"Competing in Dallas this week"

VYING FOR "MISS BLACK TEXAS"

One of twenty-two young ladies competing in the Miss Black Texas Universe Pageant at the Dallas Convention Center this week is Avis Elise Patterson, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. T. J. Patterson of 2405 Globe Avenue.

A sophomore at Texas Tech University, she is majoring in interior design.

A "Miss Black Lubbock Teenage of 1976", her talent on Friday evening, July 20, will be singing and dramatizing of "I Can't Live A Day Without You."

Work sessions are scheduled all week for the young ladies who arrived in Dallas last Sunday afternoon. Preliminary competition will be held on Friday evening with the Finals on Saturday, July 21.

Also accompanying Ms. Patterson to Dallas is Charress Kelly, the newly elected "Miss Black Lubbock Pageant" who was chosen last Friday evening at the Dunbar High School auditorium.

Other local staff members are to be among those in attendance on Friday evening. "We want many more from Lubbock to be present at this event on Friday evening," says Ms. Joan Y. Ervin, associate director state pageant and local director.

"We have good talent this year, and we know we can win. We would appreciate as many telegrams as we can get to be sent to Avis on Friday night," says Ms. Ervin.

Ms. Patterson is sponsored by the Lubbock Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

KMCC RECEIVED POSITIVE SUPPORT

KMCC received positive support from the community last Saturday night on the hard-hitting television documentary of "Scared Straight". This program was designed to scare the crime out of juvenile delinquents and it was seen over KMCC-TV, Channel 28 on July 14, 1979.

This program was sponsored in major television markets as a public service (without commercial interruption) by The Signal Companies.

Twice each day, with the full support of the prison officials and the surrounding community, a group of juveniles enters the prison to serve a three-hour "service". We (as a community) had the opportunity to witness such an event.

We hope that along with the reported 10,000 teenagers that went through the "lifers" program at Rahway and are now participating in community programs and going straight, that next year there will be a report of even a higher percentage.

SECRETARY KERPS ANNOUNCES AID TO HELP MINORITY FIRM

Secretary of Commerce Juanita M. Kreps announced last week approval of the largest loan guarantee ever made for a minority-owned firm in the history of the Department of Commerce. The firm manufactures something called food pouches which will make obsolete ten old C and K rations familiar to generations of American G.I's.

Shown above are Cardiss Collins, Chairman, Congressional Black Caucus Nadar Ali, Vice President, American Pouch Food Company Luther H. Hodges, Under Secretary of Commerce - Designate Allen Cheng, Chief Executive Officer, American Pouch Food Company Jack Watson, Assistant to the President of Intergovernmental Affairs.

Secretary of Commerce Juanita M. Kreps today announced approval of the largest loan guarantee ever made for a minority-owned firm in the history of the Department of Commerce.

The firm manufactures something called food pouches which will make obsolete the old C and K rations familiar to generations of American G.I's.

Approval of the $5.5 million in loan guarantees by the Commerce Department's Economic Development Administration for the American Pouch Food Company of Willowbrook, Illinois, will elevate the company into the top 100 minority-owned firms in the country and create 475 jobs in economically distressed areas of Chicago.

Secretary Kreps said she was especially pleased to have a part in the announcement because it exemplified the kind of cooperation between private industry, the financial community and the Federal government to aid distressed areas which EDA is committed to promoting.

The firm will package pre-cooked food in a three-layer pouch to be sold to the Defense Department as a replacement to both the C and K-type field rations for military forces. The ready-to-serve meals will be prepared through a technology known as retort-pouch involving vacuum packaging of the food. The $21.3 million contract to provide such services to the defense agency was arranged through the Commerce Department's Office of Minority Business Enterprise in January, and marked the largest Federal contract ever signed by a minority-owned corporation.

In today's action, EDA is guaranteeing 90 percent of the unpaid balance of a $3,000,000 loan extended to the firm by the Aetna Life Insurance Company to help purchase machinery and equipment and 90 percent of the unpaid balance of a $2,500,000 loan from the First National Bank of Chicago to be used as working capital.

The funds will be used to purchase and renovate plants at 4603 Gladys Street in the city's southside and at 2548 South Federal Street, on the westside. The Gladys Street plant is located in an inner-city neighborhood designated by EDA as a Special Impact Area because of high unemployment.

