EARTH, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1954

NUMBER 12

Mrs. Ray Glascock can really be proud of her new washing machine presented her by a friend, Mrs. Homer Starkey.

It seems that Mrs. Glascock had been explaining to Mrs. Starkey how badly she needed a new washer. Sunday while looking over a bunch of cafe equipment they had stored, Mrs. Starkey found she could do a good deed for a friend.

She found an old rub board that she presented her friend. I don't know how happy Mrs. Glascock was, but the kids were happy to find out what the thing was.

I don't know if Delma McCarty practices being at the right place at the right time, but I'm sure Mrs. McCarty will agree with all of us that he was definitely in the right place at the right time Sunday when he extinguished the fire.

Monday afternoon I took a breathing spell and ran out to pick up a story and visit with a friend. What I didn't realize was that I was going to hear such an inspirational talk. One I didn't think would come from anyone except my folks. The point is that it was so helpful to me I felt I'd almost been home for a visit. Anyone who needs a pickup should visit Mrs. Lena Hite.

A real bright remark came from Matt McNeal while helping Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McNeal move into their new home recently. It seems the cook stove got greasy heavy while they were trying to lift it and put it in its proper position. They strained and strained trying to get it into place, but just couldn't seem to make it. Finally the bright idea hit Matt, who straightened up and said, "If you all would just make me mad, I could do it myself. You all could just stand back and watch me."

We felt real happy this week to receive a card from Bonnie Haberer subscribing for the paper for a lady on her 82nd birthday, saying while she visited her, she had enjoyed our paper. We are always happy to know people enjoy our paper.

I can't ever express in words my appreciation to all those who so willingly helped me gather my news this week, each one volunteering so sweetly to give me news or find someone would could give me a certain story. It makes life so much happier for a news gatherer to find people as helpful as these folks. "Thanks so much."

Two Break-ins Reported Here

Two Earth residents reported break ins this week—both of them during the daylight hours.

While the Walter Donalds were working at their cleaning shop, someone cut a hole in a window screen, opened the window and went in, but the Donalds had not yet missed anything.

On the other hand Mrs. Mike Kelley went out to a neighbor's house for a few minutes and when she returned her purse was missing from where she had left it on the sewing machine. No evidence of anyone having been in the house was detected, but the purse containing some money has not been found.

In addition to these break-ins Deputy Sheriff this week found four bags of whiskey under the bed of a farm worker two and a half miles southeast of town. The owner of the bed was charged with possession for sale, pled guilty and was fined $137.75.

Firemen Collect $425 Scout Funds

Local firemen in their finance drive for the Boy Scouts collected a total of $425.00 for the local troop.

Firement said Earth citizens were so cooperative, that within ten minutes after the drive began they had collected $74.00. They wish to thank everyone who gave so willingly.

STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER, Joe Wilson of the weekly television program, "Texas in Review," takes a close up of the possible state record breaking corn crop of the Turner brothers of the Pleasant Valley community. They Can Give Iowans Pointers Turner Brothers' Corn Yield To Make 'Texas In Review' Television Program

By DON PERRY
Folks in the Pleasant Valley community are expecting a delegation from Iowa to appear any day to pick up pointers on growing corn.

Creating quite a bit of furor is the corn crop planted by one of the Turner brothers of the Pleasant Valley community which has averaged 204.3 bushels per acre, a possible new record for Texas Hybrid number 30.

The crop was planted by 15-year-old Doyle Turner, son of Doyle Turner, veteran West Texas farmer, on a five-acre 4-H club project.

He's entered the crop in the Texas corn production contest, heretofore usually dominated by East Texas 4-H boys, and according to Lamb county agriculture agent Dave Eaton, he may have broken the Texas corn production record. Results of the contest will be announced Nov. 22.

Press photographers and a staff photographer for the weekly television program, "Texas in Review," toured the Turner farm Wednesday morning. The TV program will probably be broadcast after announcement of the state corn contest winner.

Doyle irrigated the crop four times, including a watering before planting; plowed under three tons of composted cotton burs and applied 200 pounds of Ammo-Phos-16-24 per acre. He measured 215-7 bushels an acre with 18 per cent moisture. After moisture adjustment, the average dropped to 204.3 bushels.

