Chatman and Hicks Named "Man & Woman of the Year"

Mr. Harold Chatman

to the late Sover LaRita Scott who was loved by all. A memorial scholarship was also dedicated in her honor.

Chosen as "Woman of the Year" was Mrs. Katie Mae Hicks while Harold M. Chatman was chosen "Man of the Year."

A dedicated church worker, Mrs. Hicks expressed her happiness over being the recipient of this year's award. "I was serving my fellow man and appreciate this award," said Mrs. Hicks.

Chatman, who serves as president of the Lubbock Association (Janetenth) Commission, Inc., is a local educator and has served in many civic committees in Lubbock. "I have had cancer for nearly nine years, but God is keeping me here to work for my fellowman," he said.

Mrs. A. W. Wilson, last year's "Woman of the Year," presented Mrs. Hicks her award while Y. J. Patterson presented Chatman his award.

Dr. Charles Henry, guest speaker of the evening, reminded the audience how important it is to the theme for the evening was Sover Karp Edwards. She defined the theme, and advised the audience of the responsibility of each.

By 8:30 p.m. introduced by Sora Shirley Gram who also served a mistress of ceremonies. Sora Josephine Hill announced the award.

The audience was favored with musical selections from Avis Elise Williams and Sora Shelia Patterson who sang "You Got A Friend" and "Massaries."

Sora Dorothy Phao, who shared a few tears, gave an overview of the beautiful life of the late Sora LaRita Scott. Sora Rose Lincoln played "The" in her memory. "She was our friend and was concerned about her fellowman," said Sora Phao.

Rev. Derrick Carter offered the invocation and benediction. Open invocation and benediction opening song was "Lift Every Voice and Sing."

Mrs. Hooks Warns "Freedom Is Not Free!"

The local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) held its annual Freedom Fund Banquet last Saturday evening at the University Center on the campus of Texas Tech University. Guest speaker was Francis Dancy Hooks, wife of Dr. Benjamin L. Hooks, executive director of the NAACP, gave a dynamic address.

She reminded the audience that "Freedom is not free." That most of us would not be where we are today if not for the NAACP. She encouraged Black people to educate our youth in the NAACP. To make them (our Black youth) aware of what has been done in the past so those injustices will not be repeated.

The local chapter also presented several awards to individuals and churches for their outstanding contributions to the community during the year of 1984.

Those receiving awards were Mrs. Renetta Howard and Mrs. Joan Crawford-Jones for their dedicated service to the NAACP, and the League of Women Voters for their on-going support during the single-member district suit.

Ethel A. M. E. Church, St. Luke Baptist Church and New Hope Baptist Church received awards for their support of the 75th Diamond Anniversary of the NAACP.

Other churches receiving certificates will be reported next week in the Southwest Digest.

Fulton Barry and Rose Wilson were also presented awards from David Sowell for their hard work during the membership drive, and because of this hard work, the local chapter was able to send Mrs. Hooks back with 104 new memberships.

The members of the Lubbock Branch are extremely happy of the recent event and would like say "thanks" to all who help make this eleventh annual Freedom Fund Banquet a success.

"Black, A Republican, And Proud of It," Says Judge Shephard

Judge McKinley Shephard attended the State Republican Convention in Fort Worth, Texas last week. At the convention, Judge Shephard represented his Congressional Caucus on the important permanent Nominations Committee. The Nominations Committee nominates the National Committee Women and Men, the Electors to the Electoral College, delegates and alternates to the National Republican Convention to be held in Dallas, Texas August 19th through 24th.

As a member of the nominations committee, Judge Shephard placed in nomination the three delegates and three alternates to the national convention from his congressional district and also the name of Ernie Angelo to be National Committee

Mr. Angelo was challenged by Dr. Holtz of Houston, Texas for the position.

In further discussion on this important issue, Judge Shephard nominated Mr. Angelo while Mrs. Roz Haley nominated Dr. Holtz. There was lengthy discussion as to who should be nominated as National Committeewoman. Judge Shephard, along with a majority of the Ector County delegation headed by County Chairman, an Mary Lou Parsons, delivered 80% of the Congressional vote for Angelo. Many of the smaller counties such as the Hale County delegation, headed by State Committeewoman, Jean Kirkcuff of Plainview, Texas, played an important role in ensuring victory for Angelo.

During the 19th Congressional Caucus, Judge Shephard had his name placed in nomination for the permanent committee position. Roz Haley was also nominated for this position, and this time up the Congressional caucus, and battle lines were drawn.

A standing vote was called, followed by call of the division of the house. Cause of the time involved, the chairman of the caucus moved on to the next order of business which called for the election. At this time, Judge Shephard's name was placed in nomination by Mike Kech of Lubbock.

District committeewoman, Jean Kirkcuff of Brownfield, Texas, objected to Shephard's nomination. She stated he could "bodge down the caucus." Ruth Schiermyer, former Lubbock County Republican Chairperson of Lubbock, was called on to help clarify the rule. While the discussion on rules were being done, the vote was tabulated concerning who would represent the caucus on the permanent nominating committee. Judge Shephard received the majority of the votes and committee.

Judge Shephard received the majority of the votes and defeated Roz Haley. This ensured another victory for Angelo. This was a very important vote, for if Judge Shephard had lost and Mrs. Haley been elected, she along with any two members of the permanent nominations committee could have presented a minority report listing Dr. Holtz as their candidate and presented it to the floor of the convention for discussion.

There were 27 members on the nominations committee and 25 voted for Ernie Angelo; two voted for Dr. Holtz. The Holtz's votes, plus Mrs. Haley could have signed a minority report.

Once Shephard had won, he withdrew his name for the election position to help speed up this caucus and to maintain caucus unity. After talking with several Judge Shephard spoke to the convention as Chairman of the Black Republican Council of Texas. He stated that he was "Black, a Republican and proud of it." He also asked the Republican Party to help him recruit more Blacks into the Republican Party.

He noted also that there was an considerable increase in the number of Black delegates to the State Convention. The convention chose 109 delegates to the National Convention - 55 were women; 45 were men (one of whom is Black, and 10 were Hispanic); of the 109 alternates, 46 were women and 61 men; 10 Hispanic and 3 were Black.

IMPROVING PUBLIC EDUCATION

LUBBOCK-Improving public education from the inside is the goal of two new programs in the Texas Tech University College of Education.

