attorney and nothing was going to stop me from reaching this goal. At age 35, I finally accomplished this goal," he says.

"Kids need to know they can make it in life with a lot of hard work. The odds are you will make it if you work real hard to accomplish your goal," he says. "I have talked to many young Blacks who think if they are over age 24 it's too late to enroll in college. I tell them it is never too late to accomplish what you want to in life."

"You know, one never gets too old to learn something in life. Our young Blacks need to develop this kind of an attitude about life if they are go-

SCHOOL OFFICIALS ENCOURAGE INPUT FROM LOCAL CITIZENS

Recognizing that the desegregation of the Lubbock Public Schools is a community issue, the Board of Trustees actively encourages public input by individuals as well as interested groups. To better utilize the suggestions and concerns of the people, it is asked that they be sent in writing to Ed Irons, superintendent, 1628 19th Street, or to the neighborhood principal. As an additional measure to get input from throughout the community, many individuals and several organizations will be contacted soon by school personnel.

Trustees are charged with developing a plan for desegregation, and they will consider the suggestions and concerns of the people before any plan is finalized. Such a plan should not only comply with the desegregation order but also should be educationally sound. Where desegregation proceeds under the mandate of law, the best results require that changes be carefully adapted to local circumstances and total support by the community.

With the help of the citizens of Lubbock, the Board of Trustees is confident that any changes ahead can be accomplished smoothly and an excellent quality of education can continue without interruption.

SENIOR CITIZENS TO TOUR SAN ANTONIO NEXT WEEK

Now feeling well after illnesses are Jeff Joiner and Rev. B. A. Russell. L. Washington is a new participant at the Mae Simmons Center.

Last Thursday included a special challenge at the center. James Craven, Sr., James Moss and D. C. Fair, Sr. challenged all comers to a variety of indoor games. Prizes were awarded to the top contestants.

The birthdays of C. E. Paik and Mrs. Artie Mae Washington were celebrated at the senior citizens' center.

and they will consider the suggestions and concerns of the people before any plan is finalized. Such a plan should not only comply with the desegregation order but also should be educationally sound. Where desegregation proceeds under the mandate of law, the best results require that changes be carefully adapted to local circumstances and total support by the community.

With the help of the citizens of Lubbock, the Board of Trustees is confident that any changes ahead can be accomplished smoothly and an excellent quality of education can continue without interruption.

Many citizens of the community are still talking about the new television show, "HAPPENINGS", on KTXB-TV, CHANNEL 5, shown last Sunday afternoon. Guest on the show were Ms. Joan Y. Ervin, Gene Gaines, and George Scott. They were talking about the school situation in our community. This show, which will air twice a month, caught the eye of many Blacks in the community.

Speaking of schools in our community, a group was organized here last week to contribute input to the school board's desegregation plan which is due in U. S. Federal Judge Halbert O. Woodard's Court by April 1st. This organization calls itself "Citizens Alliance for Successful Schools."

A meeting will be held Sunday afternoon, Feb. 19, at 4 at the Unitarian Church, 36th and Ave. U. Another meeting is scheduled for Tuesday evening. The organization, according to a spokesperson, will...

The Greenboro, North Carolina, Carolina Peacemaker, tells of some wise words, of possible interest to readers everywhere, offered by Howard Lee, North Carolina's State Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources.

The Carolina Peacemaker quotes: "We have lost the feeling of being concerned, of being sensitive, of looking around and understanding the problems—and responding to those problems without some kind of self-gratification."

"We live in a society that has become so materialistic that it seems that people are centrally motivated today by virtue of what it means to them personally. "We have to refute that. We have to refute that spirit if we are to respond to the massive problems that face us not only in America, but right here in North Carolina."

Lee cited some of the problems that need our continued concern, including substandard housing, the rate of inflation, the low level of education, people of all ages who can't read, the increased social awareness of the handicapped, and the one out of five persons in the state who live below the poverty level. "These kinds of problems are not going to be solved by government," the Secretary cautioned. "Government will not have the time nor the ability to be able to search out the problems to their

BLACK EVENTS QUIZ

(This quiz is designed to accompany History-Making Black Happenings. It can be used for classroom discussion or to help you focus your own thinking on current issues.)