Turner's other two sons, Royce, twin of Doyle, and Alan Doyle, 19-year-old sophomore ministerial student at Baylor, also grew better than average corn crops. Alan was low with 93.4 and Royce had 167 bushels. The state average is 166 bushels.

And what made Doyle's crop bigger? He gave it more irrigation water. That made the difference.

The brothers didn't harvest their crops. They plan on feeding the corn to their livestock. As 4-H projects they have five beef calves, three dairy heifers, six sows, 12 feeder shoats and over 130 laying hens.

And along the 4-H line the boys also have some cotton acreage which may be outstanding. They are expecting at least two bales per acre.

The boys will appear Saturday at 6:30 p.m. on KGNC-TV at Amarillo and at 8 a.m. Sunday on KGNC radio.

At the recent Lamb county fair, the family won top prizes in exhibitions of hogs, beef cattle and dairy cattle. Besides running a fine cotton farm, they have a grade "A" dairy.

The Turners also have a married daughter living in Irving, Tex., and two other daughters, Rita and Sherry, at home, who are also engaged in 4-H work.

Among other persons who attended the filming of the crop Wednesday were County Commissioner Sam Cearley, County Judge Robert Kirk, J. O'Neal, district manager of Matheson Chemical co., Jack Wattenbarger of the Lamb County Farm Bureau and assistant Lamb county agent Austin.

Mrs. Ray Kelley returned home Saturday morning from the Amherst hospital where she was treated for blood poisoning in her hand.

New Lights For Earth's Main Streets

Earth will soon have modern street lighting on its Main thoroughfares, if present plans of the city commission materialize.

They have authorized Southwestern Public Service engineers to draw up plans and specifications for the installation of new mercury vapor lights on steel poles along Main Street and one block each way on the north-south highway. When the plans are complete they will be presented to the commissioners for probable approval.

Rental cost per month for each of the new type lights on steel poles will be $4. That is about twice the cost of the present incandescent lights on wooden poles, but gives much more illumination and a cleaner, modern look.

At the same time a number of new incandescent lights will be installed in the residential areas.

Guests in the James Mullis home Sunday were Mullis' father, M. A. Mullis, an aunt, Mrs. T. M. Fortenberry of Edmondson and a cousin, Frank Fortenberry of Albuquerque.

Jordan's injuries were not serious but Woodring had not regained consciousness several hours later. In addition to head injuries, he had a leg split open and broken in at least two places. He was taken to Oton Memorial hospital and from there to Lubbock Memorial.

The affair begins at 1 p.m. when ex-students start registering in the cafeteria. An hour later the alumni and their spouses will gather in the gymnasium to renew old acquaintances and possibly organize an alumni association. High School Principal Burton will preside over this Recognition Rally. He will introduce the oldest grad present and call on the members of each class to stand and be recognized.

The nominees for Football King and Queen will be introduced at this time, but the winners of each of the various sports will not be revealed until they come riding into the stadium in a pre-game ceremony at 7:30.

After the game with Kress Kangaroos (which the Wolverines are expected to win easily) the ex-students and their families are all invited by the Pep Squad to assemble in the cafeteria for coffee and more visiting.

The Pep Squad, sponsored by Mrs. Bob Hamilton, Mrs. Bob McCaskill and Mrs. Roy Simmons, plans to make this the first of an annual event for the old grads, at which they will be hostesses.

20 Fined For No License Or Speeding

Twenty drivers were arrested about a mile east of Earth Saturday afternoon and fined in Justice of the Peace court here. Most were charged with driving without a license, although a few were found guilty of speeding.

The arrests occurred at a road block set up by Highway Patrolmen Bill Davenport and Bud Taylor. They were assisted by Deputy Sheriff L. H. Ranzetta and Homer McLaury.

Each of the 20 was fined $1 and costs, making a total of $35.00. These costs are split three ways, with approximately a third going to the JP court, a third to the fund for operating the county attorney's office, and the other third into the account for the operation of the sheriff's office. The one dollar fine goes into the county general fund.

New Fence For The Gridiron

Homecoming game fans at tonight's game will find a new steel fence around the football field which has been built this week with regular employees of the school, assisted by members of the school board.

The fence was erected to keep spectators off the field and far enough away from the sidelines. It was built to stay, with four inch steel posts set in concrete and old Air Force steel landing mats welded to them.

