NOSIN' . .
WITH POLLY

We now have a name for our paper. It is "Earth News", probably the most simple name sent in. There were some 250 different names sent in, and around 450 entries in all. Some folks submitted the same names, but each had the date and the hour, making it easy for us to find our winner, who is Mrs. Jimmie Eagle, winner of the Whirlpool washer. She was very happy, and the folks who heard us break the news to her were happy too.

Parents of school age children, looking a little forebored and lonely Wednesday, after getting their "settles and joys," off to school. Those who started their small fry to school for their first year of schooling probably following the "old pattern" of going back over to school every two or three hours to see how they were making out, and finding their "small fry" had grown up so much by being on his own and away from mother.

I wonder if you folks are aware of the two Ben Hogans that are rising to fame here in Earth? Well, it's Billy Homer Hodge and Rudy Ardis.

The two took off for Plainview Wednesday week, for their first attempt at golfing. It was so exciting, they decided to go again Friday. Now the only thing either of them wish to discuss is golf—the only drawback to this is the fact that neither of them have yet picked up golfer's terms of speech for greens, strokes, sand traps, roughs and the like.

Have any of you attended the wrestling matches at the Sports Arena at Littlefield? If so, then it should be a clear picture to you as to what happened to Mrs. H. E. Hickman's voice.

Hickman doesn't seem any worse for having come, and I don't know how the Orbie Armstrong's are feeling, but it seems Mrs. Hickman saw all the hair pulling, and all the unethical holds that go on in wrestling matches, and in trying to keep the referee informed on all the wrong doings going on in the ring. She strained her vocal cords, and paid a high price for it, by having to keep quiet all the earlier part of the week. "It bet even the wrestlers came out feeling better than she did."

Buddy Free sporting his first ball of cotton to open this year, my first impulse was to go buy a picksack at the nearest store and get busy, but recovering, I realized I had come in to get some news about his cotton crop—he has 359 acres of it, but swears he's about on starvation. I'm sure though he wouldn't like to swap starvation places with us news folks.

Mary Foster and Mrs. Skeeter McAlpine crying on each other's shoulders, and each feeling deep sympathy for the other, having something in common—"both having Hayfever."

Seems like everyday since our office was opened at Earth, we have had the most beautiful flowers to enjoy—And I want to say "Thanks, Mutt" for sharing your beautiful flowers with us.

George Foreman Wondering what a small boy has to do to get his name in the paper, so he went swimming at Muleshoe to make it.

Cotton Seed Prices Are Up Nine Dollars From Year Ago

Cotton harvest in the Valley was nearing a completion and private estimates indicated the final turning report would exceed earlier expectations. Stalk cutting operations were expected to be completed by August 31. In the Coastal Bend area harvest was winding up in some counties while in central Texas harvest was gaining momentum. Most gins in north and east Texas were busy and a few Texas were being ginned in west Texas and Oklahoma. Scattered showers fell in most all sections of the area during the past weekend but gave only temporary relief from the extreme droughty conditions that exist.

The movement of cottonseed to crushing mills continues to be heavy in the active harvesting areas. The grades of cottonseed continued to be good, however a decrease in quality was noted in most all districts. According to the grade certificates received from licensed chemists by the United States Department of Agriculture cottonseed grades in Texas this week averaged 100.0 compared with 102.5 as reported for the period ending August 19. Most of the decrease in quality was noted in Districts 8 and 10. Drying conditions in most of District 8 were very severe this year and affected the quality of seed while in District 10 late picking and clean-up seed were being received at crushing mills. The grade certificates indicated numerous discounts for excess foreign matter, however the discounts in most cases were small. No discount for excess moisture was noted.

When lot prices of cottonseed paid to producers in Texas this week averaged 63.40 per ton which was slightly higher than the average price, $64.70 per ton as reported last week. During the corresponding period one year ago the average price of cottonseed in Texas was $55.60 per ton. Oil mill prices (as is and basis grade 100) averaged around $71.00 per ton. Cottonseed meal in the Dallas market was quoted at $78.00 per ton wholesale bag lots carload. Meal was being shipped in as the supply in Dallas market was exhausted.

Supplies of food fats for the crop year beginning October 1, 1954 are expected to be as large as the record total of the current season. Beginning stocks (most of which will be owned by CCC) and production are both likely to be about the same as a year earlier. More soybean oil and lard will be produced in the year ahead but cottonseed oil output will decrease. Production of butter is expected to remain about the same as a year earlier. According to the August crop forecast the 1954 soybean crop will be the largest on record although hot, dry weather has adversely affected prospective yields, the 1954 soybean acreage was a record high. Cottonseed production in 1954-55 is likely to decrease by nearly one-fourth from a year ago. Production of peanuts as forecast earlier this month will be the lowest since 1939. Output of flaxseed in 1954-55 is currently forecast at one-fifth larger than a year earlier.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.J.D.

