Empty saddles in the old corral, my tears will be dry tonight... So goes the words of that old song... and so goes that similar feeling in many a home in the Earth-Springlake Community... where empty beds... empty places at the table... and less laughter seems to remind us that so many youths in our community are away at college.....

"nosin"
That Byers Lawn was just about to become the show place of Springlake... and Jean Byers was going to do it all single-handed... after she left son Danny at the University of Texas... and sick with the flu too... However, Roy caught her digging and raking, and sent someone out to do it for her... Jean gave up her job and just moved inside and started to work with full steam ahead... Seems fellows have a hard time understanding "Mama" when one of her chicks leave home...

That W. D. Marten home is doubtless one of the cleanest dwellings in this fair city... Seems Wanda Martens hasn't let up a minute since daughter Janet left for college Sunday... Can't believe that domicile was all that dirty, somehow it just doesn't add up... Let us know, Wanda, if work actually works getting all those "Janet Memories" out of the house... or at least successfully tides one over until one can smile again... Big surprise, Janet came home Tuesday. She enrolled early, got her books, and then headed home... Foot Wanda, guess she had to let up on her cleaning for a day.

Latest joke from behind the Iron Curtain is being circulated by union members who escaped to democratic Germany. Two Germans in the Communist zone were discussing the fuel shortage under communism. The first said, "Your house is always warm. How do you manage it?" The second answered, "In strict confidence, it's my parrot. I taught him to say 'Long Live Parry Chief Ulbricht.' Then I put him on our balcony overlooking the wood depot. Every time the parrot screams that slogan, the depot workers throw firewood at it. So now I get all the fuel I need."

A couple of decades ago when a king sat on the throne of what is now a soviet satellite, he selected 14 of the most promising young men and sent them abroad for specialized studies in economics and politics. The end in view was to form an elite corps of experts to serve their monarch in various governmental capacities. Later, in exile, the king somewhat ruefully told an American about the experiment. Seven of the up and coming youngsters had gone to England, and, admitted the king, they had done very well. Each had returned home and assumed an important diplomatic post. The other seven had been sent to the United States and, said the exiled ruler, they had done even better for themselves. They all became American citizens!

Roger Miller Show In Muleshoe Sunday To Benefit Little League

The Roger Miller Show is scheduled to be in Muleshoe for a matinee and evening performance Sunday, September 19 at the Muleshoe High School Auditorium. Show time is set for 2:30 and 9:00 p. m.

All proceeds derived from this popular show will go into the Muleshoe Little League Baseball fund, to be used in building two additional ball fields in the Morrison addition in Muleshoe. The two fields are expected to cost approximately $15,000, and will be so designed as to meet the lighting specifications set up by the National Little League Organization for holding tournaments.

The two fields will be built in the present ball park in Muleshoe, and will give the growing Little League three fields, a press box, and a concession stand to complete the ball park. Last year, there were 105 boys in the Major Leagues, and 110 in the Minor Leagues, making six free teams in each of the League. The present ball park with one field was unequipped to take care of that many teams, so the decision was made to build two additional fields. Plans are to have both fields completed by tournament time in July '66, so Muleshoe will be equipped to schedule tournaments at their local ball park. Tickets for the show are $2.00. These may be purchased in advance at the Harvey Bass Appliance in Muleshoe.

4-H Club Work Adopted On A Community Basis

At a 4-H Club meeting of parents and children Monday night in Junior High School building, a decision was made to organize 4-H Club work on a community basis, with monthly meetings scheduled for the third Monday of each month at the school.

The Club will include all youths from the ages of 9-19, and all parents, who are interested in 4H work. In the past, monthly meetings have been held during the school day, with approximately fifty students participating.

Attending the meeting Monday were Ronnie McNutt, Assistant County Agent and Lady Claire Phillips, Home Demonstration Agent, who showed slides demonstrating the purposes of 4-H work, and what it can achieve in a community. They mentioned other county schools adopting 4-H work on a community basis who are experiencing very good results in community projects. The county leaders also pointed out that a family working together seemed a more satisfactory arrangement than the child's working alone.

Parents and children present were: Mrs. Norman Hinchliffe and children; Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Henderson and children; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Cleavinger and children; Gerald James, Tommy Alair, Mrs. Mary Foster, Mrs. Lavie Branscum, Mrs. Gene Gaston and children, Lewis Faver, Mr. and Mrs. John Bridge and children. The next meeting will be held Monday, September 20 at 7:30 p. m. in the Junior High School Library. Officers will be elected, and group leaders will be chosen. Parents and children are urged to attend the meeting, which should last approximately one or one and a half hours.

Subject matters and projects will be discussed and decided upon. The six general areas mentioned were poultry, field crops, safety, clothing, foods and home ground beautification. There are many other fields from which selections could be chosen, and group leaders will be needed for each subject.

Anyone interested in becoming a leader or joining the Club is invited to attend the meeting Monday night. The 4-H youths will decide upon the projects in which they are the most interested at this meeting.

This is an opportunity and privilege for parents and children to work together in developing and furthering similar interests.

Friends and neighbors honored Mrs. Betty Smith in her home Friday with a coffee in honor of her birthday.

Shelley and Sheila Barton of Dimmitt were week-end guests in the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Barton.

Plant Considering Locating In Area

A large garment manufacturing industry which would employ a large number of women as well as men, is considering locating in this area.