The whole thing will be sprayed with aluminum paint, according to Earl Miller, so that it will add to the beauty of the stadium.

will be the other eight nominees. The crowning of the King will be done by Pep Squad President Lois Lewis, Co-captain Bobby Green will crown the Queen.

The ceremony will take place before the game starts instead of during the half so as to avoid interfering with the relaxation and strategy talks needed by the team members at that time.

Methodist Youth To Trick-Treat For CROP Funds

"Trick or treat" this Halloween means the youth of Earth are collecting money to send milk to the world's needy millions through Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP).

On Sunday night, October 31st, 1954, the youth of Methodist churches will knock at all homes for a Halloween "Trick or treat". Instead of tricks, though, they will be asking for treats in the form of money which will enable CROP to send milk to the world's hungry at the rate of $30.00 worth of milk for every $1.00 collected.

Last year the youth of Texas sent $10,000.00 through Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) which was used in sending milk to the hungry children of Korea. This year the youth have pledged $20,000.00 which will be used to send one-million dollars worth of surplus milk to children, mothers, and invalids who need it and are waiting for it.

American taxpayers pay over $500,000,000 a day to store $7 billion dollars worth of surplus food and fiber. This surplus has been created because of our inability to sell at a firm price all that we have produced. While we have surplus, two thirds of the people of the world today are hungry. They are looking to Christian young people and adults for help.

As one of the major agencies through which churches cooperate, CROP is accepting this opportunity and challenge.

Christian Rural Overseas Program is the agency of 35 denominations, collecting food or fiber (or cash to purchase commodities) to be sent through Church World Service to Church Agencies overseas for distribution.

The expense, however, is over and above our regular shipments, and the handling and distribution of surplus milk depends on new income. For every dollar this community contributes this Halloween, CROP will be able to send $20 worth of milk to the places where it is desperately needed. $25 will distribute 5,000 pounds of surplus milk. 700 pounds of milk will provide one cup of milk per day for 30 children for one year.

Contributions will be accepted by the youth of our community when they knock at your door on Sunday, October 31. Each will wear an official badge and carry a specially marked carton. If anyone is missed, money may be sent to CROP Milk Fund, Box 127, Earth.

Sunbeams Make Hospital Cards

The Primary Sunbeams met Tuesday for the fourth in a series of studies on Japan. They have learned some games the Japanese children play and have discussed their customs.

The children have heard stories from the missionaries about the people with whom they work in Japan. They have learned that often Japanese boys and girls must care for the babies in the family, but this doesn't keep them from play. The child just ties the baby on his back as the mother does and goes ahead with his play.

The Sunbeams made tray cards to be used on the hospital dinner tray Tuesday as their monthly community missions project. The cards were made from a stiff card folded to stand up. On them were pasted scriptures. Attached to the card were flower stickers on a tooth pick.

to the city commissioners for their common sense and backbone in standing up to the bond buyer who tried to raise the interest rates on them after the election was over. Only two or three weeks actual delay resulted and most citizens will agree that to save $2,800, it was worth it.

Most city commissioners would probably have shrugged their shoulders, gritted their teeth and said, "There's nothing we can do about it," and would have given the option holder the interest rates he demanded. But our commission was not that easily ficked and we should be proud of them for it.

Ordinarily city commissioners get nothing but knots on their heads in return for the considerable amount of time and worry they put in for the citizens. Maybe a kind word from each of us once in awhile when they do some outstanding job like this one, would make them feel it was worth the effort.

We Can't Buy Prosperity

In an editorial on the federal budget question, the Wall Street Journal observes that government can't buy prosperity, and adds: "All the Government can buy with its manufactured credit money is an inflationary spree like the one we just recovered from."

We should be frequently reminded of that fact. During the inflationary spiral, the great majority of us confused symptoms with causes. We blamed business, labor, farmers, and everything but the principal cause of inflation . . . which is reckless government spending and ever-increasing deficits with no real attempt to effect a cure.

If inflation comes again, it will come from the same cause.

Constitutional Amendment

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of constitutional amendments which will be voted on in the November election.

House Joint Resolution No. 16, if adopted, would amend Section 19 of Article XVI of the Constitution to provide that where the term "men" is used in the Constitution in reference to juries, it shall include persons of the female as well as the male sex. This proposal is very similar to an amendment which was rejected in 1949 by a vote of 163,971 to 134,703.