The Bill of Rights is an interesting document of human liberties guaranteeing to the individual certain rights such as: The right to worship God in his own way. The right of free speech and press which includes the right to hold opinions and to speak without fear. The right to assemble and petition the government concerning grievances, meaning that we can challenge wrong whenever it appears with the hope of justice. The right to privacy in a man's own home without the danger of unwarranted search and seizure. The right of trial by jury, meaning that a person is assumed to be innocent until proven guilty. The right to own property and to receive compensation for its public use.

America obviously stands for human rights and opportunities. Man is recognized as a child of God and stands above human institutions as the Creator's supreme creation. Man has a right to life and to freedom. He has a right to impartial freedom before the law. He has a right to be free from oppression and free from crushing coercion. He has a right to work, to serve and to pursue happiness.

These are rights which mankind throughout the world is seeking and they are the birthright of every American. These are spiritual values which Christianity recognizes as coming from the Supreme Being.

The first target of communism is the church because it is the most formidable barrier. If the men who launched America on its road to greatness thought it important enough to underline and emphasize our dependence upon the Almighty, it certainly behooves us who are blessed by freedom to be as resolute.

Our America is the result of a struggle that lasted more than seven hundred years from the Norman Conquest to the surrender of Yorktown and its perpetuation requires our vigilant fidelity and readiness for self-sacrifice. John Adams wrote a letter to you and to me. Said he, "Posterity! You will never know how much it cost the present generation to preserve your freedom. I hope you will make good use of it. If you do not, I shall repeat in Heaven that I ever took half the pains to preserve it."

Mrs. Lou Maude Parker of Brownston arrived Tuesday for a visit with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carver of Earth. She plans to remain here until Christmas.

Sudan College Student Has Active, Profitable Summer

By Mrs. Evelyn M. Scott There's been never dull moment for Texas University student, Murlyn Bellamy this summer. The brief summer at home has been chock full of activity and has kept this carpenter's helper, motorcycle rider and airplane flying enthusiast more than busy.

Murlyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Bellamy of Sudan is attending the College of Pharmacy at Texas university and works part-time during the school year for a drug store in Austin. But drug store work was nothing new to Murlyn when he secured the position during his Freshman year, for Murlyn began working for a local drug store in Sudan at the age of twelve. It was there that his interest in pharmaceutical work was developed and he made the decision to make pharmacy work his profession.

Murlyn is the son of a farmer and knows how to make himself useful around the farm and after giving his Dad a helping hand with the crop this summer, he decided to have a try as a carpenter's helper. He went to work at Plant X Power Plant located north of town. The extra money earned as a carpenter's helper will come in handy during this year's school semester. Murlyn is a motorcycle enthusiast and became interested in them at the age of fifteen. Before graduating into the motorcycle class he was the owner of a motor scooter. Besides keeping his motorcycle in A-1 condition this summer, he was bitten by the "flying bug" and enrolled for flying lessons.

Murlyn Bellamy

Despite his busy schedule he managed to get in enough hours to solo.

Murlyn is a junior this year. Since entering the university he has served as historian of Kappa Psi Pharmaceutical Fraternity, president of the Student branch of Texas Pharmaceutical Association, and president of the Student Branch of American Pharmaceutical Association. He is now serving as president of Kappa Psi Pharmaceutical Fraternity.

Bible Words for Today

PSALM 19:12—"Who can understand his errors? Cleanse Thou me from secret faults."

This verse specially appeals to me because it suggests a prayer we all need to offer. Self-ignorance is so common, genuine self-knowledge so rare. Here is a man bewildered by the mystery of his own being. He has somehow become aware that there are regions of his personality which he has never explored. There are forces at work within him which have never been brought under conscious control. He has "secret faults," by which we are to understand, not faults well-known to himself and carefully screened from others, but faults of which he himself is abysmally ignorant. This man has discovered that he does not properly or adequately know himself, yet the little that he does know is sufficient to fill him with misgiving and apprehension. This man is everyman. The question he raises we all do well to raise. The prayer he offers should be a universal prayer.

Mrs. Billie Hodge

Mrs. Hodge Is Former California Trick Rider and Famed Horsewoman

Mrs. Billie Hodge, though now a sedate farmer's wife and the mother of two children, was a well known trick rider in California during her teens.