A major factor in their decision is the number of genuinely interested people who are able to go to work. A labor survey of the area began Monday, September 13. The survey is being conducted by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, the Texas Employment Commission, and the General Telephone Company. People who fill out forms will be given first consideration if and when employment begins. Forms are also available in the following local locations: Taylor Market Basket, Pioneer Natural Gas Co., Earth Chamber of Commerce, and the Southwestern Public Service Co. office.

JILL McCORD REPRESENTS LOCAL CHAPTER AT MEET

THE TIRED AMERICAN

The following editorial recently appeared in the West Virginia Rock County Star Herald, which we feel worth reprinting.

I am a tired American,
I'm tired of being called the ugly American.

I'm tired of having the world panhandlers use my country as a whipping boy 365 days a year.

I am a tired American--weary of having American embassies and information centers stoned, burned and sacked by mobs operating under orders from dictators who preach peace and breed conflict.

I am a tired American--weary of being lectured by General DeGaulle (who never won a battle) who poses as a second Jehovah in righteousness and wisdom.

I am a tired American--weary of Nasser and others who bleed Uncle Sam white and kick him on the shins and yank his beard if the cash flow falters.

I am a tired American--disturbed by the lazy do-nothings who wouldn't take a job if you drove them to and from work in a Rolls-Royce.

I am a tired American--who is tired of supporting families who haven't known any other source of income than Government relief checks for three generations.

I am a tired American--who is angered by the self-righteous breathbeater critics of America, at home and abroad, who set impossible yardsticks for the United States but never apply the same standards to the French, the British, the Russians and the Chinese.

I am a tired American--sickened by the slack-jawed bigots who wrap themselves in bed sheets in the dead of night and roam the countryside looking for innocent victims.

I am a tired American who is sick of reading about and looking at Negro extremists who use the cloak of "civil rights" to loot and burn and pillage, who seek full equality under the law but who are not willing to work their way into responsibility.

I am a tired American who resents those who try to peddle the belief in schools and colleges that capitalism is a dirty word and that free enterprise and private initiative are only synonyms for greed.

They say they hate capitalism but they are always right at the head of the line demanding their share of the American way of life.

I am a tired American who gets more than a little bit weary of the clique in our State Department who choose to regard a policy of timidity as prudent--the same group who subscribe to a "no-win" policy in Viet Nam.

I am a tired American--real tired of those who are trying to sell me on the belief that America is not the greatest nation in all the world--a generous hearted nation--a nation dedicated to the policy of trying to help the "have nots" achieve some of the good things that our system of free enterprise brought about.

I am an American who gets a lump in his throat when he hears the "Star Spangled Banner" and who holds those chilling high notes of the brass trumpets when Old Glory reaches the top of the flag pole.

I am a tired American--who wants to start snapping at those phony "high priests" who want us to bow down and worship their false idols and who seek to destroy the belief that America is the land of the free and the home of the brave.

I am a tired American who thanks a merciful Lord that he was so lucky to be born an American citizen--a nation under God, with truly mercy and justice for all.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Cal Farley's Boys Ranch
Box 1890
Amarillo, Texas 79105

Mr. Ross Middleton
Publisher
The News-Sun
Earth, Texas

Dear Ross:
The 1965 Boys Ranch Rodeo was probably the most successful of all we have had during the past twenty-one years. Most of the credit for its success we attribute to the fine help you gave us with the stories for the advance publicity in your newspaper.

More than 9,000 people turned out to watch the boys ride in the two performances this year and this, of course, was a new attendance record. We have never been more proud of our boys than we were this year when they successfully rode some of the saltiest stock that has ever been donated to them for this purpose.

We also attribute the success of the Rodeo to the fine group of dedicated people we have at the Ranch caring for our boys. These are people who put aside their personal desires and ambitions and direct all of their time and talents to raise a boy. Without them, and the many fine folks throughout the country who help our 336 boys, Boys Ranch would not be possible.

Again we appreciate so much the excellent publicity that you gave our boys and for all of the help you have given them in the past. I hope you attended one of the two performances and that you will return in the near future to visit the Ranch and have a meal with the finest group of boys in America.

With all good wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,
Cal Farley

CPI Approves Promotion Program To Boost Cotton's Competitive Strength

Corpus Christi, Texas, Sept. 9 (Special) - A $3.1 million research and promotion program to boost cotton's competitive strength during 1966 was approved here yesterday by trustees of the Cotton Producers Institute.

The trustees budgeted $1,035,000 to support cotton research work and $2,066,000 for cotton promotion next year.

The trustees renewed 28 research projects. They recommended intensification of research to "wrap up" the permanent press problem, after which funds would be diverted to high priority projects on exploring ways to inhibit verticillium wilt, bacterial control of bollworms, development of herbicide mixtures, mass rearing of lygus bugs, and improved easy care finishes for cotton products.

Renewed projects are in the fields of systemic insecticides, fruiting and growth, verticillium wilt, men's cotton suits, fiber strength tests, biochemistry of the cotton plant, chemical treatment of fabrics, chemical weed control, biological-chemical control of insects, fabric development, adaptation of cotton plant to minimum temperature, and comparison of cotton's qualities with other fabrics.

The promotion budget will be used to carry cotton sales messages to the buying public through mass consumer magazines, newspaper advertising in cooperation with department stores and large chains, cotton fashion shows, trade magazine advertising, television, and extensive merchandising work by chain stores and garment manufacturers.