EDA approved the financial assistance for American Pouch Food Company, Inc., in support of Chicago Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS) process. EDA and Chicago are participating in the CEDS process to demonstrate the effectiveness of coordinating public and private investments to create jobs. Chicago CEDS is emphasizing the revitalization of inner-city areas to provide jobs and income for the unemployed.

Company officials anticipate that 475 jobs will be created with the start of production with an increase in the total workforce to 610 when processing goals are achieved.

They anticipate that minority-group workers will eventually represent nearly 50 percent of the workforce.

The American Pouch Food Company, Inc., will provide $1,567,000 in equity to complete the $7,067,000 total cost of purchasing, renovating, and operating the plants.

The $3,000,000 loan from the Aetna Life Insurance Company is repayable in 15 years at an annual 10.5 percent rate of interest. The loan from the First National Bank of Chicago is repayable in seven years at an annual interest rate of two percent above the bank's corporate base rate.

WHY NOT??

by Eddie P. Richardson ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT NEEDED IN BLACK COMMUNITY

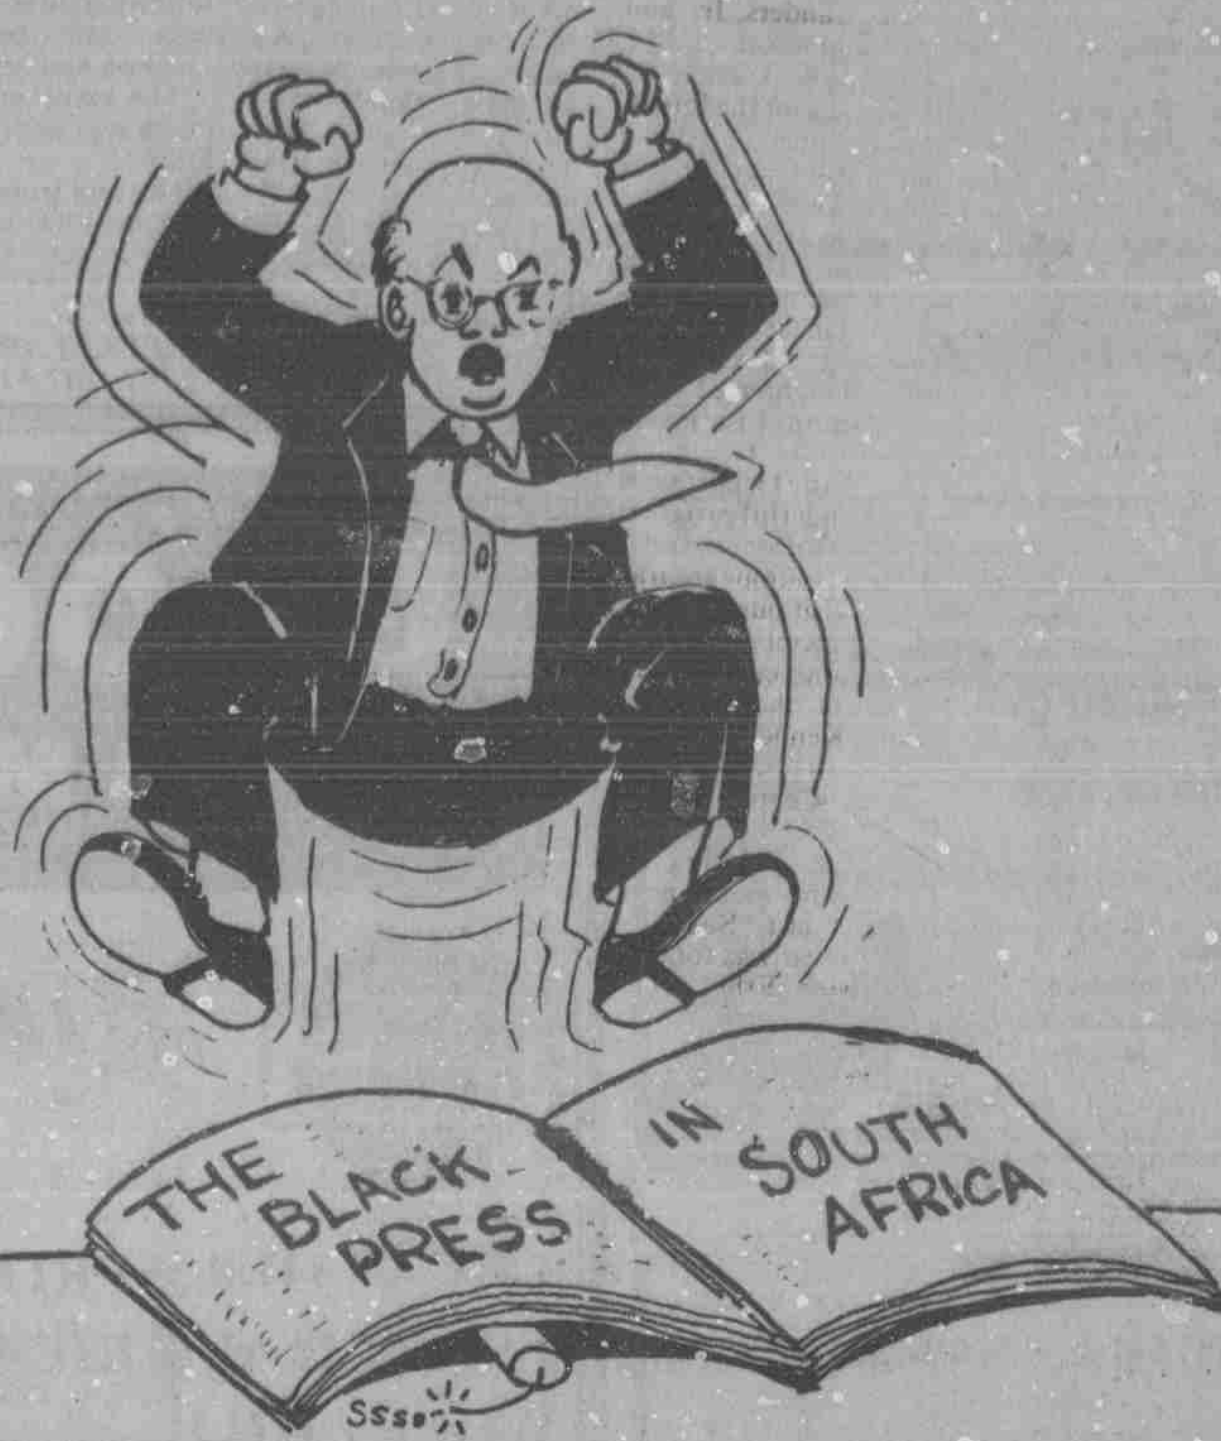

We've heard it over and over again until we're tired of hearing it, but it is true. We need more economic development in the Black Community of Lubbock. Time is passing and we haven't made the move we need to make to get a piece of the economic pie which is being baked in this city of nearly 180,000 people daily.

FOCUS ON REDUCING MINORITY UNEMPLOYMENT

The President's war on inflation calls for the nation to maintain a relatively high overall unemployment rate. For blacks and others who are poor, this means disproportionately high and long-standing unemployment from which there is no relief.

WHY ARGUE? THE FACTS ARE HERE!