The language of H. J. R. 16 is clearer and stronger than the resolution defeated in 1949, in that it would make service on juries by women both a right and a duty. This proposal would require jury service of women whereas the former proposal "qualified" them for service.

In 1949 eleven states did not permit or require women to serve on juries. In 1954 there are only five states, including Texas, which do not permit jury service by women.

Women are not barred by law from other public services in Texas. They can assist to make or amend laws by service in the Legislature. They can enforce the laws in an office devoted to law enforcement. They can interpret the law as judges in any court in the State. They can execute law in any executive capacity, including that of Governor. But they cannot participate in jury service in State courts, nor in the Federal court in Texas since Federal procedure in this respect conforms to state practice.

Proponents of H. J. R. 16 say that Texas ought to give women the full duties and rights of citizenship as have the majority of other states, by requiring them to serve on juries; that doing so would increase the supply of jurors and speed up judicial processes.

Those who oppose H. J. R. 16 argue that our court houses are not equipped to furnish overnight accommodations for women jurors where that would be necessary, and that special exemptions or exceptions for women would be necessary because of household or other duties.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir: I was glad to see after these many months a public statement from the appellants themselves in the school situation. I am sure these appellants and the people they represent are interested in getting before the public the issues as they are. As an interested patron, taxpayer, and qualified voter who exercised the privilege of voting last spring and as a member of the very real Projected Needs Committee, I feel qualified and impelled to bring to light a few facts and will be happy to discuss with anyone these facts as presented.

The Projected Needs Committee of the Springlake School which was appointed by the school board as requested by the citizens first met in September, 1953. This committee was composed of the following twelve people: H. L. Evans, chairman; Robert O'Hair; Mrs. Sam Coar; Rex Jenkins; Mrs. Earl Parish; J. J. Coler; Lester Kelley; Mrs. W. O. Jones, Jr.; Mrs. Ed Dawson; W. T. Clayton, board member; and one member who preferred not to serve.

The primary purpose of this and all committees was to give a representative group of people an opportunity to meet, study, and express their opinions as to the needs of our school, in order that the school board might better know the will of the people and act accordingly.

The Projected Needs Committee prevailed upon its members to visit other schools. Those who did so were pleased to see that our high school and grammar school buildings compared most favorably with buildings in use in such schools as Dimmitt, Plainview, Hereford, and Kress. I hereby invite the public to make similar comparisons.

This committee went on to study on the basis of other committee reports the number, type, and location of buildings needed. To my knowledge (and I attended the meetings regularly) never once was the idea expressed by any citizen that any school building be located anywhere but on its present site. Evidently no thought had been given by anyone to such a remote possibility.

The resolutions of this committee as voted on, approved, and published are in part as follows: "The white building could be moved and the auditorium placed between the grammar school and high school buildings."

"The new gymnasium could be placed immediately south of the present high school building."

—that the ground on which they (the teacherages) stand would be the ideal location for the elementary building.—" Several weeks following the publication of all committee reports the school board made announcements in the newspapers, regarding the forthcoming bond election stating exactly how the money was to be spent, the number, type, and location of new buildings being included. This was public knowledge prior to the bond election.

In May I went to the poll and voted, not for just a $400,000 bond issue but for the specifications as set forth publicly. This bond car-

Why should not any school board feel that the community was now ready for immediate action on the elected bonds with the school in such desperate need of additional classroom space that the State Board of Education could at any time withdraw its accredited status according to provisions set forth in Gilmer-Aiken?

I would ask these questions: If some citizens in a community cannot be stirred by problems of such magnitude, as our school problems at the same time other citizens are working diligently toward fair and just and majority opinion who can they blame? Who were the 490 patrons, taxpayers, and voters

(1) last fall when school issues were being discussed? (2) In April when the school board was nominated and elected by the entire community, not just the east half? (3) when the facts concerning the bond issue were publicized? (4) when the bond was voted and approved?

Was not the original petition signed by the 490 a petition for a hearing (which was granted) and not, as since stated by the appellants, a petition requesting an election? What far-sighted and alert citizen would even consider voting to relocate the school in part or in whole without first being presented an exhaustive report by the appellants on such problems as the following:

- (1) Where would necessary acreage for a growing school be located and how much would it cost the school district?
- (2) How many classrooms would be needed; exactly what types and sizes of buildings should be built?
- (3) Where would teachers find places to live and what would be rent prices for them assuming all of them could not afford to buy or build homes?
- (4) Who would finance sewage, water, and paving and how much would it cost?