At the meeting, trustees heard a report that striking progress has been made in several of the Institute's research projects and a very satisfactory base has been established for developments of even greater significance.

Among the achievements reported were:

At least two new processes for producing permanent press fabrics have resulted from the Institute research effort.

Three new systemic insecticides of unusual promise have been found and now are being field tested.

Permanent press suits of 100 per cent cotton will be test marketed next spring.

As a by-product of one permanent press study, scientists have developed a new, highly durable wash-wear finish for cotton which produces both wet and dry wrinkle resistance.

Considerable progress has been made toward unraveling the mystery of plant regulators which have the potential of greatly increasing yields and efficiency of cotton production.

Farm Bill Provides Farmer Income Supplemented By Direct Compensatory Payments

LUBBOCK, Friday, September 10, 1965--Bickering over cotton legislation, for all practical purposes, is over and done for the next four years.

The Senate, by a vote of almost three to one, has followed the wishes of the administration and put into the omnibus farm bill a cotton section essentially the same as that passed by the House.

It provides a 21 cent loan level for 1966 and a loan at no more than 90 percent of estimated world price for 1967, 1968 and 1969. Producer income is to be supplemented by direct compensatory payments. The amount of the payments go up as the amount of cotton planted by the farmer goes down. This is the same "system" as was written into the House bill, and effectively kills the traditional concept of non-recourse loans in cotton legislation.

Preliminary reports show the Senate cotton section differing from that passed in the House on only five relatively minor points. The Senate version:

1. Made no provision for sale and transfer of allotments as did the House;

2. Reduced the mandatory cutback provided by the House from 15 percent of allotment to 10 percent;

3. Restricted plantings of "non-cooperators" to 150 percent of current allotment on a farm operated by the producer in 1965 instead of permitting unlimited plantings by farmers who held 1965 allotments as in the House bill;

4. Provided that farmers with allotments of 10 acres or less would not be required to reduce plantings in order to qualify for payments and support loan, and;

5. Left current release and reapportionment regulations unchanged, as did the House, but provided that all payments and domestic allotment calculations would be made on effective allotment, after release and reapportionment.

Cattle on Feed has Shown a Substantial Increase

Recent reports show that United States cattlemen have substantially increased numbers of cattle on feed.

Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist and assistant professor in the Texas A&M University Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department, says the U. S. total on July 1 was 7,531,000 head and 54,000 head in Texas.

This is a 19 percent rise above year earlier levels in Texas. The north central states are up 5 percent and the 32 cattle-state total is higher by 9 percent.

Uvacek noted a heavier national concentration of cattle on feed in the 500 to 990-pound categories this year. Indications are for slightly later marketings from feedlots.

A time-on-feed breakdown shows considerable more lighter animals this quarter in the nation. This, Uvacek added, will probably result in increased marketings for the October-December quarter.

Marketing intentions in Texas from July 1 to Sept. 30 are reported to be 260,000 head, or about 25 percent more compared to the same period a year ago.

"Our best estimate would indicate that this figure is somewhat over-estimated and that only about 220,000 head will be marketed during that quarter, with the bulk coming later," the specialist said. "Indications are that about 265,000 head, or 31 percent more cattle, however, will be marketed from Texas feedlots in the last quarter of this year."

Wuerflein-McDonald Vows Read In Recent Ceremony

Chimes struck seven times marking the wedding hour of Miss Helen Louise Wuerflein and Ronald Keith McDonald at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Enid, Oklahoma, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wuerflein, Kieimlin are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. McDonald, 1511 S. Miles El Reno, Oklahoma, are the groom's parents. Grandparents of the bridal couple are Mr. W. S. Hardy, Enid, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Nicholson, Denver, Colorado and Mrs. Rose McDonald of Oklahoma City.

The couple were married in a double ring ceremony in a setting of cathedral baskets and altar vases of white gladioli and blue, majestic daisies. Candelabra entwined by palm leaves held the blue tapers lit by Miss Kay Tefft, cousin of the bride and Jack McDonald, brother of the groom. The bride's aisle was carpeted in white leading to a white stin-covered prie dieu. White bows marked the pews.

Miss Jackie Pralle, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Neida Pralle as she sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bouffant gown of peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The modified bodice featured a square scalloped neckline highlighted by tiny pearls and sequins. Her long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. The full cut away skirt had a row of Chantilly lace that started at the waistline and extended into the back. Streamers of Chantilly lace were attached at shoulder line and extended into the long Chapel train. Her Swedish crown of all crystals was held by pure silk illusion.

She carried the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, and a sixpence in her shoe. The bride's bouquet were orchids and white feathered carnations with white satin streamers tied in love knots.

Miss Shirley Ann Wuerflein, served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of blue peau de soie with a chiffon overskirt. An elbow length jacket of blue lace over peau de soie and a Dior bow accented the waistline. A matching circlet over a matine veil and blue satin slippers finished the ensemble. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Pam McDonald, sister of the groom, El Reno, Mrs. Jerry Clark Fairview, and Mrs. Sonny Lorenz, Hunter, both cousins of the bride. They were dressed identically to the honor attendant.

Preceding the bride up the aisle was the flower girl, Miss Jackie Tefft, cousin of the bride. She was dressed identically to the candle lighter, with a floor length gown of white peau de soie with a chiffon overskirt. An elbow length jacket of blue lace over white peau de soie and a blue Dior bow accented the waistline. She carried a basket of white daisies. David Nicholson, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer and carried the rings on a pillow of blue lace over white peau de soie.