LETTERS TO EDITOR WRITE ME!! PLEASE!!

Dear Editor:

Loneliness is sometimes a suffocating misery that we have all experienced at least once in our lives. It is for this reason that I am writing your publication.

Sincerely, (signed) James D. Phillips, No. 051896 P. O. Box 221 (73-103) Raiford, Florida 32083

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This young brother is a lonely person. It would be a great thing if there were some of you who would let him know you understand how he feels. Perhaps, he could share experiences with some of you. Ye Ed.)

I Have To Disagree!!!

We have heard much about the Economic Development funds for this area and the guidelines of the make-up of the Board. Economic Development is just what it means. Politicians need a break. Let the people have a chance to plan their own destinies.

BLACK EMPOWERMENT By Dr. Nathaniel Wright, Jr. Human Rights Activist

WELFARE STATE MIND-SET

A small group of men and women involved with public policy issues relating to our central cities recently addressed itself to the question of what is frequently called "bootstrap economics" from within the black community.

The essential question here is what can blacks do for themselves to help toward their own economic development? At first, the suggestions were placed before the group in rapid fire succession. Then, suddenly, there was a cloak of gloom, when one person present remarked: "But what are you going to do about the 'Olive me something' mind-set within the black community?"

All those in the group were black; and to some of them the old Great Depression theme:

Jesus Christ will lead me And P. O. R. will feed me. What cause have we, then, to fear?

we all too fresh in— or seared deeply upon—their memories.

A state of mind is crucial in life decisions both on a personal and social (or political and ethnic) basis. That there has been a "sense of dependency" within the black community has never been a secret.