Select students pursuing graduate degrees in education during 1984-85 will substitute teach or conduct research for the Lubbock public schools through a cooperative effort between the college and Lubbock Independent School District.

Dr. Richard E. Ishler, dean of the college, said he is unaware of any similar programs in the nation's teacher training institutions or public schools.

"In advertising our programs nationwide, we have had inquiries from New York, Kansas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Arizona, Illinois and throughout Texas," he said.

Both the teaching and research programs are being funded by the school district and are expected to continue yearly, Ishler said.

"The district is interested in filling daily vacancies from illnesses and personal leaves with qualified personnel and in obtaining research data on educational programs to determine their long-range value," Ishler said.

"We are interested in providing financial assistance to more of our graduate students and being able to conduct actual research within the public schools," he said.

For the student, Ishler said the new programs provide financial help and teaching or research experience. The research assistants may explore topics leading to dissertation work or possible publication, he said.

The dean said the college is still accepting applications for the substitute teaching positions which provide a stipend of $2,400 for 60 days work, $3,600 for 90 days work and $4,800 for 120 days work. Graduate student/substitute teachers may select the number of days and the specific days of the week they want to work.

Doctoral students will be the first choice for the substitute teachers though students seeking master's degrees may also apply, Ishler said. Applicants should meet the requirements of the graduate school. Interested persons can call Ishler at (806) 742-2377.

The two research positions, providing a stipend of $6,000 for the school year, have been filled with doctoral students.

Social Security Tips

Your Social Security And You

by
Jewel M. Love
Service Representative

If you've worked long enough under Social Security, you can count on getting monthly Social Security checks when you retire. But here's an important reminder. When Social Security was set up in 1935, the basic concept was to replace part of the income you lose when you retire. And that concept has never changed, even though benefits have been substantially increased and many other changes have been made in the program. So it's up to you to plan ahead, while you're still working, to add to your Social Security. You can do this with savings, pensions, insurance or other investments. Then you won't have to depend on Social Security as your sole source of support. The income from your investments, plus your Social Security benefits, will provide the comfortable retirement every working man and woman looks forward to. So start planning — now.

If you get Social Security monthly benefits and do temporary or part-time work, you must file an annual report of earnings. The earnings reported must be accurate to make sure you don't get an underpayment or overpayment of your Social Security benefits. In addition, when you submit your estimate of earnings for the year, you should try to come as close to the actual figure as possible. However, if you discover later in the year that you underestimated or overestimated your earnings, you should report the change in Social Security, as soon as possible. Social Security doesn't want to deduct more from your monthly checks than is necessary. But they also don't want to overpay you, which would necessitate your having to repay the overpayments. If you have any questions about reporting earnings, call any Social Security office.

The KITCHEN BEAT

It's Picnic Time!

In today's Black American home, cooking is no longer the responsibility of one person. Because of busy and varied schedules, usually every member of the family at some time or another has to prepare personal meals or meals for other members of the family. The Kitchen Beat is designed to meet some needs of the various cooks in the modern Black family.

Picnics are a time for discovery—discovery of the pleasures of outdoor fun with family and friends, and of food delights that have a special taste when eaten outdoors. Whether its off to your favorite park, a sun-basked patio or special nook in your garden, picnic foods such as Picnic Spareribs with Tangy Barbecue Sauce and Pub Lunch Beefburgers are easy to prepare, transport and enjoy.

The extra zing of these outdoor treats come from Crosse & Blackwell, the makers of Worcestershire Sauce, Steak Sauce and Major Grey's Chutney. We thank them for sending these recipes to our readers.

Picnic Spareribs with Tangy Barbecue Sauce

- 5 lbs. pork spareribs or back ribs
- 1 teaspoon salt

Preheat oven to 375°F. Arrange ribs on a rack in shallow roasting pan. Sprinkle with salt. Cover tightly with foil. Bake 1 hour or until meat is tender. This can be done several hours ahead of time 30 minutes before serving, arrange pre-cooked ribs on grill 5 inches above a slow fire. Brush ribs with Tangy Barbecue Sauce. Cook until tender and well-browned; turning and brushing with Tangy Barbecue Sauce.

Cook until tender and well-browned; turning and brushing with sauce frequently. To serve, cut ribs between each fourth bone. Arrange on serving tray. Brush with remaining sauce. Garnish with orange slices, if desired. (Yields 4-5 servings.)

Tangy Barbecue Sauce:

- 1/2 cup catsup
- 1/2 cup light molasses
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/4 cup fresh orange juice
- 1 Tablespoon steak sauce
- 1 Tablespoon red pepper sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoons white wine vinegar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons oil
- 2 1/4 teaspoons dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 Tablespoon butter or margarine
- 2 strips orange peel

In saucepan, combine all ingredients except butter and orange peel. Mix until thoroughly blended. Add butter and peel. Cover, simmer over low heat about 30 minutes, stirring frequently. (Yields 1 1/2 cups.)

Pub Lunch Beefburgers

- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 2 Tablespoons chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chili sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
- 1 Tablespoon steak sauce
- 4 large burger buns, halved
- Butter or margarine

In medium size bowl combine egg, ground beef, onion, chili sauce, salt, pepper and steak sauce; mix thoroughly. Toast bun halves; butter. Spread beef mixture evenly on bun halves, extending well over edges of bun to allow for shrinkage. Broil 3 inches from heat source until brown as desired. (Yields 4 servings.)

It's More Than Politics, Rev. Jackson!

by
Eddie P. Richardson

Every since we were brought to these shores as slaves against our will, while others — except the Indians — came as immigrants looking for a thrill, we (Blacks) have been mistreated and taken for granted. We have had to negotiate our freedom on other basis civil and human rights which are really non-negotiable. But a new day is on the horizon and many cannot get ready for it or expect the reality of it.

Rev. Jesse Jackson's campaign is not politics. Its life for a people — Black people. Some said Rev. Jackson should not run. Others, along with whites, said the time is not right. The answer is if not Jesse, who? If not now, when? A lot of Black politicians and leaders said: "No Jesse!" They said he was only playing a game, ego tripping, power playing, but in the end, his candidacy is changing the course of American politics and history. One only has to pause and think — by those Black politicians and leaders could not support Rev. Jesse Jackson openly? Answer the Democratic Party owns and controls them. That's why Rev. Jackson is so strong, he is not owned by them. So they cannot control him. So he ran independently of them.