Rick McDonald served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Roy Sanders, Jim Masoner, and Ted Dickman, Walter Jenkins and Steve Duttweiler acted as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wuerflein chose a pink pure silk sheath with lace motif trim and matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a dress of white linen. Pink and pearlized white accessories completed her attire. Both wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held in the church undercroft following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a Damask linen cloth which held the three tiered wedding cake, with a heart shaped base. Sugar baskets holding clusters of blue flowers, matching wedding and satin trim decorated the cake. The top tier held white lacy sugar hearts inscribed with the bride's and groom's names. A miniature bride and groom topped the cake. The bride's bouquet completed the centerpiece. The bride's gift table held a bridal doll attired in a double net skirt that held the bows of the wedding gifts.

Mrs. Albert Kalbarth made and served the cake. Mrs. Walter Jenkins and Miss Janet Kirkpatrick also presided at the table. Also assisting at the reception were Miss Connie Meyers, Miss Janie Wuerflein, Miss Becky Tefft, and Miss Gail Tefft. Miss Kathy Smith registered the guests.

For their wedding trip to Roaring Rivers and other points of interest in Arkansas and Missouri, the bride chose a suit of blue linen with blue and white crepe blouse. Her accessories were white and she wore the orchids from her bridal bouquet. They will make their home in El Reno, Oklahoma.

Gaylord Latham, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Latham, recently returned from a nineteen day vacation to the World's Fair, and a tour of nine states. He was accompanied by several friends, and returned home in time to register at West Texas State University, in Canyon, where he will be a Senior student this year.

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

By Wilma Taylor

HOW CAN YOU JUDGE FURNITURE VALUES?

Generally speaking, furniture is a "blind article". This means that it is really next to impossible for the average person to be able to judge actual quality of furniture just by looking at it.

W. Taylor

So what is the best thing for Mr. and Mrs. Furniture Buyer to do? The only answer is to shop with a reliable merchant. Years ago, automobile salesmen would tell their prospects all about the wheel base, gear ratio and other technical aspects of cars until they realized that the public goes by the established reputation of the manufacturer and the dealer. The same goes for television and radio sets. And the same thing is true in the furniture line.

Your reputable furniture dealer or decorator will never handle inferior quality merchandise just in order to meet or beat competition. If you have confidence in your dealer, you must also have confidence in the fact that he brings you the best values that are obtainable, and he does this for a very selfish reason: He wants to both sell and keep his customers. These customers keep him in business and he knows that if he fools them he is fooling himself.

You may be sure that the materials in our furniture, and the construction of the furniture--those "unseen" factors--are of high quality at our store.

Pay us a visit soon, Taylor Furniture, Earth, Texas, Ph-257-3231

Be On The Lookout For New Crop Insects

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. -- "If you have a sharp eye, quick eye, quick hands and an in-quisitive mind, you could be the first person to capture one of the invaders in the insect world," says Max Meich, as-sistant-entomologist at Texas A & M University.

Insects have a remarkable habit of traveling around. Re-cent reports from Washington tell of a newcomer to our shores that has been found in Houston. This unwanted guest is a sub-terranean termite native to For-mosa.

Another report tells of white-fringed beetles, serious pests of many crops, that have been found for the first time in Mary-land. According to the report, the beetle cannot move very far under its own power, but can be carried great distances when man moves infested plants or contaminated soil.

The white-fringed beetle, a native of South America, was first found in Florida in 1936 and has now spread into all southern states. It has not yet been spot-ted in Texas. In 1954 it did show up in New Jersey and was soon eradicated, or removed, from that state.

Another insect, the European chafer, has shown up in a new spot, according to another re-port. This insect is a pest of lawns, turf, pastures, legumes and winter grains.

Some of these insects were caught in black light traps placed along some railroad tracks near Cleveland, Ohio, marking their first appearance in the Buckeye state. Ohio is now taking action to prevent further spread of the pest, and plans for an eradication program are being considered.

As with other pests, when they show up in a new area, surveys are carried out in areas around and beyond the known area of activity. The entomologist said, "We want to stop the spread of these pests of man before they become uncontrollable. This is where you can be of help, and we should all be ready to help."

"Get to know the insects that are in your local area so that if and when you spot a new one you can do more than just wonder about it. Capture and take it to your local county agent for identification. You could, in this way, stop a new insect threat before it gets out of hand."

"Oh, come now..."

Agronomist Recommends Fertilizer

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. -- Farmers should consider applying fertilizer in the fall, especially on ground to be used for grain sorghum in the spring, says Dr. Elton Cook, agronomist at Texas A&M University's Blackland Experiment Station, Temple.

In a test conducted at the Blackland Station, fertilizer was applied in each of the months of October, November, December and January, last fall and winter. The fertilizer was applied at two rates, 30-30-0 and 60-30-0.

Grain sorghum was planted on each of the fields this spring. Recent harvest of the crop revealed no significant difference in yield from any of the fields. The month in which fertilizer was applied did not affect the yield.

The ground fertilized in October yielded 2,764 pounds per acre. That fertilized in November yielded 2,716 pounds. The December fertilized ground yielded 2,826 pounds, and the ground fertilized in January produced 2,879 pounds of grain per acre. The largest difference was only 160 pounds, between November fertilized ground and January fertilized ground. This may have been caused by a number of other factors, pointed out Dr. Cook.