She began riding horses at the age of three years and began trick riding at ten. Shortly after developing her trick riding she won showmanship and trick riding contests, carrying off five trophies and cups on her riding and appearance.

She has won about 50 ribbons in rodeos in California in events including barrel races, rescue races, garment races, potato races, musical chair races, bareback riding and the steeple chase. She has also won a third place award in bronc riding.

In 1937, at the age of 14, she led the Pageant of Lights parade at Los Angeles, sharing the honors with movie star Leo Carrillo. She was mounted on a $20,000 horse and a $5,000 saddle.

The horse, Diamond, is a registered albino Morgan breed and belonged to Comarilla. The horse is now used by Lucky Haydon in the Hopalong Cassidy films.

In 1938 she led the Rose Bowl parade in Pasadena, Calif.

She appeared as a double in movies in 1939 with Tom Mix and Gene Autry. That same year she headed the parade for the opening of the Del Mar race track, owned by Bing Crosby, and drove one of Crosby's sulkeys in the opening, winning third place.

She held the lead position at the Santa Anna race track, leading a race horse.

At the Santa Anna race track, she served as the mounted rider who leads the race horses to the starting position.

Growing by Working

Lesson for September 5, 1954

NOW I get me up to work,
I pray thee, Lord, I may not shirk.
When I lay me down at night,
I pray thee, Lord, my work be right.

These lines by an unknown author hung in the bedroom of a man who during his 85 years showed that his prayer was sincere. He was a Christian; and a Christian will think of his work as done always in the sight of God. A janitor of a church was asked why he kept a certain place behind the pulpit so clean. "Nobody can see it," he was told. "But God sees it," the janitor said. The Bible gives us Dr. Foreman some light on work in general, as God sees it.

There Is No Free Lunch
The little church at Thessalonica was troubled with "moochers." The people there had got the idea that the end of the world was right around the corner. Jesus would come again soon, in their own lifetime. They did not see the use in working any more; the house they were building (for instance) would not be finished before the end would come; the crop they were planting would never be harvested before the Judgment Day. So these eager, expectant Christians just quit their jobs in droves. . . . But of course they had to eat. So they became free-loaders, boarding with such members of the parish as did keep their jobs. When their traveling Bishop Paul heard about this, he wrote them a very plain letter; indeed he had said some plain words while he was there getting the church organized, only they seem to have forgotten it. "He that will not work, let him not eat," he said. Help the needy, yes by all means; but don't feed the lazy. There is only one basic rule of economics (as an economist has said) and it is one anybody can understand: There is no free lunch.

What Is Useful Work?
Now there is no special virtue in work, in itself. A man could work very hard shoveling sand from one pile on the beach to another pile, and back again, all day long. But it would do nobody any good. To be sure, he would be developing his muscles; but he could do that better some other way at some more useful job. The Bible's references to work always bring in the idea that the work is to be useful. Work that performs no service to any one is not for the serious Christian. This is a particularly important point for young Christians deciding on a life's work. We ought to work, of course, we don't want to be objects of charity, we don't want to be carried, we want to do something useful in the world. But what kind of work is useful? Paul told the Thessalonians that they should work with their hands, because they were all hand-workers; but some of the most useful work in the world is not done with the hands. Two points should be borne in mind: first that as a Christian I ought to seek the most useful work I can do, and second that I can be most useful in what I can do best.

Growing by Working
Work makes the man. Or at least, work shapes the man. Look at any picture of a high school senior class; they look all about alike, and for that matter look like any other senior class in America. But take a picture (if you could get it) of that same class twenty-five years later, or more, when they have all been at work in various jobs for years. Some may be drifters, ne'er-do-wells, and they look it; misfits because they have never stuck to useful work. The others who have stayed on one job or another, will look different by now, partly because of the kind of work they have been doing. The housewife, the school teacher, the farmer, the banker, the writer, the soldier, the artist—they do not look alike any more. We grow by working. But there is another question: Does my work help me to grow as a Christian? No doubt the slave-drivers of ancient Egypt grew by their work—grew more evilish; Moses was growing out of the wilderness of Midian tending sheep. But he was growing more God-like. It is not simply what that counts; it is the spirit in which we do it.

Something New In Hollywood Star 'Doubles' for Dummy

Frank Lovejoy won the unique distinction of "doubling" for a dummy during filming of a hazardous rescue sequence of "Men of the Fighting Lady," showing at the Earth Sunday and Monday. This M-G-M drama depicts a story of U.S. Navy jet pilots over Korea. Photographed in the Pacific from the aircraft carrier Princeton, the scene showed a helicopter approaching the carrier's deck, dangling what appeared to be a man. The helicopter swooped forward, dipped low and hovered while crewmen detached its burden. During the first two "takes" of this operation, the "man" dangling from the helicopter was a dummy, but on the next two tries the dummy was replaced by very-much alive actor Lovejoy.