His mission not only affect the Democratic Party, but also the Republican Party and others. It also makes the American political system take note. American politics will never be the same.

A lot of people said Jackson cannot win. The answer is: he has already won. Check the results. More Black are registered than anytime in the American political history. There are more Congressional Districts. Rev. Jackson won over 20% of the popular votes. He won this by bringing out issues which apply to people. His candidacy is responsible for many more minorities participating in American politics. It also takes in the cause of more Black, from the local level to the national level involved in the political process. In general, an awareness of all disadvantaged people to realize that they really do count. No matter what some may say, Rev. Jesse Lee Jackson's candidacy was a winner for America, especially for Blacks, Browns, Senior Citizens, all poor people, youth and others. In fact, all Americans have benefited.

American will never be the same any more. It is the beginning to a new day for all Americans. The full story has not been told until the Democratic Convention is over in San Francisco, California. Rev. Jackson will do some powerful negotiation. The real showdown will come in the Pales Committee. Jackson claims he was robbed of approximately 300 delegate votes. Jackson is expected to fight over issues of dual representation and second primaries in the South. What Jackson says and does could well determine whether the so-called "party of the people" can organize, unite and leave the Harbor City fighting spirit to defeat President Reagan in the fall.

No Black candidate has ever achieved such a record of stepping into the center ring and demonstrating what can be done to bring respect and more power to his people — one fourth of the total party vote.

Jackson insists he will not be taken for granted, because he carries the hopes and aspirations of the "locked out" Blacks and the poor. Rev. Jackson will demand for a change in the rule that bars a candidate from receiving any defeat if he doesn't win at least 20% of the state wide vote. People should determine the delegates, not the rule makers. Jackson is insisting and will wage war at the convention.

Jackson has stated, all along on his campaign, "We will not be taken for granted by the Democratic establishment." Jackson is saying we intend to expand our party and to heal our party and will not rest until those who voted for us is enfranchised in our party.

Jackson has been telling supporters across the nation, "once we get past the bosses and the rule makers, and get the rank-and-file people our voice will be heard." Jackson is also upset about the uncommitted delegates being controlled by State Chairmen. When everything is said and done, Rev. Jesse Lee Jackson would have made a change in the American political structure, a poor Black boy from

South Carolina. The system will work for us if we make it work for us. We will, we shall, we must, we can and collectively we are slowly traveling on the right road at a snails pace, but at least, after all these years made it to the right road. Economics and Politics; Trade Not Aid!!

Child Watch

by
Marion Wright Edelman
Another Form of Segregation

I have always opposed school discrimination. But over the years, I have become more aware of the many forms that it can take. During the 1950s and 1960s, most of us were concerned with the blatant discrimination that resulted from placing Black children in "separate but equal" schools. We felt that the problem had to be overcome if our children were to have an equal chance in life.

Today we are concerned about more subtle, but equally certain forms of racial prejudice. For example:

- Black students are twice as likely as white students to be suspended from school.
- They are half as likely to be placed in classes for the gifted; and
- They are over three times as likely to be placed in classes for the mildly mentally retarded, known as EMR classrooms.

Are our children really more likely to be mentally retarded than other children? I doubt it.

At the beginning of the 1980s, Black students accounted for only 16 percent of the entire school-age population, yet they accounted for 33 percent of the students in classes for the mentally retarded. And while Black children were most likely to be labeled "mildly mentally retarded," white children were far more likely to be termed "learning disabled" and placed in separate classes.

This pattern has not improved in the last four years, according to the latest civil rights data. If anything, it is getting worse.

Such discrimination within a school building can be as harmful as discrimination between schools. It is less visible, but more tenacious.

Most children who are placed in EMR classes remain in them for the rest of their school years, even though their placement is supposed to be reviewed annually. Often these children are largely or completely shut off from the regular school program. In 1982, 89 percent of the students in EMR classes in Chicago learned in separate classrooms or separate special education schools.

Placing Black and white children in the same school and then shuffling them off to separate classes was never the goal of desegregation; it does not serve the needs of Black children, and is probably unnecessary for many many children now classified as "handicapped."

Federal law requires that handicapped children be placed in classes with other school children as much as possible. In school systems that have careful safeguards against wrongly misclassifying children as mentally retarded, less than 1.25 percent of children from any ethnic group end up labeled educable mentally retarded.

While some children may need special help to perform their best in school, the first choice should always be providing this help within the regular classroom. Too often, separate classrooms are the first resort instead of the last. The psychological effect on children can be devastating.

In Chicago, EMR classes are known as "dummy classes" by many children and teachers, according to Caught in the Web, a book published by the nonprofit school advocacy group, Designs for Change. One child quoted in the book says: "This class makes you stupid."

No school practice should make a child feel stupid, especially a practice designed to help. The fact that too many Black children end up in EMR classes, and feel dumb and stupid as a result, should cause us to question the inequities in the placement process, not the potential abilities of our children.

TOWARD EMPOWERMENT

FOR BLACK FOLKS ONLY

What is said here is obviously addressed to Black readers. It is in-group talk. It concerns a letter which was received from a doubtlessly sincere White reader, who had taken exception to the effect that our staggeringly high Black youth unemployment was a major national responsibility.

The reader's reply may perhaps be best summed up with his own words this way: "Stop babying the youth. Stop blaming the White people. Just blame yourselves....Damn it, if the Black youth came out with motivation and really went after things with training, etc., the Whites would have to afford them their due."

Now, all of us know of, and are almost daily cowed and demeaned by, White persons whose forte or "thing" is babying Black people into accepting White folks' interpretations of every bitter racial reality and injustice. Yet, even in these cases, we may see and profit from the age-old principle that "every knock is a boost."

If the entire letter of this particular reader were before us, most of us would perhaps see in it an essentially positive spirit, whether or not we agreed with most or any of its specific contents. One point which he makes seems, in some profound sense, to have merit, even though it may seem gratuitous if we get locked into a mere consideration of its source. The reader states: "What I find wrong with the Black leaders...is that you want something to be done for the unemployed Black youth when the real trouble is that most unfortunately—and I say this with profound sorrow—you don't encourage them to really help themselves!"