Farmers have been hesitant about fertilizing in the fall for fear of the fertilizer leaching out over the winter, or bacterial action destroying the fertilizer before spring. Dr. Cook said there was plenty of rain last fall and winter so conditions should have been right for leaching and bacterial action. "Since there was only slight difference in the yields, we can assume the fertilizer stayed in the ground even though it was put on as early as October," he said.

Dr. Cook said many farmers fallow their land. This makes it even simpler to apply the fertilizer. Sometimes heavy spring rains make it difficult to fertilize, too.

The fertilizer at the Temple Station was applied in the furrows between beds. The land was then rebudded over the furrows to cover the fertilizer.

Mrs. M. M. Morris returned home Sunday following a lengthy period of recuperation in Houston.

Don't Save Grain Sorghum For Seed

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. -- "Why can't I save grain sorghum to plant for seed next year? I paid plenty for the seed this year, the harvest should be good enough to plant again." This comment is often voiced by Texas farmers who'd like to cut costs by saving a part of their grain sorghum crop for next year's seed.

A quick look at a plot of grain sorghum at Texas A & M University's Livestock and Forage Research Center at McGregor will soon convince even the staunchest doubter that saving grain sorghum for seed is folly.

The plot at the Research Center was planted with seed held out from harvest the previous year. Some heads in the field were four or five feet high, while others were a scant two feet from the ground. This means more foliage has to be run through the combine to harvest the grain.

In addition, there were numerous white heads in the field. This is caused by the genetic makeup of seed saved from the product of first-cross grain sorghum harvest. Mixed grain always means a dock at the elevator, and many times it is difficult to find a buyer at any price.

Many of the heads were mature and ready to be harvested, but there were also heads that were immature and could not be harvested, or at best, would raise the moisture test. Again, this means a dock at the elevator.

Superintendent of the McGregor Research Center, Henry O. Hill, says planting grain sorghum saved from your own harvest will cause the following: (1) Some of the grain sorghum will have white or different color heads. (2) There will be a marked difference in height and maturity of the heads. (3) The yield will be below what it would have been if new hybrid seed had been planted.

Pre-School Boys Are More Accident Prone Than Girls

COLLEGE STATION, -- If there's a three or four-year old boy in your family, you can expect more skinned knees and bruised fingers than if you have a girl of that age.

This word comes from Mrs. Patsy Reynolds Yates, Texas A&M Extension family life education specialist.

It seems that accidents don't just happen--they're made to happen. And usually it's a boy who makes them and who gets the knocks.

Boys have nearly twice as many minor mishaps as girls, according to recent studies reviewed by Mrs. Yates. Boys probably engage in more hazardous activities and take more risks in their play than do girls.

Girls, on the other hand, are taught to be "ladylike" and play more quietly.

A pre-school teacher who knows the children in her group can generally pick out the ones most likely to have accidents. They are the adventuresome ones, those who are daring, active and apt to move quickly. They are often poorly coordinated, and try to do things they are not yet capable of, says Mrs. Yates.

Equipment is seldom dangerous in itself--in a supervised situation. It's the way children use it that makes it hazardous.

For example, the child who uses a broom for a gun instead of to sweep with, the boy who prefers to stand on his chair rather than sit on it, or the child who jumps on a jumping board while others are using it--are the children most likely to have accidents.

Large Number Of Farmers Now Residing In Cities

Agriculture's importance to the economy of Texas is not determined by the number of people living on farms and ranches. And, points out John G. McHane, Extension economist at Texas A&M University, don't be misled by the fact that only eight percent of the state's population now reside on farms or ranches.

There's a lot more to the story. In addition to the eight percent who operate the state's farms and ranches, another 32 percent of the state's residents derive all or a part of their income by supplying production items for farming and ranching use or by processing or distributing agricultural products for consumer use. That, says the economist, adds up to 40 percent, and a mighty important segment in the state's overall economy. No citizen is far removed from agriculture nor its business generating effects upon the economy of Texas, emphasizes McHane.

As for the distribution of population, McHane says this too can be misleading. A check of the 1960 census figures shows 168 Texas counties with farm populations exceeding 10 percent or more of the total population and only 98 counties with less than 1 percent of their total population living on farms or ranches.

Almost half of the counties in the group with 9 percent or less of the total population living on farms or ranches are located in far west and southwest Texas where ranching is very important. The discovery of oil and gas in these and other areas increased the total population and caused the drop in the percentage of persons engaged in farming and ranching. Agriculture is just as important to the economy of these counties as before, explains the economist.

And to go a step further, McHane points to Lubbock County where the percentage of farm population dropped to only 7 percent of the total in 1960, but farm products sold had a value of $62.2 million. Lubbock county ranked number one in the state in farm income in 1960. El Paso County which ranked sixth showed only 1 percent of its total population living on farms or ranches. Farmer County which ranked ninth in farm sales in 1960, on the other hand, showed 47 percent of its total population living on farms and ranches. The top 10 counties in farm income in 1960 in percentage of farm population to the total ranged from 1 to 47 percent.

And asks McHane, are these farm producers, even though they make up a small percentage of the total population, important? He gives an emphatic yes for his answer. The growth of towns and cities in many of the top agriculturally producing counties must be credited to agriculture and businesses, agribusiness, closely associated with or related to agricultural production.

McHane doesn't play down other factors which have contributed to the growth and prosperity of Texas towns and cities but says that through the years, the large cities became trade centers for wide areas and the development of agricultural resources throughout the state played a major role in their early growth and continues to do so today.