1) Debate has been going on for years—even decades—as to how debts (and especially debt interest payments) by poorer nations should be handled by the richer world powers.

Now Sweden has led the way in forgiving some $200 million in debts owed by some underdeveloped nations. Several questions are in order:

(a) Why, in your opinion, should debt payments to richer nations by the poorer nations become an issue of world debate?

(b) Should past exploitation or present problems of relief and national undernourishment be legitimate concerns in adjusting debt payments?

(c) What responsibility internally do the poorer nations have, if at all, in securing an equitable distribution of resources between their own rich and poor?

(d) Should the richer powers take a posture of moral or ethical responsibility for helping poorer nations become more nearly self-sufficient? In either case, why so?

2) What are your own emerging feelings or predictions on the racial complexities in Southern Africa? When will there be a transfer of power to a Black majority in Zimbabwe (or Rhodesia)?

continued, "then people ought to care about each other. And we have to start with our children—giving them a new feeling of involvement, of belonging."

The Oklahoma Eagle of Tulsa tells an all-too-familiar story of blacks not supporting blacks and of our criticizing in a way which hurts us all.

One is hard pressed to find a rationale for the devastating attack launched against Langston University by the state's only black senator, E. Melvin Porter of Oklahoma City.

Porter seems to have taken a page right out of the hand book of Langston's enemies and made it his own sermon. But why? That is the question which no knowledgeable person around the capitol or elsewhere seems able to answer.

Porter's outburst was devastating not because he was correct but because of the position he holds in the black political hierarchy of the state. He will be listened to, unfortunately.

He has placed a loaded gun in the hands of those who would destroy the school. Granted that the gun is loaded with blanks, it could still make a great deal of propaganda mileage. Yet an equally strange thing has occurred which indicates that the state may be growing away from the kind of sensational politics that Porter likes to practice. When he introduced his resolutions in the senate both the tone and the language were watered down. The full import of this has to be seen against the backdrop of his being the only black in an otherwise all-white body. This amounted to a rebuff of significant proportions and should not be overlooked.

But what about Porter's charges?

He complains that Langston is an inferior school which turns out inferior graduates. Yet Langston graduates comprise the overwhelming majority of the college grads in the state among black people; they comprise the overwhelming majority of the state's black leadership; the transcripts of Langston's graduates are accepted without reservation at all of the state's other colleges and universities which either means that Langston is a qualified school or that the state's other colleges and universities are less than qualified. Not only is the above statement true of state schools but also of out of state schools as well.

Langston's graduates presently make up the backbone of Tulsa's black leadership and professional elite. This is especially true at the educational level where in Tulsa at least 45 percent of the present black teacher corps are Langston graduates. Most of Tulsa's teachers who graduated from Langston have earned master's degrees from other universities and some have their doctorates from OSU, OU and other state institutions of higher learning. What, pray tell, does this mean?

Where prior adverse circumstances have been present?

Where racially different persons may enrich or widen the educational experience of others?

Where a diversity of society's services would result?

In any event, how do you support your conclusions?

In all of our communities may his tribe increase. The story follows:

The Rev. Londell Williams, 40, was elected to the Texarkana, Arkansas Board of Directors.

The vote was unanimous. He was elected to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of Mayor Harvey Nelson.

The Rev. Mr. Williams is in his fourth year as pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist Church. His father, the late Rev. George Williams, was pastor there for 43 years after being pastor at Newtown Baptist Church for 40 years.

CAREER WOMAN

"BLACK WOMEN SHOULD GO INTO SALES"

Joyce M. Curtis

Our Career Woman of the week is a lady who wanted to become a salesperson. She is Joyce M. Curtis. "I've always enjoyed the challenge of working for a goal in life," she says.

A graduate of Evans High School in Slaton and native of Lubbock, she got her opportunity when she was employed by Frito Lay, Inc. in 1968. She started with the company as a packer, and became the first of three Black women to be hired by the company. She was the first Black woman hired in the sales department of the company.