I would like to take a public stand that little can be gained and much can be lost by moving the school, all or in part. I took this stand last fall when I voted in committee for additional classrooms and facilities such as adequate libraries in grammar and high schools, public school music, an audio-visual program, gym facilities for grammar as well as high school, an auditorium to serve the school children and the community, and those things offered by any progressive community such as ours to its school children. $400,000 cannot give us this and move our school!

If each citizen could substitute for the classroom teacher one-half day (as our PTA sponsors once a month, grades 1 to 4) he would realize that it is crowded rooms and inadequate teaching aids that handicap our children, not location of the school within the district. Under present conditions to maintain order is a cherished accomplishment. School records show 330 students in temporary classrooms; these rooms cannot be properly heated, lighted, nor equipped. There are eleven classrooms with from 35 to 55 students; 25 to 35 is the maximum allowed under the Gilmer-Aiken Law. According to the report of the Projected Enrollment Committee and judging from the daily increase in students, next year will show an increase of one hundred students. There is no room for these students in permanent or temporary buildings. A building program must be underway by the first of the year!

We are most fortunate to have a faculty of whom we are justly proud; let's give them and our children a chance to make a day of school educational.

I cannot conscientiously conclude without appealing directly to the appellants and the people they represent to consider this situation as it is—all wishful thinking aside—and to cease legal protests and drawn-out proceedings. Let us, as one community, rise above any feeling of sectionalism, realize that to prolong the issue is to harm every school child in this district. —MRS. ED DAWSON.

Mrs. Clayton's Hunting Trip Proves Hunting Is Not Strictly Man's Sport

By Mrs. W. T. Clayton

Several persons have asked me to give them an insight into a hunting trip, so here goes. About two weeks before time to leave, you start getting your clothes and toilet articles ready, also guns and bedding. Warm clothes are essential and they can be attractive also.

We left home Tuesday, two weeks for Colorado, about 6 o'clock in the morning, spent about two hours in Santa Fe, went on to Antonio, then 40 miles up, down and around the Conger river to Platora, Colo. Platora, Colo., has only four large lodges, and each lodge has several cabins. We went to Skyline lodge where we had made reservations in August.

Bill and I went to Monte Vista Wednesday morning after we arrived at Platora, and who do you think we saw from home on that lovely mountain road? Edgbert Hawkins and Woodrow Pall. Hope they enjoyed their hunt as much as we did.

Wednesday evening Less and Eleanor came in and by that time the hunters were really coming into the lodge. Thursday evening the Skyline lodge had all of the hunters in the dining room of the rustic old lodge for a turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

Here we began to get acquainted with the ones we would hunt with. Some of the hunters were not able to keep their hunting appointments so there would be only two camps instead of three camps, and in our camp we would have eight men.

We were disappointed and so were they. However this disappointment soon faded for they were real gentlemen and they said they found we were real sports and not sissies. You guessed it—they were all from Texas.

Instructions were to be at the lodge for breakfast and then prepare for the 15 mile horseback ride to the camp. We lost a little sleep just thinking about that ride. The only thing we didn't lose was weight and each day our appetites grew. Next morning we left—12 in line on horseback, plus one cook, two wranglers and the pack horses loaded with our belongings. It was then that I felt mean about bringing so many clothes, etc.

Later when Wylie said, "One year a man brought a piece of a wool rug for his tent," I felt some better. There were movie cameras and still cameras in the group so as we filed out on the trail they began to click.

We arrived at the camp about 3 o'clock in the evening, arranged our bedding and personal belongings in our own tents, which were set up before we arrived. There was one large tent that served as the dining room with a long table down the middle where we ate. Logs were used as benches. The menu the first night consisted of steaks, boiled potatoes and ranch style spaghetti, canned fruit and plenty of hot coffee.

The cooking was done outside in a scooped out pit, with logs piled on it. The food was cooked in big Dutch ovens and tasted "out of this world," ashes and all.

The nights were cold, but as we snuggled down in our bedrolls we were warm, and morning came too soon. Wylie brought a small kerosene stove about the size of a lantern to warm our tent in the morning. I never appreciated a flame so much in my life.