Oil and agriculture are the state's largest industries and they mean a lot to us. We shouldn't take either for granted because a decline in either is felt all the way from the local producing area to the big cities which supply the smaller towns and cities with goods and services.

And concludes McHane, don't let anyone tell you that agriculture isn't important since only about 8 percent of the total Texas population now lives on farms or ranches. Don't forget the other 92 percent who derive all or part of their income from agribusinesses.

Agriculture's importance is not determined by the percentage of the total population which now lives in the country but by the contributions it is making to the well-being of Texas, the nation and the world.

Farm Income Here Ranks High In U. S.

Lamb County farms yielded more in the past year, in the way of gross income, than did farms in most sections of the United States.

In terms of the local farm population, the returns were better than average, according to a survey that covered farm and ranch operations in every part of the country.

Credit for it is attributable to increased use of fertilizers and to more efficient farm machinery. Between them, they made it possible to produce and market more than in prior years, despite reduced acreage.

The survey, which was conducted on a county-by-county basis by the Standard Rate and Data Service, shows how the local farm community fared as compared with those elsewhere.

It lists Lamb County's gross receipts from the sale of farm products as $52,683,000. Considering the number of people on local farms, this was high. It was equivalent to $7,863 per capita.

It was more than was reported for most farm areas in the United States, the average being $3,246 per capita. In the State of Texas it was $4,131.

Included in these figures, the SRDS report states, are the cash receipts from all marketings as well as government payments and the value of the homegrown products that are consumed on the farm.

A breakdown of the cash receipts shows, on the basis of Department of Agriculture findings, that 84 percent of it came from the sale of crops and 16 percent from the sale of livestock, poultry and dairy products.

This year is shaping up as a good one for American farmers as a whole, according to Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman.

He notes that average prices for farm products are 10 percent above those of last year at this time and that prices for cattle and hogs have been moving strongly upward.

On the other hand, farm costs have also shown an increase, with wages, taxes, family living and production expenses higher than before.

Veterans Swamping V A Offices

World War II Texas veterans are swamping VA offices because of a misleading report that many of them did not collect the first dividend on National Service Life Insurance VA said today.

Actually, 99.99 percent of the 766,000 Texas veterans who had NSLI at the end of WW II received the dividend Jack Coker, Manager of the Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office said.

The rumor about the "GI Insurance Bonanza" apparently started because several industrial publications printed the old law authorizing the payment under a 1965 date line Coker said.

The VA manager estimated there may be about 1000 ex-GIs in Texas who never got paid. Most of these dropped their insurance upon leaving the service and did not give VA a mailing address. They can still collect the VA manager said but he pleaded with the vast majority of veterans to jog their memory before they send VA back to the old records to neck.

FLOYD BENNETT, ON TOP at the left side, was given a 15 yard penalty for unnecessary ruffness, after Pete Glasscock took a pass from Messer good for 13 yards. Seagraves Tackles are No. 73, James Reasonover, and No. 64, Daany Shaver, Bobby Coker No. 65, of the Wolverines kept Marvin Williams No. 60, out of the play. Action came late in the fourth quarter.

Oh sweet sounds of victory that rang loud and clear Friday night, as the Springlake-Earth Wolverines came home victorious, defeating the Seagraves Eagles 9-8 in the last quarter, with only 1:31 remaining in the game.

The Wolverines handed the Seagraves Eagles their first loss of the season, and their first loss on their home field since 1962, and their first loss to a "class A" school, before the home crowd since 1959.

Defensive plays dominated the game, and it looked as though the 30 yard field goal by Jerry Don Sanders late in the third quarter would be enough to send the Wolverines home victorious, but a fumble on the Wolverine 27 yard line dimmed this hope. It took Seagraves only six plays to take the lead and the big play was a nine yard run around left end by sophomore halfback Clarence Low, Dennis McKenzie ran the extra point, sweeping right end and going in standing up to put the Eagles out in front 8-3 with 3:50 left to play.

The Wolverines were not through, however, and with determination came storming back.

On the kickoff, Logan Armstrong took the ball and almost broke into the open before tripping up over his own interference and dropping on the Wolverine 39 yard line.

A determined Wolverine Eleven broke the huddle fast and Doug Messer hit Pete Glasscock for a gain of 13 yards and the Wolverines were on the move.

However, a penalty, put the Wolverines in a hole and were faced with fourth down and 11 on the Seagraves 39 yard line. Doug Messer threw the swing pass to Logan Armstrong, and he rambled to the Seagraves 32 yard line for new life, and the play that proved to be the one that gave the Wolverines a slim margin of victory.

Messer sent halfback, Floyd Bennett around right end, with good blocking up front, he went all the way to the Seagraves 12 yard line before being overhauled by Tim Raper and Ronnie Loyd, both speedy halfbacks. Then came the big play, the winning play, Messer handed off to Jerry Don Sanders, who was not to be denied. He ran left end and went into the end zone, giving the Wolverines the hard fought victory. Sanders try for the extra point was no good, but it did not matter, as Springlake-Earth had taken the lead from Seagraves 9-8 with 1:31 remaining to play.

On the kickoff, Sanders sent the football flying out of the end zone, and the ball was put into play on the 20 yard line.

A stubborn defense kept the Eagles bottled up and the clock ran out, giving the Wolverines their first victory over the Seagraves Eagles.