After being a packer for six years, she wanted to do something different. "I wanted to be able to work with people," she says. "I have always had to work ever since I was old enough to work. I am really glad my parents made me work," continues the lady.

Even as a divorced person with two small children to provide for, she wanted to give her children the things other children had with a mother and a father. "This is when I applied for a sales position with Frito Lay, and after a couple of weeks, they told me I had the job if I wanted it," she makes known.

"The job was hard at first because the men didn't like the idea of working with a woman, and especially a Black woman," she admits. "You see, I was determined to be a success. The harder they tried to discourage me, the harder I worked. I was determined to be the very best. I wouldn't settle for being nothing but the best."

She started at the bottom and worked her way up to the top.

Her advice to young people today is "You can do anything you want to do if you want to put your mind to it and always think positive. But most of all, put God first in all that you do."

"Young people need to set a goal in life and decide what they want to work toward in life."

She believes that more Blacks should go into the sales field because in sales there is no ceiling or limit on what a person can make.

At present time, she is not in the sales profession because she has just become a mother. She will also be joining her husband in Maryland who is in the U. S. Army.

A member of the Manhattan Church of Christ, she will tell you that she will never feel insecure, because she is a salesperson. A Career Woman with a lot of confidence.

NO PROGRESS WITHOUT STRUGGLE

"If there is no struggle, there is no progress. Those who profess to favor freedom, and yet depreciate agitation, are men who want crops without plowing up the ground... Power concedes nothing without a demand. It never did and never will."

--Frederick Douglass

OUR GIANTS SPEAK

(Why are black folks often unconsciously ashamed of themselves? Nearly three-quarters of a century ago, Dr. Du Bois spoke to this question in terms which are deeply significant for today.)

"...After the Egyptian and Indian, the Greek and Roman, the Teuton and Mongolian, the Negro is a sort of seventh son, born with a veil, and gifted with second-sight in this American world,—a world which yields him no true self-consciousness, but only lets him see himself through the revelation of the other world. It is a peculiar sensation, this double-consciousness, this sense of always looking at one's self through the eye of others, of measuring one's soul by the tape of a world that looks on in amused contempt and pity. One ever feels his twoness,—an American, a Negro; two souls, two thoughts, two unreconciled strivings; two warring ideals in one dark body, whose dogged strength alone keeps it from being torn asunder.

The history of the American Negro is the history of this strife,—this longing to attain self-conscious manhood, to merge his double self into a better and truer self. In this merging he wishes neither of the older selves to be lost. He would not Africanize America, for America has too much to teach the world and Africa. He would not bleach his Negro soul in a flood of white Americanism, for he knows that Negro blood has a message for the world. He simply wishes to make it possible for a man to be both a Negro and an American, without being cursed and spit upon by his fellows, without having the doors of Opportunity closed roughly in his face.

This, then, is the end of his striving; to be a co-worker in the kingdom of culture, to escape both death and isolation, to husband and use his best powers and his latent genius. These powers of body and mind have in the past been strangely wasted, dispersed, or forgotten. The shadow of a mighty Negro past flits through the tale of Ethiopia the Shadowy and of Egypt the Sphinx. Throughout history, the powers of single black men flash here and there like falling stars, and die sometimes before the world has rightly gauged their brightness. Here in America, in the few days since Emancipation, the black man's turning hither and thither in hesitant and doubtful striving has often made his very strength to lose effectiveness, to seem like absence of power, like weakness.

ANNE E. BROWDER
Ascertainment & Compliance
Coordinator, NPC News, Chicago

The world of television claims Anne Browder. She's an important behind-the-scenes executive member of the news team at the National Broadcasting Company station in Chicago.

Anne started at NBC as an office receptionist. But she quickly advanced through secretarial assignments to news-cost coordinator to her present position.

Education has always been the bedrock in Anne's career. She's not satisfied with her background of two years of college-level work. She looks forward to attending a news-training program this year at Columbia University.