If we were all asked to quickly huddle in some small groups and come up with a list of specific ways in which this comment might be helpfully interpreted, some fascinating and, indeed, rewarding results might surface.

Some of us might agree right off with Frederick Douglass, who wrote: "No people that has solely depended on foreign aid, or rather, upon the efforts of those, in any way identified with the oppressor, to undo heavy burdens ever stood forth in the attitude of freedom."

Place the Blame on the President Who's in Charge Here

She was in San Francisco again. Live. The last time she came the country was host to the world's holiest to make it safe for all living creatures, the city helped to create then the United Nations. A positive direction for all people. Sylvia Porter was a cub reporter at the time for a New York newspaper. Now she is a financial columnist and prolific author, published in over 400 newspapers nationwide and recognized as the "people's economist." Even the "people's economist," however, must today ask a pertinent question, given the increased tension between East and West, the Persian Gulf, a deficit too deep to walk in, Third World poverty and pocketbook problems and evil ethnic serious unemployment at home. Namely, the self-chosen title to her address before the comfortable income group that makes up the majority of the Commonwealth Club of California membership, "Who is in Charge Here?" For he surely is to blame.

Considering the Club has called upon the President to speak in more terms than any other speaker in its history, a hush was to be expected when the woman with imperial credentials called for an answer to America's malice. Indeed, she made a mockery of the President's "inherently contradictory supply-side economics" "it was sheer nonsense on the face of it." Porter pronounced to the President's patronizing members of her audience.

"A three-year tax cut was not what this nation needed and this tax reduction plus the continuing recession of the early 1980s helped to unbalance our budget to the degree that we now have entered an era of deficits of staggering magnitude," declared the princess of penny, Presidential years "between 1981-1983 alone, the deficit in our Federal budget increased from 2.6% to almost 6% of our national income. Actually, to put it in summation, this President has run up the largest deficits in history and created more new debt than all previous Presidents combined."

Continuing in her enlightenment to the conservative Commonwealth Club members, Porter pointed that the rate of inflation has been squeezed down not by the President's economic policies, but "brutally tough credit-tightening policy of the Federal Reserve System," under an original Carter appointee. "And unemployment hangs high in the 7.2 to 3% range-way above where it should be. Moreover, this statistic does not truly count the number of unemployed working part-time because they can't find full-time jobs and those who have dropped out of the labor force because they are discouraged. Nor does it reflect in any way the uneven impact on the position of women as workers."

No doubt, Sylvia Porter could have put forward a fountain of evidence to evict the current resident of the White House. However, the time was too short since she wished in her heart to take time out to long praise the beautiful city she "fell in love" with "many years ago." Also, with an eye to the Democratic Convention in San Francisco next month, she had a flutter of a world hope.

Capital Comment

by
John W. Lewis, Jr.

Washington .... The marathon, frequently litter, primary season is finally over. Walter F. Mondale has won enough national convention delegates to nail down the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination.

Democratic Party leaders, fearful that a divided Party and a divisive San Francisco convention, could help re-elect Ronald Reagan, have renewed their calls for Jesse Jackson to compromise in the interest of party unity. They argue that the common foe is Reagan and that Democrats need to have a unified convention to prepare for the fall campaign.

Jackson argues that a premature call for party unity is "self-defeating" even for the Democratic Party, that the party needs the enthusiasm and energy of those who have been hurt most by the Reagan cutbacks, the witness of those most strongly opposed to the Reagan War Machine.

Certainly, a premature call for party unity at the expense of the Black agenda is not in the interest of the Black community. Jackson's historical presidential campaign and success in Democratic campaigns across the country have given Blacks an unprecedented opportunity to influence American domestic and foreign policy.

A major issue at San Francisco will be stronger enforcement of the Voting Rights Act, particularly the elimination of second primaries in the South which often keep Blacks from winning office. Another will be a change in Democratic Party rules which resulted in Jackson being awarded only seven percent of the delegates although he won 20 percent of the popular vote.

These two issues have received the lion's share of publicity, but there are numerous Black-interest issues which are expected to be raised by Black delegates, including stronger enforcement of civil rights law, new job training programs, increases in minority education loans, restoration of massive cuts in human services programs and a sharp escalation in federal support for Black business. In San Francisco, Black delegates, whether pledged to Jackson or Mondale, cannot afford to sacrifice these pressing concerns at the altar of Democratic unity.

Jackson Campaign

Polster Gordon S. Black says that the Democratic Party needs the influence of Jesse Jackson to turn out the Black vote in November. The growing popularity of the civil rights leader among Black voters places him in a key position in the Democratic Party, Black said.

Jackson is the first choice of 40 percent of Black Democrats with Walter Mondale favored by 37 percent, an 8-point loss in the last month. U. S. Senator Gary Hart is the first choice of only one percent of Black Democrats, down from 10 percent in May.

Look for another media-inspired controversy surrounding the reported trip by Louis Farrakhan, minister of the Nation of Islam, to visit Libyan leader Muammar Qaddafi. Farrakhan, a strong supporter of Jackson's presidential campaign, has angered Jews with a talk which threatened the Black reporter for the Washington Post who revealed Jackson's "Hyime/Hymie-town" remarks.

Qaddafi has been a vocal critic of the state of Israel and has frequently opposed American foreign policy in the Mideast.

Meanwhile, the national director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith said that Jackson's recorded expressions are those of an anti-Semite. Nathan Perlmutter said in his annual report that a record of anti-Jewish statements over the years by Jackson cumulatively provides context for his "Hyime" comments earlier this year.

On the other hand, Democratic Party Chairman Charles Manatt said on a recent Sunday interview show that Jackson is not anti-Jewish and will support the Democratic nominee at the convention. "The historic candidacy of Jesse Jackson is important to the United States," he said.

HUD Secretary Announces Self-Sufficiency Program for Low Income Single Parents

Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Samuel R. Pierce Jr. announced project Self-Sufficiency, a demonstration program designed to focus public and private resources in local communities on the special needs of low-income single parent households, and to help these predominantly female headed families obtain employment and achieve self-sufficiency.

Through project Self-Sufficiency, housing assistance provided by HUD will be combined with child care, job training, and placement, and other support services through a public/private partnership involving the use of a task force composed of government and local community groups. HUD has set aside 5000 Section 8 housing certificates for use in the Self-Sufficiency demonstration.