This week the Wolverines journey to Bovina to do battle with the Mustangs. This will not be such a long trip as the one to Seagraves, so let's all show up, and back the Wolverines all the way.

STARS OF THE WEEK

BACKFIELD
LOGAN ARMSTRONG THE speedy little 150 pound Junior Halfback of the Wolverines was chosen Back of the Week, with his hard running and determination shown against the Seagraves Eagles. The big play that Logan came up with late in the fourth quarter, proved to be the one that set up the final touchdown for the Wolverines. Logan took a swing pass from Messer on the 37 yard line and returned it all the way to the Seagraves 32. Two plays later, the Wolverines had their hard fought victory 9-8.

LINEMAN
This week, the coaches of the Wolverines have chosen Bobby Coker the 165 pound Senior Center as the outstanding lineman of the week. The rating was very close between Bobby and Richard Mitchell, the Wolverine 185 pound Senior Tackle. In viewing the film, Bobby and Richard were standouts in keeping the pressure on the Seagraves quarterback, and forcing him to get rid of the ball in a hurry. This constant pressure was the main reason the Wolverines were able to come home victorious.

Don Larkin Accepts Pastorate At Springlake Baptist Church

Don Larkin has accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Springlake. He, Mrs. Larkin, Steve, aged 16, Gary, aged 12, and Melissa, aged 7, are a welcome addition to Springlake.

The family moved to Springlake from Point Comfort, Texas where he was pastor for five and one-half years. Prior to that time he was pastor in three other churches, one of which was Summerfield.

Mrs. Larkin remarked that

West Texas was really home to them, as both she and Mr. Larkin were raised in the Panhandle, and their families are near to them now.

Since June, when Mr. Stewart resigned as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Springlake, the congregation has been fortunate in having R. B. Hall, Wayland Professor, filling the pulpit.

Mr. Larkin plans to complete his education at mid-term in Wayland College in Plainview.

Lamb-Bailey Bi-County P T A Council Meets Here

The Lamb Bailey Bi-County Council held the first meeting of the 1965-66 school year, Tuesday, in the Springlake-Earth High School Library.

Mrs. Ed Thompson, of Olton, Council President, conducted the meeting. Mrs. J. M. Farmer, of Littlefield, presented the health program, followed by a legislative report by Supt. Bill Mann.

The local Executive Committee was host to the approximately fifty persons who attended. There were eight schools represented at the meeting.

Acreege Survey Good Defoliation Now Underway Of Cotton In Earth Area Saves Money

Postmaster Harold Miller announced today that 1965 Acreege Survey cards are being distributed to patrons of Earth, The Post Office Department assists U. S. D. A. in making this survey each year. These reports, directly from farmers, are the basis for official estimates for Texas acreage of all crops harvested in 1965.

To be sure this community is well represented in the survey, Postmaster Miller urges each farmer patron receiving a card to fill it out and return it to Post Office or Mailbox.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas cotton farmers lose large sums of money every year through poor defoliation, says Fred Elliott, Extension cotton specialist at Texas A&M University. He explains that many producers can improve their cotton grade by following a few simple procedures when defoliating.

Choosing the correct chemical should be the first step in a defoliation program. Cotton harvest-aid chemicals are divided into two classes--defoliants and desiccants.

Defoliants cause mature leaves to shed in about seven to nine days and should be used on cotton that is to be mechanically picked. If cotton is to be stripped, a desiccant which causes all of the leaves to dry and become crumbly should be used.

The Extension Service recommends any one of five good defoliants that are available on the market. Only one desiccant, arsenic acid, is recommended under normal conditions.

Defoliation should not be started until cotton has reached proper stages of maturity. Elliott stresses, Defoliants can be safely applied when 60 percent or more of the bolls are open. Desiccants should not be applied unless 75 percent of the bolls are open under dryland conditions and 80 percent open on irrigated cotton.

Plants are considered suitably mature if the youngest bolls cannot be dented by pressure between the thumb and forefinger or cannot easily be cut through with a sharp knife.

Thorough coverage of all leaves is essential to a good defoliation program. Therefore, spray tanks, pumps, lines and nozzles should be cleaned to remove sticky residues left by liquid insecticides. Extreme caution is required in unusually rank cotton; use a chemical with a different active ingredient to stay within a safe residue tolerance. Avoid using any defoliant that is not labeled as to exact chemical content.

Consider carefully all weather information such as dew and humidity forecast, temperature, wind velocity and rainfall.

Farmers Eligible For Tax Refund

Farmers can get a four-cents per gallon refund on each gallon of gasoline used for farming purposes during the 12 month period ending June 30 by filing a claim with the Internal Revenue Service, reports Lamb County Agent W. R. Kimbrough.

The tax refund claims are to be submitted on Form 2240 available at the county agent's office or through the Internal Revenue Service.

The claims must be post-marked no later than September 30. They should be mailed to District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Dallas, Texas, 75201. Kimbrough said.

Extension Farm Management Specialist John Seibert says sufficient records should be kept by each claimant to enable the Internal Revenue Service to verify the accuracy of the claim.

Has Recipe-Will Cook

TYLER, ---At last, a stenographer willing to brag about her own cooking, of doves, that is, Mrs. Peggy Henry of the Tyler, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department staff, says it's all very simple.