But on his initial attempt to replace the dummy, there was some uncertainty as to how long Mr. Lovejoy would remain very much alive. As the camera's focus on the actor while he dangled below the 'copter, the harness to which he was attached snapped and he fell into the sea. A crash boat sped to the unpremeditated rescue. Fortunately, Lovejoy, a good swimmer, was able to keep afloat despite being weighted down with his heavy flying paraphernalia. His unconventional ride and unexpected "dunking" was the continuation of the rescue operation of a "ditched" flier filmed a month previously aboard another carrier, the Oriskany, 500 miles away off San Francisco. The actual discomfort of sloshing around in the water (this time, as described in the script) was subsequently experienced by Lovejoy in a tank at the M-G-M studio.

This probable all-time record in the attenuation of a rescue was enacted in the cause of translating a number of dramatic episodes from the Korean conflict for "Men of the Fighting Lady," which, in addition to Lovejoy, stars Van Johnson, Walter Pidgeon, Louis Calhern, Dewey Martin and Keen an Wynn. Its screen play is based on a James A. Michener magazine story, "Forgotten Heroes of Korea," and another magazine story, "Case of the Blind Pilot," by Commander Harry A. Barnes, a Navy flier, which recounted how a critically wounded pilot was "talked down" into a successful carrier-deck landing by an air mate. The latter role is enacted by Van Johnson, with the blinded pilot played by Dewey Martin.

Frank Lovejoy's sub-helicopter gyrations, in the role of Commander Paul Grayson, the squad leader whose almost suicidal low-level attacks on the enemy have forced him on one mission to ditch into the sea, developed temporarily during filming of the Anseo Color picture. Producer Henry Berman and Director Andrew Marton originally had planned to shoot the sequence of the helicopter depositing the rescued flier on deck using a dummy. But on the first two swipes it looked so unrealistic that Lovejoy suggested that he do it himself.

As recounted here, his first attempt was not exactly a success. He made it, however, on the second try. When the machine swooped down from a fifty-foot altitude and hovered above the carrier's deck while a rescue squad detached him before the grinding cameras, Lovejoy's pained expression, he acknowledged later, required very little in the way of acting. Apart from his earlier mishap, it seems that he is leery of heights. "I get a nosebleed on a nine-foot ladder!" he says.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Anglin left Tuesday for Ruidoso for a few days vacation.

LET'S TALK LIVESTOCK

By Ted Gouley
FEEDER'S OPTIMISM SUPPORTS PRICES

FORT WORTH — Movement of cattle and calves to market at Ft. Worth and all around the market circle this week was again seasonally heavy. The drought continued to pinch larger and larger portions of the Southwest and this condition brought "shipping day" to more and more farms and ranches.

For the most part the packers were singing the blues over the condition of the dressed meat trade and the fact that currently their slaughter is running far behind a year ago at Fort Worth and other Southwestern packing centers.

This gloomy mental attitude was not shared by the buyers of stocker and feeder cattle and calves. Order buyers and dealers at Fort Worth said they could use many more high quality stockers and feeders than they are getting in the runs, and it appeared that feeding of cattle in the 1954-55 season would be at a heavy rate.

Corn Belt and Western States feeders had a good year last year with estimated profits by the US DA running between $30 to $40 per head. While this was above average, the spread between feeder costs and fat cattle prices has narrowed somewhat this year, the feeders were apparently able to see a favorable margin still.

This served to take thousands of calves and yearlings out of packer channels and into stocker and feeder channels. At Fort Worth Monday, the good and choice quality stocker calves and yearlings drew $15 to $19, a few calves higher, older steers and long aged yearlings drew $18 downward.

Slaughter calves were bid lower and in many cases sold well below last week's high time. Cows were steady to 50 cents lower, most of the more desirable kinds selling pretty near steady and the junkier and excessively grossy kinds taking the dip. Bulls were weak to 50 cents lower and sold fully $1 below two weeks ago. Fat steers and yearlings drew steady prices, with choice fat kinds topped in the $20 to $23 bracket.

Hog Prices Tumble; Lowest In Weeks

Top hogs sold at $21.75 at Fort Worth Monday, a break of 75 cents close. This was the lowest point in several weeks.

Packers reported pork sales were lagging and pointed to breaks in wholesale pork prices last week of from $4 to $9 per hundred at some of the Eastern population centers.