Explaining the need for the Self-Sufficiency Program, Secretary Pierce referred to data from the U.S. Census Bureau. The data indicate that 11% of more than 61 million families in the United States were headed by single parents, the majority of whom were women. More than one half of these single parent families with two or more children had incomes below the poverty level.

"Through Project Self-Sufficiency," the Secretary said, "we seek to create an awareness in local communities of the special problems faced by these low income single parent families. We hope to demonstrate the capacity of local government to marshal public and private resources in their communities into a comprehensive and coordinated service delivery system to these single parent households."

Explaining HUD's role in this effort to help low income single parents, the Secretary noted that the availability of decent and affordable housing is a first step in creating a stable living environment. In addition, Secretary Pierce said, "stable living conditions will give these single parents the freedom and security to participate in the full range of support services leading

Past, Texas Pleasant Home Baptist Church News

Services were well attended last Sunday morning. The Sunday School lesson subject was "An Anointed Shepherd." The scripture was I Samuel 16:1-3. The Golden Text: "I took thee from the sheepcote, from following the sheep to be ruler over my people, over Israel." II Samuel 7:8.

Everyone was at their post of duty. It was a very good lesson. Devotion was led by Sisters Iona Smith, Callie Harper, and Thelma Moore. Sister Harper read the entire number of 23rd Psalm. Altar call was highly prayed by the Pastor Arthur Kelly. He poured out his heart and soul to our Saviour. The choir sang praises to our Saviour from the hearts of everyone. Rev. Kelly delivered a wonderful message from the Book of Joshua 24:15. His subject was "Serving God." He was really in that Holy Temple and in the midst while Rev. Kelly preached from his soul.

Among our sick and shut in persons are: Sisters Lela K-ly, Madie Johnson, Della Smith, Mozella Mitchell and Elizabeth lies.

Dorothy Callaway, who is ill, is ill in her residence as well as everyone else mentioned. Sisters Lizzie Milo and Sirloma Steel and Brother Harry Trublood are residents in Golden Plains Care Center. Brother Alvin Taylor, a patient in Lubbock General room 3553 West, is still ill. Continue to pray for their speedy recovery. Rev. Arthur Kelly is pastor, Rev. John James, Jr., associate pastor, and Sister Annie Gilbert, reporter.

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

The members of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast participated in the Juneteenth Parade last Saturday morning at 10 a.m. The main objective of this comes from the scripture - John 12:32: "I will be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me."

Everytime we have the golden opportunity to life Jesus up before men, we will gladly do so and last Saturday was a great opportunity. Michael Jackson, truly is lifting up what he believes in, and he's drawing young people from all races. They are getting involved. Why not Christians. Think about it, people. This is not a time to be sophisticated. It is best to stand up and out in what you believe. If you believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, show some signs. If Satan's prevailing where you are, Christians, there's something wrong with you. Matthew 16:18 - "And the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Our prayers and sympathy go out to Mrs. L. D. Switzer whose sister passed away Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Scott Kysar of Denver, Colorado - daughter of the late Rev. S. S. Scott and Mrs. Scott, son-in-law to Rev. Hope Baptist Church in memory of her father, Rev. S. S. Scott.

Mrs. Grace Sullivan, 308 Ancient Matron, Court No. 304 of Heron and District Deputy Grand Matron D.D.G.M., attended the Grand Lodge in Fort Worth, Texas this week. It was in the celebration of their Centennial celebration of their Centennial (100 year birthday).

Tuesday night, June 12, 1984, the Chancel Choir of the New Hope Baptist Church, Brother Robert Cork, president, entertained the Angelic Choir. It was Anita Henry's birthday. The group sang "Happy Birthday" to her. A short program was offered. After all the services, every feasted. Everything was nice. Anita told the group she was 18 years old.

Check it out! Thought of the week: "Let's get away from the 'Reverend' labels and the 'prophets' labels, and just be who we are in Christ..." Think about it. We would like to thank all of you who gave your support in this effort, namely, the Juneteenth Committee and all of you who involved yourselves in one way or another. God bless each of you. For those who are hurting in our way.

"Let's pray" "God of mercy, teach us how to wait, work and watch for Jesus. Return with the right priorities in life, help us also, Lord Jesus to realize that one's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth... help us to be therefore ready for your return. Remember those who are possessed with demons, depressed, berieved, with no hope. Thanks in advance for remembering them and us. For it is in the name of Jesus, we pray AMEN."

We are having an up. We will walk by faith! If you would like someone to pray with you in anyway, call or write: 762-3347 or 747-7326. Write: Outreach Prayer Breakfast and Project Blessing, P. O. Box 1223, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

WORDS OF LIFE Biblical Inspiration For The Week

"Thou hast been a shelter for me." - Psalm 61:3

1) God provides for our being. All that we ever need God has for us. "Be not anxious for your life, for what you shall eat or what you shall put on." God wants us to let His mind, heart and will be in us, so that we may know all of the mysteries of His treasure.

2) God provides for our growth. Challenges come upon us, even as with Jesus, in order that we may grow. Problems and denials are not ends in and of themselves. Rather they are the means of growth. They are waters of cleansing, and fires of purification and refining. Even Jesus passed through suffering and death, in order to move on to resurrection and to enter most fully into His glory at the ascension.

3) God provides us an everlasting home. God is our shelter. "That where I am, there you may be also," said Jesus. "In Jesus" we are secure. God's life is our eternal home and resting place.

Prayer Poem

God's provision for us is so much of the "constant story and theme" of the Wesley brothers, John and Charles, the co-founders and original co-builders of Methodism.

Charles Wesley's hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," although written nearly two and a half centuries ago, still speaks with a revealing readiness about God's providing a shelter, even in the seemingly unprecedented storms in our world and in human hearts today.

We pray God's blessing upon the Wesleys and upon all poet-prophets who teach us of God's unfailing and matchless love and grace.

is high, Hide me, O my Savior, hide, Till the storm of life is past; Safe into the haven glide, O receive my soul at last.