After a hot breakfast our horses were saddled and we were ready to start hunting. Less, Eleanor, Bill and I hunted all day—no luck.

Saturday night a lynx came down behind the camp "moaning and screaming." It was trying to eat a deer one of the hunters had hung up in a tree back of the camp. The hunters got up and tried to coax it down into the light so they could shoot it. It was too wise to be coaxed, though, Bill, Less and Eleanor slept through this, but not me. I just kept watching the side of my tent until all was quiet.

Sunday we held our Bible reading and meditation in our tent, enjoying the handiwork of God in this primitive mountain setting. By primitive I mean a place where we spent this time hunting and saw no one except our own group. The next day we went into Blanco Canyon where the only signs of humanity was one dim trail leading daintily, with the bottom. I said, "It would be great to carry our bedrolls down and spend the night."

The guide said, "No, it might come a four-foot snow and you couldn't find the trail. If you did know the trail, it would be too dangerous to ride out."

Our guide had once been caught there with Little Joe, the wrangler, and a man from Amarillo. They stayed because it was too dangerous to come out. They built a fire, roasted one side and froze the other, all night.

Monday morning Eleanor and I went to Blanco Canyon but not down. We just picked a good place to tie our horses and then walked around on a mountainside and sat down to wait for the game to come by. We saw six deer. I took one shot and missed. It's hard to admit you got a shot and missed, but it happens to the best, they say.

Bill went down about a mile and one-half, stayed for awhile, and didn't see a thing.

Less had gone early in the morning to bring his deer into camp that he had killed. Little Joe and Alf Wolfenberger (who, by the way, is an old friend of our Coach Colie) went with Less. Alf's horse slipped off the side of the trail and down both ways. Alf looked up and saw the horse coming over and over right behind him. He jerked himself to one side and prevented a serious accident, but sprained his wrist and hit his head on a rock.

He spent that day recuperating in camp and had supper ready when we got in that evening. A similar accident happened the next day and could easily have been serious, but wasn't.

There had been five elk and nine deer killed so far.

Wednesday we began to make arrangements to come home. The pack horses were being kept busy bringing in the kill. The elk must be quartered to get them on the pack horses, so all pack horses were coming and going after the hunters began getting their game.

We rode down to the first camp on horseback. Here we saw pickup tracks for the first time since leaving the lodge. Somehow I felt just as safe on the back of "Old Billy," the horse I rode during the entire trip, as I did in the pickup, even if he did stumble some. I could say "Slow, now, Billy," but glancing up at Jack driving the pickup, I didn't dare say a word.

At the lodge we enjoyed a good, hot shower. You see, at camp, it was a wash pan of hot water and wash cloth.

Lunch was served us at the lodge and we started for home, wondering how the ball game with Happy turned out.

There was one radio in camp but we were unable to get the ball game results.

The next few days were spent washing, ironing, taking clothes to the cleaners, and putting poor old blistered, baked sore faces and hands through every beauty treatment known—knowing all the time that it will take a whole month to begin looking natural again.

Yet, it's worth it. Happy hunting!

News From El Paso Camp

Mr. and Mrs. Esten Scarce of El Paso were here this week. Mr. Scarce visited in camp while Scarce inspected the plant. Scarce is operating manager of the Permian division of El Paso Natural Gas Co. with his office in the new company building in El Paso.

J. W. Mason, son of Mrs. Jake Beavers, was injured slightly in a car wreck on his way to El Paso for discharge from the army.

The George Winkley moved into the one remaining three-bedroom house upon the completion of the refinishing of the floors.

Several families in camp are still unsettled because of the floor refinishing situation.

Everyone, especially the children, is looking forward to the company sponsored Halloween Party Saturday night.

The Earl Goodrum's spent Saturday in Lubbock shopping for new furniture for their new house.

The Billy King's are the parents of a nine pound boy, Billy Marshall. King is employed at the plant when he is in his training period before going into active plant operation.