In order to enslave a man or a woman—and hold a person in bondage—merely one of the first requirements is to instill in such a person the greatest possible dependence upon the one who would be master. The black community—which has been one of the most severely wounded by a deeply depraved form of human enslavement—has had a crippling sense of dependence hammered deep within its self-concept.

Not long ago, in reviewing a doctoral dissertation soon to be published in book form, there appeared these tragically telling words: "No matter how variegated black leadership may be, there has been a strong inclination to welfare-state economics, which does not mix well with the idea of self-help and bootstrap economics."

This is a terrible indictment of the systematic degradation to which black Americans have been subjected, perhaps for so long a time by white Americans that it is now almost entirely unconscious on white America's part. This latter fact deepens the tragedy and severely complicates the difficulty of "getting the white man's 'inconceivable road-blocking' stopped. White Americans cannot be convinced readily to cease an ingrained habit which they will not easily see as a habit on their part at all.

The message here was dramatically underscored in a matter of trained black professionals—almost all of whom were clergymen, hence leaders in the black community.

A candidate for public office spoke eloquently of how, historically, "the greats" in black America have not only had outside help but also—and perhaps chiefly—had immense and seemingly insurmountable outside obstacles "which only their own personal grit and unconquerable determination" could enable them to overcome. The speaker urged that, along with more governmental help and local community support, perhaps the most important element for black survival and success remains, even today, a personal and collective determination. "Blacks must be of a mind," the speaker noted, "to say to themselves and to the world that, regardless of what does or does not come, we shall stick together, and 'we shall overcome!'"

The speaker was not bored but his words were met with the stork silence of clear disapproval. What the minister wanted to hear was what black Americans were going to get, not what we—regardless of what comes our way—must give of ourselves, if we are ever to become a truly self-sufficient people.

It was with the kind of inescapable awareness in mind that the small analysts concluded that what the Carter Administration does for blacks can never be more than like "the two spot calling for the Ace." Help from Washington is the "two spot." What we do with the two spot is the most important element. Otherwise, when the "help from Washington" is withdrawn by public sentiment or runs out, we will be not better off—or perhaps even worse off—than before.

A part of "the Ace" on our part, then, must be in reference to employment—the insistence that (a) jobs opened to blacks are permanent jobs, (b) jobs given to blacks are at least in proportion to our part of the population, (c) jobs are afforded at all levels in every branch of the government, and (d) job tests have "widened standards" and not "lower standards" so as to include us.

In regard specifically to "widened standards," we as blacks have allowed ourselves in a foolhardy and self-defeating way to get caught in a trick bag. "Standardized tests," so-called, are always "biased tests" so as to give positive consideration to the attributes of the preferred or powerful group.

Yet all groups have some specific attributes which are unique to or more largely represented in their group. Testing for jobs, college entrance, upgrading or anything else should take into consideration the widest range of virtues and beneficial attributes afforded by the widest spectrum of racial ethnic or other group importance.

Hence, we must never let anyone get away with the slightest suggestion that "standards must be lowered" in most cases to get blacks in. Further, whenever "new white skills" have been needed, there is the old device of "on-the-job training" that has been resorted to without a second thought.

We as blacks must be vigilant that both (a) and (b) are met—both the "widened standards" and the "help from Washington" is withdrawn by public sentiment or runs out, we will be not better off—or perhaps even worse off—than before.

Come to Church

TWENTIETH & BIRCH CHURCH OF CHRIST

One of the great weeks in the experience of the Twentieth & Birch family is last week's effort. Brother Shelton Gibbs, III did a wonderful job of proclaiming the gospel of grace and truth. We were blessed with ten meaningful responses, four of which were conversions. With the exception of Monday night, the services each evening saw a full-house. To God be the glory.

Among our sick and shut in is Larry McCormick who is presently a patient at Methodist Hospital, Room 339. Let us continue to pray for him and others who are ill this week.

Sister Nan and Brother Carroll will be away from us for the next two weeks. They are vacationing.

HOW TO TREAT YOUR ENEMIES

II KINGS 6:8-10, 15-23

II Kings 6:8-10

8 Once when the king of Syria was warring against Israel, he took counsel with his servants, saying, "At such and such a place shall be my camp."

9 But the man of God sent word to the king of Israel, "Beware that you do not pass this place, for the Syrians are going doing there."

10 And the king of Israel sent to the place of which the man of God told him. Thus he used to warn him, so that he saved himself there more than once or twice.