Plenteous grace with thee is found, Grace to cleanse from every sin; Let the healing streams abound, Make and keep me pure within. Thou of life the fountain art, Freely let me take of thee; Spring thou up within my heart, Rise to all eternity. - Amen

Jesus, Lover of my soul, Let me to thy bosom fly, While the nearer waters roll, While the tempest still

RUBY JAY'S CORNER

Last Sunday was Father's Day, and the members of the New Hope Baptist Church had a wonderful time.

It all began with Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. with Supt. Swain at his post of duty.

The morning message was delivered by Pastor S. C. Nash. His subject was "How About Your House?" His scripture was Joshua 4:15. He gave the members something to think about. It was just beautiful.

Sister J. B. Thompson attended the National Baptist Congress this week in Gary, Indiana.

Let us remember to pray for our sick and shut-ins in our community.

During the 7 p.m. service last Sunday, members of New Hope were special guest at La Messiah

Presbyterian Church U. S. A. by where in the installation services of their pastor, Rev. Ricky Porter. A lovely offering plate was presented to Messiah Presbyterian Church of Plainview, Texas. It also had a lovely Communion set. A beautiful stole was also presented to Rev. Porter.

One of the guest soloists Ms. Carla McCoy of the St. John Baptist Church sang "There's a Palm in Gilead." The Rev. Jessie Trivittion, pastor of the St. Peter Presbyterian Church of Fort Worth, Texas, brought a wonderful message. His subject was "Living The Life." His scripture text was Mark 10:17-22. Pastor S. C. Nash gave the "Charge to the Community." Several white ministers gave the "Charge to the Pastor." The closing hymn was "Guide Me, O' Thou Great Jehovah." It was a beautiful service.

Ms. Mary Scott Kysar of Denver, Colorado - daughter of the late Rev. S. S. Scott and Mrs. Scott, son-in-law to Rev. Hope Baptist Church in memory of her father, Rev. S. S. Scott.

Mrs. Grace Sullivan, 308 Ancient Matron, Court No. 304 of Heron and District Deputy Grand Matron D.D.G.M., attended the Grand Lodge in Fort Worth, Texas this week. It was in the celebration of their Centennial celebration of their Centennial (100 year birthday).

Lord, I was married and blessed with four kids, But without you, none of this could have been done.
Lord, the kids are grown and out on their own.
I've gotten a divorce, it's a broken home.
Lord, she's not her, till death did us a part.
But yet, I have Jesus and I thank God.
Proverbs 3:11-12 -- The Lord said: My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; neither be weary of his correction; for whom the Lord loveth he correcteth, even as a father the son in whom he delighteth.
Lord, in '62, the Plains Oil Mill exploded, I was in the middle of it all. It didn't harm a hair on my head?? Lord Jesus, you were the cause.
Psalms 105:10 -- O' give thanks unto the Lord; O' will upon his name: make known his deeds among the people.
Lord, in '70, my mother and I were coming out of Colorado town, At 80 m.p.h. I was letting the hammer down.
Lord, I felt the steering wheel, shaking in my hand. I pulled the car over, in no man's land.
Lord, the front tire was leaning out, I told Mother the bolts were unloose, no doubt.
Lord, I got the jack, and jacked it up to see, When the tire cleared the ground, it fell into the street.
Lord, I tell my friends these things, they say you're lucky as can be. I was in the world, serving satan, and my blessings I couldn't see.
Lord, you've been so good, even when my head was hard. I was loving satan and I was robbing God. (I find no fault in Jesus, he is so pleasing).
Psalm 23:13-16 -- The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the House of the Lord for ever.
God is not through with us yet. Let's pray for one another always. AMEN.

Hebrews 11:1

Sunday School began at 9:45 a.m. with the Superintendent, Brother Jackson singing "Jesus Keep Me Near The Cross." After which, he led in an inspiring prayer.

The subject of the Sunday School lesson was "An Anointed Shepherd." II Samuel 5:1-3, 7-8-16.
Morning worship began at 11 a.m. Devotion was led by the president and vice president of the Mission, Sister M. Robinson and Sister L. Harper.
- Responsive reading for the day was Psalms 27:1-14.

There were a total of three visitors: Tony Craven, member of St. Luke Baptist Church; John Teague, member of Faith Baptist Church; and Jessie Glaze Collins, member of Lyons Chapel Baptist Church.

Pastor B. F. Roberts' message was "When Men Are Persuaded Through Suffering." His scripture text was Acts 26:17; 27-28.
This was an exhilarating sermon. He didn't stop there, because Pastor Roberts preached on the subject "The Word" on Sunday evening. His scripture text was II Timothy 3:15-17, 4:1-6; I John 1:1. He suggested that anything that you can't do with it, you'd better leave it alone.

Historical Event: Signing of the Covenant

by Diana J. Clyne

On Sunday, April 15, 1984, a historic event occurred in Atlanta, Georgia. Covered by media and witnessed by state and local officials and honored guests, the covenant was signed by Do, Inc., a 100% black-owned beverage firm, committing a percentage of the company's pre-tax profits obtained from the sale of one of its products, Big Man Malt Liquor, to the Animal Tamer, to major civil rights organizations.

President Leon J. Oldham and Executive Vice President Curtis M. Dilworth signed this covenant with representatives and chief executive officers of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (Reverend E. Randal T. Osburn, presidential assistant), The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (Mrs. Jondell H. Johnson, executive director of the Atlanta Chapter), The National Urban League (Dr. Clarence E. Thomas, director of the Southern Regional Office), and the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Non-Violent Social Change (Mrs. Coretta Scott King, founder and president).

The covenant expresses the wish of Do, Inc. to "repay the debt which is owed" to these most deserving organizations for their continued support and assistance in the fight to advance the dreams of black and oppressed people to participate in the marketplace as principal participants and owners, and not just consumers, and to safeguard and protect those advancements already achieved in the pursuit of happiness for present and future generations," said Dr. Dilworth.

Do, Inc., along with other black businesses, would not even exist if it were not for the leadership and political due process provided through the SCLC, the job training provided by the National Urban League, the legal assistance provided by the NAACP, and the inspiration and reminder of commitment provided by the MLK, Jr. Center," said Mr. Oldham at the signing ceremony.

Mrs. Coretta Scott King called the covenant "A blessing" because many do not realize how hard it is for our organizations to exist on very limited budgets when often we have no knowledge of where future funding lies for our continued existence.