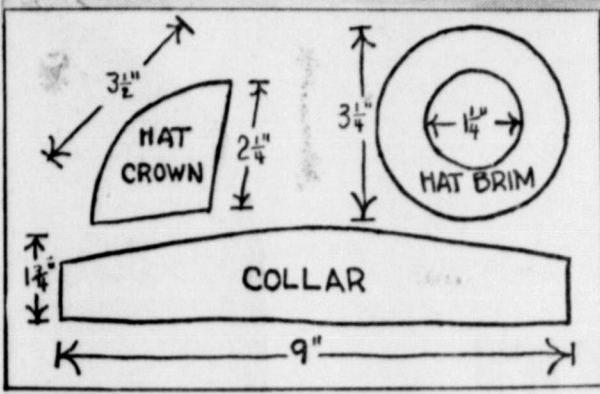

The A. J. Jones of Hereford visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jones, for the week-end.

Mrs. Earl Goodrum and Mrs. John Dendrick are conducting a morning play school for the five and six year old pre-school children of camp.

The street in front of the new houses has received a face lifting with white gravel.

The Gary Moore's installed their new television Tuesday.

Eggs for Halloween Favors

Which is witch? None! They're all good eggs in the witches hats. They're part of the fun at Halloween parties. Each is a favor to take home or eat on the spot. Each bears the guest's name on its collar and can be used as a place card.

The hard-boiled look on the shell is achieved with a black crayon or a few strokes of a paint brush dipped in pure vegetable color.

Assemble a few hard-cooked eggs in array such as this, surround with popcorn, use sheaves of grain (or autumn leaves) for background and—presto!—you have a centerpiece to radiate magic for Halloween.

Here's how it's done:

Cut witches' hats and collars from black paper, using above pattern.

Twist collars into circles of size to hold eggs and fasten with paste. Then paste names of guests on collars.

Make witches' hats by joining the two straight edges of the crown on the inside with cellulose tape. Attach crown to hat brim with more tape. Use pieces of wool yarn for witches' hair by pasting to under side of brim.

When hard-cooking eggs, cover them in pan with water to come at least one inch above eggs. After bringing rapidly to boiling, turn off heat. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Then cool promptly and thoroughly in cold water. This helps prevent dark surface on yolks.

Join West and Mrs. Forest Green to serve as arrangement committee to draft plans for the tournament. Refreshments were served to approximately 25 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Starkey, Joyce and Linda, Ray Glascock and Sam Temperton went to Floydada after cafe fixtures Sunday.

PL

Mrs. Calvin Martin visited her mother and father in Floydada Sunday.

PL

Katie Studer and Irma George visited in the Henry Randolph home last week end.

Faculty Replaced By P-TA For Half Day Workshop

Springlake elementary school faculty members teaching the first six grades were replaced for one-half day Wednesday, for a faculty workshop.

The P-TA furnished replacements in order that the faculty could continue their monthly half-day study course cooperative workshop.

Those substituting for the regular faculty are Mrs. Earl Miller, Mrs. Pat McCord, Mrs. Elmer Kelly, first grade; Mrs. W. G. Sanderson, Mrs. Cecil Meadows, Mrs. Roger Haberer, second grade; Mrs. Pete Parish, Mrs. Marvin Sanders, third grade; and Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Orrin Howe, fourth grade.

Next month the substitution will take place on the third Wednesday afternoon due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Vacation Delays Reply To Letter

Mayor Pat McCord received a letter Wednesday from the secretary to State Insurance Commission Mack Wentz. She acknowledged receipt of the letter from the mayor presidents of two local civic clubs asking that he look into the recent revision of Earth's insurance key rate.

She said the commissioner is on vacation, will be back Nov. 1, and that the matter will be called to his attention at that time.

The bronosaur, long-extinct plant-eating dinosaur, was the largest animal ever to walk the earth. It averaged 70 feet in length and often weighed more than 30 tons.

Walkers Have New Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Walker of Abilene are the parents of a daughter, born at 3:30 a.m. Oct. 16. She weighed 7 pounds, 12 ounces and has been named Laura Ruth. She was born in Hendrick hospital, Abilene.

Mrs. Walker is the former Patsy McCord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCord of Batesville, Ark. The Jack McCords are former Earth residents.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joel T. Walker of Quanah.

Jr. High Team Defeats Sudan

The Junior high school football team played Sudan Tuesday night, defeating them 13-0.

The first tally was made by Rayburn Ott. Pete Jaspars went across for the second TD and Tom Messer made the extra point.

The game was the second in which the two teams clashed. The prior encounter ended in a tie.

Donnie Brown, team reporter, said the Springlake team has won three and lost one game.