Salt and pepper to taste, sprinkle with flour, heat salad oil in deep skillet, then brown birds on both sides. Add one can of tomato sauce, four medium onions sliced, sprinkle with garlic salt; bring to boil. Now, lower fire, cover and cook over low flame for thirty minutes. Serve in chopped parsley. Allow two birds for each serving.

Mrs. Carol Pounds, Mrs. Ann Collins, and Mrs. Judith Jones representing Area 1 Young Homemakers, were hostesses from 4-5 p.m. Thursday, preceding the barbecue at High Plains Annual Field Day activities at Halfway.

Attending the Circus in Lubbock Saturday were Mrs. Gene Gaston and children, Roberta, Shelley, Paige, and Dyke.

THE SPRINGLAKE HIGH SCHOOL STAGE BAND entertained Lions, faculty, and guests at the Teachers Reception Tuesday night in the School Cafeteria.

Restrictions Lifted On Cotton Lint Shipments

Restrictions have been lifted on shipment of cotton "linters" which will save the cotton oil mill industry many thousands of dollars, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Linters, the fine cotton removed from cotton seed during processing by oil mills, can now be transported throughout the nation without a shipping permit and without the necessity of treatment to kill suspected insects. Recent extensive tests proved that the linters do not provide feeding or breeding quarters for harmful insects.

Commissioner White pointed out that cotton oil mills previously had to either fumigate the linters or process the product through fans before it could be shipped. Neither precaution is necessary as a result of recent studies.

"Processing the linters is an added expense," Commissioner White noted. "Elimination of this unnecessary step will save the industry a great deal of money."

Tests were conducted at the request of the Texas Cottonseed Expensive proposition," White Crushers Association. Co-operating agencies were the Texas Department of Agriculture, the U. S. D. A. Plant Pest Control Division at San Antonio, the Gin Research Laboratory in New Mexico and the Entomology Research lab at Brownsville.

Regulations concerning linters now provide that the product can move anywhere without treatment or without permits. Cottonseed hulls and hull trash known as "motes" must continue to meet the same requirements as in the past, however. The test showed this portion of the cotton seed still remains a pest risk.

Linters must be kept separate from hulls and motes to avoid possible contamination. Oil mills already provide this type of protection.

The pink bollworm is the prime reason for precautionary measures in cotton seed treatment. The insect is a constant threat to the cotton industry.

Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mrs. Zou Wilson were Mrs. Dora Terry, Mrs. Bonnie Green, and Mrs. Elsi Hawkins.

College Roll Continues To Grow

We are happy to learn of more college plans of local people. Judy Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins, of Springlake, will attend Lubbock Christian College, Lubbock, where she will be a sophomore, majoring in History.

Fam Beasley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Beasley, of Earth, will be a freshman at Lubbock Christian College, Lubbock where she graduated from High School last year.

Joan Gover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gover, will be a West Texas State Senior in Canyon this year.

Plan Now For Education Beyond High School

COLLEGE STATION, --- The class of 1966 is preparing to enter the final year of secondary school work. Many of these high school seniors are so busy they have given little thought to what will happen after graduation.

Now's the time to take a thorough, realistic look ahead to the fall of 1966, says Patsy Reynolds, specialist in family life education with the Texas A&M University Extension Service.

"Parents and school counselors should help students take a look at their education or career plans early this fall. They need to complete their plans for college, business school, or other advanced preparation to earn a living. Applications should be submitted by November or December--yet many families do not realize this when their first child prepares to enter college," Miss Reynolds says.

Students who plan to apply for scholarships should keep this early deadline in mind, too. Many scholarships have a February 1 deadline for application.

"This means that the young person must already be admitted to the college and then file the application by February," the specialist adds.

She advises young people to talk to school counselors and write to the colleges or business schools in which they are interested.

A decision on higher education should be reached soon, and it may require some serious thinking before final plans can be made, Miss Reynolds says.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hazlett and Vaughn were Sunday evening dinner guests in the Billy H. Hodge home.

Assembly Scheduled At Lamesa, October 1-3

Lloyd Lowery, local presiding minister for Jehovah's Witnesses, announced Lamesa, Texas will be the site of their semi-annual circuit assembly October 1-3.

The assembly is to be held in the Lamesa Junior High School Auditorium and is expected to be attended by about 500 delegates. Jehovah's Witnesses and interested persons will be attending from Hobbs, New Mexico to Altus, Oklahoma and will include delegates from 16 congregations in West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and Altus, Oklahoma.

The program will focus attention on the assembly theme of "Increasing Our Praise to Jehovah," Lowery said. Fundamental Bible truths will be thoroughly discussed and practical counsel from God's Word on the problems of everyday life will be considered. Those attending will grow in appreciation of how much the Bible can add to the happiness of their home.

"A fine feature of this assembly which local and visiting delegates will share in at a later date," according to Lowery, "is visiting the home of Lamesans with an encouraging message from the Bible. Not only will entire families enjoy the fall meeting and fellowship but it will serve as a fine opportunity for Christians to worship together as the Bible commands."

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society will sponsor the assembly. A. A. Catanzaro from Brooklyn Headquarters of the "Society" will be the featured speaker of the meet. Local members will participate in the program of Bible discussions, demonstrations and talks. The public is welcome at all sessions. All sessions are free.

Visiting in the E. O. Tunnell home is Mrs. E. O. Tunnell Sr., of Lubbock.

Miss Sue Ford, of Alexandria, Virginia was a guest of Susan Green in the M. E. Kelley home last week end. Sue attends college in Portales, New Mexico.