The Reverend E. Randal T. Osburn reminded those present of the fact that "we need to support our own businesses" because of the return our dollars spent can bring to us. He stated, "The white dollar makes its way five to seven times around the white community, whereas, the black dollar does not even make one revolution in our community. In most instances, the black dollar is gone before the check even comes home."

The historical signing of this covenant marks the first time any business, black, has ever entered into such an agreement. The event also celebrates the fact that Do, Inc. is the first black-owned company to be involved in the beverage industry in the manufacture and distribution on a national scale.

Last year more than 79,000,000 cases of malt liquor were sold in the United States of which 80 percent was consumed by Black Americans. The signing of the covenant will strike a sizeable stroke for Black Americans and other hampered by discrimination, be it ever so subtle.

When Black people have had to rally behind a cause, they did it. And based on that premise, Oldham and Dilworth are confident of the support they will receive from the Black community.

Dilworth and Oldham quickly remind us that it is time to repay the debt.

Big Man Malt Liquor will be available to beer drinkers in South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, and Tennessee in May, according to Mr. Leon Oldham, president of Do, Inc.

"We have a quality product and the price is competitive. The goal of our company is to be first, to be different and to be daring. As far as we are concerned, we have all three," said Oldham.

Given the beginning with the signing of the covenant, Big Man is history making.

Numerology and Missing Children

Part II of Four Parts

(Please clip and save as a series.)

ANNOUNCEMENT
According to U.S. statistics, nearly two million children across this country has been kidnapped. A group of numerologists began to take a closer, cosmic look at this occurrence as to a possible means of minimizing harm against children. Forty birthdates of missing children were obtained as a random sample and posed to several questions in order to make a projected determination. Let's take a look at another one of these questions.

Question: Which birth numbers had the least missing children born under it?

Answer: In the survey, it was found that not one of the forty children missing were born under the number 4 and its series. It has to be remembered that this sample is a drop in the bucket compared to the larger scope of things. And of course, it's obvious that number 4 children are kidnapped as well. But the projections of our small sample indicate that number 4 children are likely to be low on the list. As to the reason why this may be—in Numerology, the nature of the 4 is like the "lone wolf". They are not easily approached by strangers. The number 7 person also has this trait—in fact, children under the birth number of 7 was second behind the number 4. Children born under the birth number of 6 was also low on the list.

Next Week: "Numerology and Missing Children"—Part III

Not only is this an exceptional period for you from a cosmic point of view...but the zodiac is now going into the full swing of Cancer. This only adds more fuel to your fire, so go ahead with confidence now. Keep your sight on 6. CANCER BORN: Rosey Grier, ex-football star and TV personality.
LEO—July 22-August 20
Travel and a chance to have some fun is definitely indicated for you during this July 4th holiday period. It would be unwise not to take advantage of the opportunity. New areas for growth are also open to you. Take it. Your Master Number is 11. LEO BORN: Carmen Manuel, NY business consultant.
VIRGO—August 21-September 21
Around the 27th or 28th of this period be careful of flying off the handle or letting others get the best of you. I'm glad to report that July 1st thru the 4th itself will prove to be unusually beneficial. 2 is your number. VIRGO BORN: Jesse Owens, Olympic great.
LIBRA—September 22-October 21
There is a suggestion that you may have to be on guard against unreliable friends as you approach the weekend holiday period. After Tuesday of next week you should do very well. Use the number 7. LIBRA BORN: Kae Thompson Payne, New Jersey TV host.
SCORPIO—October 22-

By popular demand, the book "NUMBERS AND YOU" by syndicated columnist Lloyd Strayhorn is now available in paperback. ARIES—March 21-April 20
This early part of the week suggests plans and activities going your way. However, there is a serious cosmic warning ahead for next week as you approach the July 4th holiday. Do be careful. 5 is this week's selection. ARIES BORN: Muddy Waters, blues singer.
TAURUS—April 21-May 20
It's smooth sailing as you close out the final days of this month of June. July 1st itself, however, may not start off with the holiday spirit one might expect. Just let a few more days pass. Select the 9. TAURUS BORN: Minister Louis Farrakhan, Nation of Islam.
GEMINI—May 21-June 20
As you wind up the month there appears to be a turning point for the better coming your way. For you, July 1st is indicated as very favorable to get some new projects underway. July 3rd gives a warning. Use the 1. GEMINI BORN: Ramsey Lewis, musician/composer.
CANCER—June 21-July 21

Shroeder and Oakar Call For Accentuating U.S. and Russian Commonality

Representatives Patricia Shroeder and Mary Oakar recently visited Russia. They were invited by the Supreme Soviets, an equivalent of our Congress. They returned convinced that the Russian citizens want peace, and that further fair negotiations should be undertaken.

These women learned that the Russians feel that U.S. peace proposals are unfair, since the weapons reduction only calls for limitation on the U.S. and Russian deployment in Europe with no limit being placed on French and English weapons.

The Soviets consider this a one-sided policy. This is the reason they walked out of the Geneva conference. The Soviets are very anxious to resume the space talks which the U.S. walked out of. The Russians feel that President Reagan will be reelected and that he will continue his present policy, with even tougher stands taken during his next term.

The Soviets are very unhappy about President Reagan's failure to attend the funerals of Brezhnev and Andropov.

There seems to be a slight resurgence of the Russian women's concern that began in 1942. They organized to combat fascist expansion, initiated by Hitler. Aid around the world was sought by them, but only Mrs. Roosevelt responded. They celebrated her 100th birthday. Shroeder and Oakar found that the Russian women now have a women's council headed by the Russian woman astronaut. This marks the small beginning of the Russian women's assertiveness. These American representatives noted that American women are denied equality, but the difference is that Americans are free to organize, protest and speak out while Russians are denied that freedom.

Russian women are interested in a peace movement. Their idea of national security is in direct contrast to methods advocated by our Administration. While we feel that an enormous military build-up is necessary, the Russian women stress education and job training as national security measures.

When questioned about communist expansion, the Russians fired back about U.S. Central American involvement. They noted that they have no interest in communist expansion in that region, but that they are only giving requested aid. On human rights when asked, they said how could Americans talk about human rights with their treatment of the Indians, Blacks and other minorities?