It's a full life for Anne Browder. But she's making it better, because she keeps learning and growing.

"Your place is wherever you choose to make it. Your aspirations and ambitions should have no limitations."

ONE MAN'S FAITH IN A DREAM

EDWARD W. BROOKE
United States Senator,
State of Massachusetts

The junior Senator from Massachusetts is a lawmaker with an enviable record of achievement.

Edward Brooke is a native of Washington, D.C. He followed his Bachelor of Science degree from Howard University with a Bachelor of Laws and a Master of Laws from Boston University Law School. And, at Boston, he was also Editor of the Law Review.

His active law career led him into politics and, ultimately, to his election as Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1962.

Then came his successful campaign for United States Senator, which saw him seated in Congress in 1967.

Today, Senator Brooke serves on both the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee and the Appropriations Committee of the Senate. He has received a score or more of honorary degrees from colleges and universities.

His firm belief in education and personal growth has guided his rewarding career of service to his state and country.

"I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will be judged not by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character."

"Determination determines success. He who progresses announces to his impediments, 'Pardon me, sirs, I'm coming through!'"

FRANK W. HALE, JR.
Associate Dean, Graduate School,
Ohio State University

Frank W. Hale, Jr. manages to find time from his demanding duties as Associate Dean of the Graduate School of Ohio State University to speak before many civic and professional organizations.

He's well qualified for such honors, for he received both an A.B. and M.A. in Speech, Political Science, and English from the University of Nebraska and his doctorate from Ohio State. The University of London was the site of further post-graduate study in English Literature.

Dr. Hale has had considerable administrative experience on the faculties of Oakwood College (Huntsville, Alabama) where he rose to President and Central State College (Wilberforce, Ohio) where he chaired the Department of English.

He is widely known as an analyst and authority on speech, writing extensively on the subject. He is the author of several texts and non-fiction works.

Dr. Hale's recognition by his peers, his work as consultant, his service on boards of directors illustrate his willingness to give freely of his talents.

"When the opportunity is there, you've got to be ready to take advantage of it. Are you ready?"

ALBERT J. DUNMORE
Manager, Urban Affairs Dept.,
Chrysler Corporation

Albert J. Dunmore is Manager of the Urban Affairs Department of Chrysler Corporation. He guides his department as it works closely with local community-action organizations and handles a variety of minority-affairs assignments with news media and national groups.

Mr. Dunmore brings to his career an extensive record of achievement with the Black press. He began as editor of the campus newspaper at Hampton Institute in Virginia. After graduation, he was a sports official for a time, then handled a number of sports writing, news reporting, and editing posts for the Philadelphia Independent, Pittsburgh Courier, and Michigan Chronicle.

His desire to serve his community is convincingly expressed in his civic associations: the Detroit Inter-Faith Action Council; Detroit Summer Committee which funds recreational activities; Detroit Urban League; NAACP; and a number of advisory boards and committees on urban affairs.

His current executive role with a national corporation enables him to use communication skills to even greater advantage.

"Black power is a state of mind. It needs a good education to be effective."

THOMAS H. TIPTON
President, Vanguard Associates, Inc.

Tom Tipton seems to be a man with no free time. It's not enough for him to head his own advertising and public relations firm in Minneapolis-St. Paul. No—Tom also sings (and records) and sits in at times with name acts appearing in the Twin Cities. And he's also into producing and directing TV 2nd stage programs of Black interest.

A basketball and track man at Morgan State College, Tom Tipton quickly found a business career to his liking. He began working in public relations in the D.C. area. Then he decided Minnesota was wide-open territory for his talents.

