Grain Producers Must Sign Up By December 1

December 1 is the deadline for growers to file applications to take part in the 1962 winter wheat stabilization and the 1962 feed grain program for winter barley.

The deadline was emphasized Saturday by L. D. Aten, Lamb County ASCS office manager.

Aten said "Lamb farmers who have wheat allotments or barley bases and take part in the programs will be eligible to receive special payments for diverting a part of their acreage from the production of wheat or barley, as the case may be—and devoting that acreage to an approved conservation use. The farmers also will qualify for price supports of their 1962 crop."

The ASC manager also explained Saturday:

County farmers now are authorized (as of Nov. 13) to turn livestock onto those acres diverted under the 1961 Feed Grain Program.

"Permission to graze the diverted acreage was given because the farmers now may cultivate or plant that acreage for harvest in 1962, and because some farmers faced unreasonable cost for fencing in order to utilize adjoining stalk fields or to get livestock to an available water supply."

The 1962 wheat support is at a minimum national average of $2 a bushel. While the '62 barley price support has not been announced, it will be at a level not less than for 1961. The national average support price for the 1961 crop barley was 93 cents a bushel.

slowed the boll pullers down earlier this week. Several farmers had strippers going Thursday afternoon as the sun started shining again.

By Mrs. Mary Dell Osborne

The Thanks we give: To have our children grow-up in a school community which is ever striving for advancement and the general public good.

This winter our children are blessed with in-door toilets and the continued serving of hot lunches. We have the service of a health nurse, Mrs. Paul Wood, who is ever interested in the health and well-being of each child.

Our audio-visual aid department is up-to-date. We see the latest pictures that E. W. Harper, our school supervisor, can get. Just think, we were studying weekly readers and geographies about Africa and India while Mr. Nehru's pleas were being made here among other things to keep children in school up-to eleven years old. What did we see? "The Rhythm of Africa", a picture depicting Africa in its tribal rituals and present striving for industrial growth. This was before it was shown on TV. Also we saw Western Europe and its industrial re-birth in industry after World War II, with the aid of United States' lend-lease money. In the European picture was also shown the World development of "Salesmanship" consciousness. A Salesmanship World Conference Workshop was in progress.

By the influence of our city newspaper, more people have been brought into the consciousness of their support in keeping its business growing by supporting its businesses. In most instances, all of our wants can be supplied locally and with less expense.

Our churches and benevolent societies remember the less fortunate at Christmas time which keeps our children in good spirit this time of year.

We would appreciate some building blocks, any kind of construction toys or puzzles that the children can busy themselves with during these winter days. So if your children have out-grown such toys, please let our school have some of them. All toys are welcome, through.

Rev. Wesley Renfro, one of our Scout committeemen, and his little daughter, Dorisene, accompanied us to the October Scout Leaders meeting, Sunday, November 14th, at the George White Scout Leadership Training meeting in the Littlefield Community Building. Scout Isaac John Osborne, Troop NO. 646, was given a space to demonstrate and show some thing that we were suppose to have shown the second Monday night in November but were prevented from doing so by the snow and sleet. He demonstrated how the electric Morse Code sending and receiving set Explorer Willie Ray Johnson and he made and snatched a paper from between two Coke bottle necks without upsetting the bottles to the delight of all. He also showed the plaster-of-Paris ash trays he and Willie Ray made, and the modeling clay figures for the Cub Scouts. Prof. Osborne, Isaac John and Mrs. Mary Dell Osborne were among those who received leadership certificates at this meeting.

Explorer addition was L. D. Nunn, Scout addition, W. B. Washington, and Robert Lee Washington, was our Cub Scout addition for November. All have been officially registered and subscribe for Boys' Life.

Letters to the Editor...

Mr. Ross Middleton Earth News-Sun Earth, Texas

Dear Mr. Middleton:

I hope you can visit Boys Ranch with me some day and see how we're trying to develop nearly 300 boys from every part of the nation and how they live, learn and earn with us.

Each boy earns a small salary for his chosen job such as butchering, automotive repair, building trades or landscaping. He must keep regular hours, be punctual, have respect for authority and accept responsibility.

As he learns from our 14 trades and develops in these categories, he may be promoted to Jr. Staff where he directs boys younger than himself and each boy can progress as far and as fast as his ambition and abilities will carry him.

All our boys are urged to save their money and practically every one who has lived at the Ranch for as much as two years has a saving of $50 or more when he leaves. Right now the Ranch is holding, for safe keeping, nearly $6,000 worth of U. S. Bonds belonging to the boys.

We're trying our level best to prepare a boy to be a productive member of society and business. Our goal is to give as much education as possible, teach him "how to work", to save as much as he can, to accept trust and responsibility and how to live and conduct himself with people.

The best way to see what can be done with this kind of boy is to visit the Ranch any time you're passing by. In the meantime, if you'd like to have a part in helping a mixed-up youngster become a worthwhile man who can stand on his own feet, won't you send what you can in the enclosed envelope. You may be helping a boy who will someday work for you.

Sincerely yours, Cal Farley

GRADES

By Carla Glascock

Grades are uppermost in our minds this week because this is the end of a six weeks period. The student knows about where he stands with the other students. If he, the student, has been getting his homework and paying attention in class he is sure to make a passing grade. If he has been loafing his grades will be just passing or below. The student should always do his work to the best of his abilities. That way he is or most always assured of a passing grade. All students have to work for their grades. The teachers do not give grades to them. Homework plays an important part in grades, also. When the students take tests they are testing to see whether or not he has learned what has been given to him in homework. If the student doesn't understand his homework he should find out before he starts to work it. Through understanding of what one is supposed to do, and then a lot of work on it will help keep ones grades up. Never be satisfied with just getting by, but always put ones very best into it.

NEW BOOKS

By Janey Randolph

We have one hundred-seven new books in the Springlake Junior High Library. We have some science and some biography, but mostly fiction. These books are primarily for the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades, but several books will be placed in the fifth grade section. Plastic jackets are being placed on many of the new books to make them more attractive and also to protect the books. These books are very expensive and the students can help by handling them carefully.

A day concert will be in Aspermont High School in Aspermont.

Seven Aleda trumpets, a special feature of the band, will open each concert. Selected music by the Handbells will be another special feature of the concerts. The handbells are made in Holland and England and the McMurry Handbell Choir is one of the few in the Southwest.

Dr. Raymond T. Bynam, member of Who's Who in the Southwest and also a member of American Bandmaster Association, has been band director of the McMurry band for 15 years, and is widely known throughout the Southwest for his ability and showmanship.