Supplies of hogs were increasing seasonally to some extent, but it appeared the pork was running into a combination of hot weather and liberal supplies of other kinds of meat as the principal factors in their downfall. Packers pointed out that a heavy percentage of the hog requires some time to cure and process and with the Fall season at hand and its increased supplies coming up the long-term on pork prices was definitely inclining downward barring unforeseen developments.

Sheep and Lambs Hold Steady Here

Despite lowered dressed meat reports from Midwest and from Eastern centers in the past several days the lambs and sheep held steady at Fort Worth. Some steady support from the stocker and feeder buyers was a prop under the market as was the fact that receipts were rather light. There was steady demand for breeding types of ewes when they had quality and were of suitable ages to go back to the country.

Good and choice fat lambs topped at $18 to $19, and were considered by the trade as quotable to $20 and $21 when they were suitably fat and conditioned. Stocker and feeder lambs were quotable around $12 to $16. Slaughter ewes sold from $3.50 to $6 and stocker ewes ranged from $6 to $10, a sizeable string of good ewes at $10 going back to the country from Ft.

ASC Office Warns Of Need For An Acreage Recheck

The Lamb County ASC office warned this week that there are still a few cotton producers who are overplanted and have not reported the excess cotton plowed-up. Under the provisions of the Agricultural Stabilization Act producers may dispose of the excess acreage within twenty days of the date of the notice of their measured acreage. Farms which do not dispose of the excess acreage will be subject to the penalty of 17 1/2 cents per pound on the excess cotton loan program or any conservation practice for any farm. A cotton loan program? Any conservation practice for any farm. A cotton marketing card cannot be issued until the excess cotton is disposed of or until the penalty is paid. Rechecks of cotton acreage previously found to be excessive are made only after a deposit to cover the cost of the recheck has been made at the ASC office.

Mrs. J. E. Livingston recently returned from a two week vacation in Arizona with her daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stanbury and daughters. While there she attended a four-day denominational church camp meeting. Worth Monday that averaged 15 pounds.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Misunderstanding of simple driving rules by numerous motorists is one factor which places Texas right at the top in number of traffic deaths. Possibly the most mystifying of all traffic rules to the average driver are those relating to "Right of Way" at an intersection.

In trying to understand the laws regulating intersecting traffic, it is best to start off with the premise that all streets are of equal dignity, legally speaking. Traffic signs and signals may vary this rule somewhat, but when in doubt, it is safest to assume that all drivers crossing your path have a claim to the right of way equal to your own.

Obviously, however, in many cases one driver or the other will be legally entitled to the right of way. When it becomes necessary to determine right of way in a particular situation, the driver who reaches the intersection first, or who is going to get there first, is ordinarily favored.

But when two automobiles are an equal distance from the intersection, that one approaching from the other driver's right normally has the right of way. Some intersections are known as "courtesy corners," having a stop sign or a flashing red signal facing each direction of approach. The first driver reaching the corner and coming to a complete stop will normally have the right of way over other vehicles not already in the intersection. However, don't depend too much on the other fellow's courtesy, and be sure to keep a "proper look-out" and your car under "proper control," as explained in a preceding column.

Dogs Are Leading A Real Dog's Life

In our town, the dogs have had their day. Until a few weeks ago, they roamed at will, barking at the milkman, threatening the postman, and nipping happily at pants legs of ordinary passers-by.

The dogs who live in our block were a clannish lot. They had "bosses," "best friends," bitter rivals and outright enemies, both human and canine. The unfriendly ones set up property lines and, if an enemy crossed, it meant the battle was joined. Like their supposedly wiser masters, they enjoyed the ups-and-downs of a close knit community life.

But dogs live by an unwritten law while man lives by whole books of written ones—some kept and others broken. So the milkman, and the postman, and the

Conference Basketball Will Start Earlier This Year

Two committees from District 2A met at Springlake school Wednesday night and re-elected three members of the Springlake faculty as officers.

Supt. O. E. Lumsden will head the district's football committee again this year, and Principal A. H. Burton will continue as secretary. Principal C. P. Martin will be secretary of the basketball committee for the second year.

About the only other business taken up by the football group was to re-adopt the rules of last year with only minor changes.

ed by Daniel Russ of Happy, who was also elected for a second term, worked out a schedule for a double round robin.

The schedule of conference games starts December 12, nearly a month sooner this year than last because the addition of a seventh team, Friona, to the district makes it take longer to play the round robin.

Teams in the district this year are Springlake, Happy, Dimmitt, Kress, Sudan, Amherst and Friona.

The basketball group also re-adopted last year's rules.