Now, he's putting his drive to work in advertising, showing national companies that the Black community is one with special interests and special needs. Tom Tipton is the kind of man who can make his performance match his promises.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON MEETING GOD IN THE SANCTUARY

- How lovely is thy dwelling place, O Lord of hosts!
- My soul longs, yea, faints for the courts of the Lord; my heart and flesh sing for joy to the living God.
- Even the sparrow finds a home, and the swallow a nest for herself, where she may lay her young, at thy altars, O Lord of hosts, my king and my God.
- Blessed are those who dwell in thy house, ever singing thy praise! Selah.
- Blessed are the men whose strength is in thee, in whose heart are the highways to Zion.
- As they go through the valley of Baca they make it a place of springs; the early rain also covers it with pools.
- They go from strength to strength; the God of gods will be seen in Zion.
- O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer; give ear, O God of Jacob! Selah.
- Behold our shield, O God; look upon the face of time anointed!
- For a day in thy courts is better than a thousand elsewhere. I would rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God than dwell in the tents of wickedness.
- For the Lord God is a sun and shield; he bestows favor and honor. No good things does the Lord withhold from those who walk uprightly.
- O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man who trusts in thee!

MEMORY SELECTION:

One thing have I asked of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his temple. Psalms 27:4

Greater First Baptist Church

Services were well attended last Sunday. We had a joyful time in the Lord all day. Our pastor, Rev. Wilson Baldwin, delivered the morning message. It was enjoyed by everyone.

Sister Rohelen Johnson, president of the Pastor's Aid, sponsored a program last Sunday night. We had a glorious time praising the Lord.

Sunday afternoon, Feb. 19, at 3 p.m., we are to worship with the Pleasant Home Baptist Church of Post, Texas in the nineteenth anniversary of the Rev. Mrs. L.E. Moore. Rev. Baldwin will bring the message of the hour.

Let us continue to pray for and visit our sick and shut in members of the church and community.

TULIA, TEXAS

Jackson Chapel Church of God in Christ

Sunday School opened with singing and praises. The lesson brought out that people should rely on other human beings, but on the Almighty and all loving Lord of Creation. It was beautifully taught by all teachers.

Morning services followed. Our young people were in charge of the services. It was Junior Church Day and we had a good time. The Lord met us

"THINK ABOUT IT!!"

by Evelyn Roberts

Our precious grain that God gave us makes up rivers of booze that floods our Nation. Think about it! Liquor has moved into our main streets, into country clubs, and the corner grocery store. Even into our church circles, one becomes respectable, accepted as the American way.

But not God's way. It is a disgrace to God and a shame before the heathen world that the United States suppose to be a Christian Nation. We cannot hold a government conference or meet with men of State from other nations without drowning their intellects, consciences, and good sense with alcohol. The Bible says it is not for Kings, O' Lemuel, it is not for kings to drink wine, nor princes strong drink, lest they drink and forget the law, and pervert the judgement of any of the afflicted. (Proverbs 31:4-5)

Let us wake up God's judgement is near. Continue next week: "PLEASURE"

He spoke on opened with prayer; "Doctrinizing the Young People; How to be Young Ladies and Men of God."

We welcome our visitors Mr. and Mrs. Sanson of Plainview. We closed our services in prayer.

We are in continuous prayer for everyone.

We will be in Amarillo if it's God's will on Saturday night. Our pastor will be preaching there at the District meeting. Elder N.C. Coffey is pastor.

Y.P.W.W. met with Bible drills, lessons and Queen of the Chair. Miss Diana Thornton held Queen for next Sunday.

We would like to give special thanks to Mrs. Roy Lacey of Slaton, Texas who supplied our choir with all their records and literature. May God ever bless her. We believe in giving flowers while they live.

Evening services closed with our pas-

WORDS OF LIFE

Biblical Inspiration For The Week

"You will be a blessing."—Genesis 12:2

1. You are important. We so often turn to others to do great things for us. But here we are told that we are to be the subject or the giver of benefactions and not the object.
2. You have much to give. There's more good—and strength for goodness, kindness and love—in each of us than we readily use. That is because we fail to recognize always that God's life and strength are our possessions.
3. Blessing others is our destiny. Don't miss out on your rightful due. We are each and all called to be benefactors of the world. But especially we are called to be benefactors of those closest to us...among our family members and with and for our friends.
4. Bless in God's special way! Become a tither in your church. This is the fulfillment of a special blessing on our part. God gives each of us the capacity to bless in this way. Remember Jesus' words: "My yoke is easy and my burden is light."
