Married taxpayers filing either joint or separate tax returns this year should make sure that the social security numbers of both husband and wife appear on each return filed, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) said today.

Walter Perry, Director's Representative in charge of the Plainview IRS office, said that the IRS computer system identifies returns according to social security numbers and an incorrect or missing number can cause a delay of weeks or months in getting a refund out to a taxpayer.

Additionally, he said, the number must be correct to ensure that the taxpayer will get full credit for his or her contributions under the social security and medicare programs. For this reason any name changes should be reported to

Where Does A Big Bear Bounce?

WASHINGTON-Petroleum Today, the magazine of the American Petroleum Institute, tells this Alaskan bear story in the current issue:

At one North Slope oil camp, a pair of prowling grizzlies discovered that the large rubber bladder "pillow" tanks used for oil storage make great trampolines. The only way to get rid of the bears, workers decided, was to shoot them with harmless tranquilizer darts while they frolicked. It was done, the bears were slung under helicopters, and transported miles away. A week or so later, however, they were back bouncing away, and it was back to the drawing board for the oilmen.

We also have many wonderful friends in that area that we would like to invite to come see us whenever they get up this way.

We want to continue receiving the Earth News-Sun. It will help keep in touch and we have always enjoyed "Noshin with Polly."

Bankers To Look At Ag Economy

What does the future hold for the agricultural economic situation in Texas? This question, and other current concerns, will be examined at the 23rd annual Texas Farm and Ranch Credit School for Commercial Bankers at Texas A&M University, February 10-12, according to Tom Prater, economist in management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and the school's program chairman.

Roland Smith, Extension grain marketing specialist, will discuss "Feed and Food Grain Outlook," and Dr. Edward Uvacek, Extension livestock marketing specialist, will speak on "The Livestock Outlook." Dan Davis, general manager of the Plains Cotton Co-op at Lubbock, will describe the "Cotton Market Outlook."

"These three subjects should be of particular interest to agricultural bankers at this time in our economy," Prater emphasized.

Theme for the school will be "Financing Agriculture in a Time of Uncertainty." More than 250 bankers are expected to attend, said Prater.

A "first" this year will be a related two-day Agricultural Credit Analysis Workshop set to begin at noon on February 12 and continue through February 14. About 75 bankers from throughout the state are expected to participate, Prater added.

"The school is planned by bankers for bankers," Prater said. It is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Banker's Association. Texas A&M's Department of Agricultural Economics conducts

Three Receive Top Texas 4-H Honors

Miss Elles

Entomology, sheep, and bicycles were the stepping stones to success used by three talented Texas youths who have been named state 4-H winners.

This trio, which were among 30 champions selected from across the state, are: Darla Elles, 15, of Victoria; Bonnie Luna, 17, of McGregor; and Rodney Logsdon, 18, of Littlefield. All three received $50 U.S. Savings Bonds from their respective program sponsors.

Announcement of the awards was made by the Cooperative Extension Service, which supervises the 4-H program.

Miss Elles is the daughter of Victoria County residents Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Elles, garnered her recognition in the bicycle program, sponsored by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

Miss Luna

Although bicycling, and particularly bicycle safety, is her favorite activity, Miss Elles, a high school sophomore, has also participated vigorously in food-nutrition, clothing, public speaking, and entomology projects. Hoping to become an elementary school teacher, she has spent six years in 4-H.

Miss Luna, of McLennan County, topped the state in the entomology program, sponsored by Hercules Incorporated. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Luna. After eight years in 4-H, she says, "Studying and collecting insects has given me a better understanding about insects and their interrelationship with our natural resources." Currently a junior in high school, Miss Luna has collected and labeled over 215 insects, as well as being active in food-nutrition, wildlife, sewing, public speaking, and other projects.

Logsdon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Logsdon, hails from Lamb County, an appropriate place of origin for the state's sheep champion. His program was sponsored by Wilson & Co., Inc.

Having raised sheep throughout his decade in 4-H Logsdon has been swayed by his involvement in this project to pursue a career as a veterinarian. Presently a senior in high school, his raising of over 400 sheep has not kept him from extending his talents into leadership, beef, and recreation projects.

Cost Accounting Vital For Ag Producers

With agricultural producers experiencing an ever tightening cost-price squeeze, the need for cost accounting has never been greater.

"The commercial agricultural producer today needs a complete and accurate accounting system and physical production records if he is going to succeed," contends Cecil Parker, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "It is necessary to know the cost of producing a unit of each enterprise to compare profitability and make management decisions."

Cost accounting is the basis for allocating resources to improve resource efficiency, points out Parker. Management decisions based on cost accounting are much more likely to be profitable than decisions based on impulse or hunch. Other uses of accounting are tax reporting and obtaining necessary credit.

The economist notes that the Extension Service provides two types of accounting systems, the Farm Record System and the Texas Electronic Farm Accounting System (Tel-Fac).