Representatives Oakar and Shroeder reported that there is competition between the United States and the Soviets, but the Soviets question is—can it be through nuclear weapons? They are concerned about spending money on education and a race in research for cancer, heart ailment and other disease cures. The Soviets are concerned about their economic conditions. They are spending money for developing gas and oil in Siberia, while limiting defense spending. The Soviets are spending a greater percentage of their GNP for agriculture than the United States.

The Russians made it known about their great concern over President Reagan's visit to China. They feel this as an attempt by this Administration to drive the Russians and Chinese further apart. Especially at this time, when reconciliation seems to be developing between the two countries. The Soviets are particularly bothered about Mr. Reagan's nuclear Chinese proposal.

Oakar and Shroeder reported that the Russians believe the U.S. middle East policy is unfair. They are concerned about the Israeli tilt, with little or no concern for fairness to the Palestinians.

The Russian population is changing. The European Russians are beginning to become outnumbered by the Moslems.

The Russians do not suffer from physical needs as some Americans experience, because everyone is provided food, shelter and clothing. However, these are not elaborate, but very crude.

These congresswomen said that while the Russians do not experience physical starvation, they suffer from intellectual starvation. They know very little about the political affairs of their country. The news is highly censored and the average citizens are prevented from speaking out and protesting, as Americans have the privilege to do.

Shroeder and Oakar state that crime is not as great in Russia as it is in this country. Women have no fear of walking the streets alone any time during the night. The biggest Russian crime is alcoholism. A drunk driver loses his license for life.

Representatives Shroeder and Oakar came home stating that we should accentuate the common grounds: the desire for peace, limitations on military solutions, discovery curve for ravaging diseases, eradication of world hunger and aid for developing countries. They feel that negotiations, with give and take on both sides, will go a long way towards accomplishing these commonalities. They also suggested that we should copy some of the Russian educational policies—especially their teaching of more than one language in the elementary schools.

Football Greats Honor Bethea During Tribute to a Titan

HOUSTON—Former Oiler Elvin Bethea was honored by fellow football greats at a special banquet May 16.

Pittsburgh Steeler "Mean Joe" Greene will lead the pack of friends and fellow players as emcee at "Tribute to a Titan," which will be held at the Westin Oaks in the Galleria. Proceeds will benefit the United Negro College Fund (UNCF).

The Los Angeles Raiders Lyle Alzado and Gregg Pruitt will join Steeler Franco Harris, Atlanta Falcon Billy "White Shoes" Johnson, Green Bay Packer James Lofton, Chicago Bear Walter Payton, Dallas Cowboy Robert Newhouse, and Oiler team members Dan Pastorini and Kenny Burrough as guest speakers. Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire, former coach Bum Phillips and Bud Adams, owner of the Oilers, will round out the prestigious list of well-wishers. The banquet is sponsored by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., Southwest Distributing Co., Inc. local Anheuser-Busch distributor, Eastern Kirlines and Walter Fyfe clothing stores.

Bethea, now a Texas area manager for Anheuser-Busch, Inc., retired from the Oilers at the end of 1983. He appeared in 210 regular season games during his 16-year career, including seven AFC-NFC Pro Bowl Games. A consistent, quality player, Bethea is the second player in Oiler history to have his jersey, No. 23, retired. Bethea joined the Oilers in 1968 as a third round draft pick from North Carolina A&T.

Toward Empowerment

themselves might add that "foreign aid is almost always, fickle and, in many instances, self-defeating."

We might interpret this latter remark, first, as a reminder that we must somehow build muscle into the Black community. It is only through self-help and group initiatives that we as Black Americans may move with power, impact and command toward and into the American mainstream.

Secondly, this same remark concerning the fickle and potentially self-defeating nature of "foreign aid" or outside help could point to the example of what organized labor, as "the friend of Black people," has done to us. Organized labor historically in the latter 1800's was organized over and against Black people who were recently emancipated and were already moving into the labor market. The unstated and perhaps unconscious concern of organized labor was to enhance and protect the interests of the masses of European immigrants who were then competing with Blacks for a place on the lower rungs of the American economic ladder.

That is what historically was done by "friends" who would now offer us "foreign aid." But of even more importance is what the labor unions are doing to make Black youth entry into the job market a virtual impossibility today.

Organized labor has pressed for minimum wage scales and has convinced most of our Black leadership of the necessity of the minimum wage. But the minimum wage excludes those who have marginal skills from most of the labor market just as Blacks have needed to be ascendant on the urban labor scene.

A case in point in this regard. A group of minority youth purchased a block of houses to be refurbished with federally-guaranteed funds. The youth sought to pay themselves modest wages, along with some volunteer time, to renovate their houses. But the unions had lobbied successfully for legislation pinning labor union rules to all federally-subsidized grants for housing rehabilitation. Thus, on this project, more than five journeymen plumbers—mostly White—would have had to be hired for every one unskilled or apprentice worker! The project failed, of course.

Helping ourselves, then, may also involve using our heads as Black adults to assess or re-assess just what and who are our "friends." That "foreign aid" was both fickle and frustrating was made clear to these minority youth. It must be made clear to all. It is not that unions may work unconsciously against us that should be the focus of our concern. We must, rather, concentrate on what we alone can and must do for ourselves. Is "welfare" self-help? Is "fighting the schools" self-help?

In some truly effective ways, we as Black people must come to agree upon group agendas regarding what we alone and we first ourselves can and must do for ourselves. Once we have done this, we are automatically in a position of strength to negotiate for what we want "as a power seen from afar."

RE: FY 1985 Operating Assistance.

Notice is hereby given that if written notice is received by the General Manager within 15 days, a public hearing will be held by the City of Lubbock for the purpose of considering a project for which Federal Operating Assistance under Section 5 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, is being sought. The grant is generally described as follows:

The City of Lubbock is seeking for transportation services in the Lubbock urbanized area provided by City Transit Management Company, Inc., from October 1, 1984 to September 30, 1985.

No persons, families, or businesses will be displaced by this project. There will be no significant environmental impact upon the urban services area.

The project is in conformance with transportation planning in the area and is consistent with the adopted programming of projects in the Transportation Improvement Program.

The City of Lubbock will provide a demand-response system, which will service the needs of the elderly and handicapped, and half fare on all regular transit routes. City Transit Management Company, Inc., provides the incidental charter service in the Lubbock urbanized area.