II Kings 6:15-23

15 When the servant of the man of God rose early in the morning and went out, behold, an army with horses and chariots was round about the city. And the servant said, "Alas, my master! What shall we do?"

16 He said, "Fear not, for those who are with us are more than those who are with them."

17 The Elisha prayed, and said, "O Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may see." So the Lord opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw; and behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha.

18 And when the Syrians came down against him, Elisha prayed to the Lord, and said, "Strike this people, I pray thee, with blindness." So he struck them with blindness in accordance with the prayer of Elisha. 19 And Elisha said to them, "This is not the way, and this is not the city; follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom you seek." And he led them to Samaria. 20 As soon as they entered Samaria, Elisha said, "O Lord, open the eyes of these men, that they may see." So the Lord opened their eyes, and they saw; and lo, they were in the midst of Samaria.

21 When the king of Israel saw them he said to Elisha, "my father, shall I slay them? Shall I slay them?"

22 He answered, "You shall not slay them. Would you slay those whom you have taken captive with your sword and with your bow? Set bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink and go to their master."

23 So he prepared for them a great feast; and when they had eaten and drunk, he sent them away, and they went to their master.

Across The Nation

News From Home Folks

This feature is a news compilation from more than 100 black-owned and oriented newspapers in this nation. It deals with what blacks, who are all-too-often little recognized, are doing to promote full participation in American life by black Americans. It is thus a salute from all of our readers for unsung heroes... and is designed to be a challenge for all of us to keep on doing our very best.

Some sad and sentimental local stories are of interest, perhaps in some deeply significant ways to all of us.

Earlier this year, we were all saddened by the events surrounding the departure from the military service by General Daniel "Chappie" James. Then came his sudden death.

We cannot easily forget him in death no more than we could have ignored him in life. Criticized during his lifetime as much as praised, he had one life's goal: the betterment of conditions everywhere for all black Americans. His greatest legacy possibly was his demonstration that we must be flexible in our strategies but intransigent in our goals.

The Columbus, Ohio, Oxy memorialized him in the following way:

He was the most powerful black man in the history of this country. That is how one close friend and colleague described General Daniel "Chappie" James, who died last weekend at the altar his death at the age of 38 from a heart attack.

United States, Chappie was the first person with authority to push that little red button that would launch a nuclear attack," the friend said.

And, in fact, Chappie James' final assignment had been as commander of the North American Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs, Colorado, where he led that elite group of soldiers whose sole responsibility was to man the 12-story silo, deep in the ground, where the country's nuclear command resides.

But we will remember Chappie James for other things.

He was one of the elite group of black men who were trained as the country's first black pilots, at Tuskegee Institute during World War II. They produced some of our foremost black leaders, James—from Percy Sutton to Thurgood Marshall.

In an act that was unusual for a black officer, Chappie James was among a half dozen young black pilots who were arrested in 1949 for a sit-in at an officers club in Indiana that had previously been all-white.

Although in recent years, he had gained a reputation as a defender of the United States as "the greatest country in the world," Chappie James throughout his long career, remained critical of racial bias, discrimination and bigotry—and he fought those ills wherever he was.

In 1975, Chappie James became the first black man to become a four-star general—an accomplishment that many in our communities, particularly those of us who remember the segregated armed forces of World War II—considered to be like a Joe Louis knockout of a Max Schmeling.

President Carter has called General James "a superb military officer in times of peace or war." To us in the black community he was much, much more than that. He was one of those who succeed against the enormous odds in this society and who continue, in their sometimes quiet way, to struggle against racism and bigotry.

We greatly mourn his loss.

The Chicago Weekend tells of a report which "tells it like it is" in regard to racism and the opportunities of blacks to borrow. The Weekend notes: Race, not income, appears to be the most important factor in approving home mortgages in Chicago, according to a study recently released by the National Training and Information Center.

The 251-page report looked at home lending patterns in eight cities, including Chicago.

Low mortgage activity "appears to be more closely related to racial characteristics than income characteristics of neighborhoods," especially in Chicago, Columbus, Ohio, and Oklahoma City, the study noted.

The report uses data filed by lenders under the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act of 1975 for lending during 1976.

The other cities studied in the report are Cleveland; Hartford, Conn.; Salt Lake City; Waterloo, Iowa; and Wilmington, Del.

Nationwide, the study found that 61.6 per cent of all conventional mortgages go to only one quarter of the neighborhoods studied, while the bottom quarter received 3.4 per cent.