The Farm Record System contains 10 sections which include farm business, expense, farm and non-farm income, payroll record, accounts payable and receivable, continuous depreciation schedule, farm inventory, financial and profit and loss statement, hours and per cent of equipment use, enterprise summary and analysis, and field treatment and performance record. Appropriate sections may be combined to fit each particular farm or ranch situation.

The Tel-Fac System has cost accounting as its primary objective. This system has four component parts: financial and production data, inventory and depreciable schedule, profit and loss statement and enterprise analysis. Financial and production data are processed each month while other parts of the system are processed annually.

According to Parker, the basic difference in the two systems is that the Farm Record System is totally manual while Tel-Fac is computerized. However, the computer does not compensate for incomplete or inaccurate data, emphasizes the economist. County Extension agents can assist producers with either of the two systems.

In addition to these accounting systems, several others are available from lending institutions and commercial concerns. "Which system a producer uses is not important, but some system definitely should be used," believes Parker.

Ogg Introduces Bill To Limit Smoking

Senator Jack Ogg of Houston has introduced legislation that would prohibit smoking in certain public places. The Ogg bill would ban smoking on planes, trains, elevators, hospitals, museums, and other public places unless a designated area for smoking is provided.

"This is legislation to protect the rights of non-smokers by requiring certain public facilities to set aside separate areas for smokers and non-smokers. Although I am personally convinced that smoking is injurious to a smokers' health, it is certainly his prerogative (to smoke). However, non-smokers also have the right not to inhale the smoke of others that is also dangerous, offensive and impolite to them. There are already states and cities who have comparable legislation and ordinances. Many public facilities also voluntarily protect the rights of non-smokers. The legislation merely extends this principle," Sen. Ogg stated.

Under the Ogg bill, a violation of the provision would be a Class C misdemeanor, carrying a fine of up to $100. When asked if the measure was intended to be punitive, Senator Ogg, who is a non-smoker, stated, "Certainly not. It is merely a protection for those who choose not to smoke their own or someone else's."

Tips On Tax Management On Home Sale

within one year before or after the sale of the old residence. If the taxpayer starts building a home within a year before or after he sells the old residence, he has 18 months after the sale of the old house to occupy the new one. Special provisions exist for taxpayers in the armed forces."

Graeber emphasizes that the tax on any gain that results from a residence sale is only postponed and not forgiven. Any gain not taxed in the year that you sell your old residence is subtracted from your cost basis of the new residence. This lower cost basis will be used to calculate the gain from any future disposition of the new residence.

The economist reminds citizens 65 or older who sell their residence that there are special tax law provisions. They may exclude all or part of the gain realized on one sale of a principal residence providing certain conditions are met.

Regarding all residence sales, gains are taxable but no deductions are permitted for losses, notes Graeber.

Additional information on residence sales can be obtained in the Internal Revenue Service Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home."

If you sold your home in 1974, chances are you made money. But income tax may be due on this profit unless certain provisions are met, reminds an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Real Estate Research Center.

"Any gains resulting from sales or exchanges are taxable as gains from the sale of capital assets," points out Kenneth Graeber. "However, the homeowner who sells or exchanges his principal residence and replaces it within a specific time period postpones tax on any gain, providing that the cost of the new residence exceeds the adjusted sale price of the old residence."

The time period within which to qualify for tax postponement on a residence sale or exchange varies with the individual situation, points out the Texas A&M University System economist. "Generally speaking, the new residence may be acquired

Tex Watson talks about The Cost of Natural Gas

It's logical that Pioneer customers should ask why they are paying more for the energy they use in their homes. We are eager to have them understand why.

There is a lot of natural gas in West Texas, but we still must buy the gas in competition with other gas users across the country. To assure the people of West Texas that they will have the gas they need, now and in the future, we must pay the going price for new gas. Not only gas for our homes is involved, but most people's jobs depend on gas to run business and industry.

The gas is available, but we must pay the going price to get it. That price is reflected on your gas bill as a "cost of gas adjustment." I'm sure you agree that we must have the gas to run the homes and businesses of West Texas.

All energy will cost more in the future, but be assured that the Natural Energy Home will still be the way to go.

The Importance Of Fathers

It's not always easy for a father to be content during the first year of a baby's life in a supporting role to his wife and child, Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist pointed out this week.

"Although fathers are familiar figures to an infant, a real father-child relationship doesn't begin until the second year," the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, specialist said.

"Many fathers want to be actively involved in childrearing. They want to parent, rather than be a mother-substitute, nursemaid or provider of physical needs. They seek personal response from the child.

"Often it's frustrating to new fathers when the very young child looks to his mother for feeding, bedtime and emotional comfort and to the father for play and acrobatic sessions," the specialist noted.

In the normal course of development for the first year, a child is almost totally dependent upon the mother. During the second year of his life, the child has matured enough and has skills to add a second important personal relationship to his social group, his father.

"When new fathers fail to understand a child's normal growth patterns and the importance of fathers during the second year, conflict may be ahead. Love, hate, anger, jealousy and even rivalry may be rooted in the first few months of life. It is the relationship to both parents that helps children develop to their maximum potential."