'42' Tournament Planned At PV

PLEASANT VALLEY — The '42' party Saturday evening at the Community Center, sponsored by the P. V. Recreation club, was well attended and enjoyed.

At a short business session, presided over by Jim Grizzle, chairman, the club voted to hold a "42" tournament, meeting the second and fourth Saturday evenings through November and December.

The chair appointed Leroy Scott,

There are always a certain number of families in the United States with serious financial troubles. At this time, the number is relatively low. To those few and to their creditors, this column should be of particular interest.

The principal reported causes which throw families into financial difficulties are: inflation and high taxes, inability to resist "impulse" buying, combined with easy credit, illness or other emergencies, or just plain bad judgment and mismanagement.

Some people in financial difficulty, when threatened with legal proceedings to collect outstanding debts, seek the relief offered them by federal bankruptcy laws.

The purpose of bankruptcy laws is to permit an honest but unfor-

One of the funniest sights we can think of is a small women's organization, in which everyone wants the other to hold office. It goes something like this:

"Some of you women without young children will just have to take the chairmanship! With one at home and two in school, I have my hands full."

"But at least you're home all day. By the time I teach all day, grade papers all evening, go to teachers meeting on Saturday—I hardly have time to wash the breakfast dishes."

"You two think you're busy! How about me? I don't even have a husband to help me make a living. Besides, there's my sick mother."

"Well, I can't help this year. I'm chairman of the This-and-That society, and they're having a state convention here next spring."

"I'll take my turn, but I'll have to be year after next at least."

And so it goes, until one wonders who thought up the thing in the first place.

"We are a great believer in women's clubs. They keep housewives from bogging down in domestic drudgery. They give business women an opportunity to dress up and 'socialize' after working hours. They make newcomers feel welcome, give old-timers a chance to meet strangers and vary the pattern of the neighborhood life."

But just once in awhile, when we hear a diatribe argue that the woman's place is in the kitchen, we wonder if he hasn't been listening in on one of these "I'm busier than you" elections.

Mrs. Gregson Heads Club Which First Used Timesaving Pressure Cookers Here

By Mrs. Lester La Grange

Mrs. Kermit E. Gregson is the newly elected president of Sod House Demonstration club. She had served four months before election time when she finished Mrs. W. C. Adams' term, who was forced to retire due to ill health.

It was not a speculation for the nominating committee to name her for the presidency for she had served ably in that capacity several years ago.

Mrs. Gregson is the former Ethel Druay and came to this community in 1927. She and Mr. Gregson have two daughters. Mildred was graduated from Sudan high school in 1952 and is in nurses training in Methodist hospital, Lubbock. She plans to become a medical missionary nurse. The other daughter, Maxine, is a sophomore in Sudan high school.

The family resides on a farm about eight miles north of Amherst and that distance east of Sudan.

"For fifteen years I have been interested in demonstration work," Mrs. Gregson said. "For I could see how my family would receive benefits from the knowledge gained in many ways."

She considers sewing as one of the Sudan 4-H club as her outstanding achievement in club work. The girls learned much about cooking, canning, housework, law, gardening and other activities from which the whole family benefited. The 4-H recreational program meant a great deal to them and broadened their acquaintances throughout the county and leadership was developed.

Mrs. Gregson says that she does not have a definite hobby. She enjoys reading, crocheting and embroidering and has used some specimens of her work to make her home more attractive.

Throughout the years she has held nearly every office in the Sod House club.

She is the teacher of the Builders class in the Amherst Methodist Sunday school. It is a class of about 20 women and men. In the Women's Society of Christian Service of the church she serves as secretary of student work.

"I receive great satisfaction in my work in the church," says Mrs. Gregson. "Without it there would certainly be a void in my life."

The Sod House Demonstration club was organized more than 26 years ago, the third to be organized in Lamb county. The club maintains a small club house on the Levi Stine farm (now Claud Stone's place) for about 5 years in the early 1930's. It was primarily a kitchen and many foods were prepared and preserved there during the depression years and later.

The club is fully organized. Well laid plans are made at the beginning of each club year. Some of the roll calls they have answered since their first meeting in January have been, "Something I'd like for our club to do this year," "My Garden Plans for 1954," "One Reason I'm Interested in Civil Defense," and "A Job Made Easier after our Work Simplification Program." Roll calls are in keeping with the program of the day.
