Thought I would give everyone a treat this week and write a little in Polly's column while she was gone.

NOSIN*

Polly and Phil made a trip to Arkansas and Oklahoma this week. While there they attended a big reunion of Polly's family at Danville, Arkansas Sunday. Then Polly went on to visit with her father in Marmaduke, Arkansas. Understand they had a real good time at the reunion.

NOSIN*

Noticed up and down Main Street the Fourth that we had a few patriots. What has happened to all the flags that have been bought and sold in Earth?

Seems as though we are getting to be less patriotic everyday. No wonder we have so many demonstrations, marches and draft card burners in our Great Country.

NOSIN*

Have noticed some are cooperating with the roping club and dressing Western and old fashioned this week for the rodeo. That's good! The boys are really working hard to promote Earth as well as the Big Annual Rodeo.

CONSIDER

Is anybody happier
Because you passed his way?
Does anyone remember
That you spoke to him today?
This day is almost over,
And it's toiling time is through;
Is there anyone to utter now,
A friendly word for you?

Can you say tonight in passing,
With the day that slipped so fast,
That you helped a single person,
Of the many you have passed?
Is a single heart rejoicing,
Over what you did or said?
Does one whose hopes were fading,
Now with courage look ahead?

Did you waste the day, or lose it?
Was it well or poorly spent?
Did you leave a trail of kindness,
Or a scar of discontent?

Persons Interfering With Performance Of Fire Trucks To Be Prosecuted

At the regular meeting Tuesday night, the city commission instructed local law enforcement officers to issue tickets to anyone following or obstructing the efficiency of city fire trucks at any time, during a fire emergency. This includes the volunteer firemen or anyone who has a legitimate reason to be at a fire or emergency.

They stressed that it was very important to keep all lanes into and out of the area of the emergencies clear at all times. Also these instructions include rural fires as well as city fires.

In order to have a more efficient way of extending and giving service to the citizens of Earth in the future, the city officials passed a resolution that any future water or sewer lines to be added to the city system must be paid for by the owner of the property or builder or person requesting the service.

At time of installation the person will be required to pay for the lines, with the lines becoming the property of the City of Earth. The property owner will be reimbursed as other installations or taps are added to the line at the rate of 50% per tap or a maximum of 150 feet, until the person is fully reimbursed. This does not include crossing streets for connections.

The commission also appointed Sammy McGuire as sanitation officer.

For the overall health and welfare of the community the city officials instructed the sanitation officer to enforce the ordinance requiring the discontinuance of the use of cess-pools and outdoor toilets. These instructions are to be carried out immediately.

Present for the meeting were, E. C. Kelley, mayor; Mrs. Ruby Anderson, secretary; Dud Chesney, Neil Pounds, Eldon Parish and Richard Stockstill, commissioners; Andy Stroebel, city attorney; Sammy McGuire, water superintendent; Ross Middleton; and Luther Vaughn.

Fire Department Called To Roberts' Farm

The local Volunteer Fire Department was called to the C. L. Roberts Farm Thursday at 11:15 p. m., following the igniting of butane in a John Deere 3010 Tractor.

The farm, presently being operated by Jack Angeley, is located 3 miles North and 2 miles west of Earth.

The tractor, along with a barn containing planter boxes, irrigation supplies, chemicals, etc., was completely destroyed, with a total estimated loss of approximately $4000 to $4500.

It is not known what caused the butane to ignite.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bills and Jo Anna of Marshall are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Bearden and her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Inglis and family.

C of C Installs Rodeo Banners

At a regular meeting of the Earth Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, the group voted to install the rodeo banners on Friday and Saturday.

Perry Martin will secure the judges for selecting the top riding clubs and sheriff's poses in the parade.

If any girl is interested in entering the Maid of Cotton contest, she may receive her application blank at the Chamber of Commerce office before August 15. Girls entering must be 19 years of age before December 1, 1966.

Neil Pounds reported that a meeting of the people of the community needs to be called concerning the hospital plan.

He said he would present the plans to the city council and the Lions Club to see if they desire to work in conjunction with the Chamber on plans for securing a doctor.

Prior to the close of the meeting, M. E. Kelley made a motion that the chamber cooperate with whatever district is formed that includes the Springlake-Earth district, concerning the Junior college.

The motion was seconded by Perry Martin.

New Funeral Home In Earth Ready to Serve Area

Percy Parsons and Frank Ellis announced this week that the Parsons-Ellis-Singleton Funeral Home, Inc. of Earth is now open and ready for operation.

This new establishment, located on the corner of First and Date, features a preparation room, resting room, and selection room with a complete line of caskets and clothing.

The funeral parlor will be operated jointly by Parsons and Ellis, and will be known as Parsons-Ellis-Singleton Funeral Home.

Parsons and Ellis have each had twenty years of experience as morticians.

Both men are well known in the area. Parsons moved to Olton eight years ago and founded the Parsons Funeral Home there. Ellis has lived in Muleshoe for the past 7 1/2 years, and has operated Singleton Funeral Home there since that time.

The twosome are anxious to serve the people in and around Earth, and are seeking to make the establishment one that the people will be proud of. A formal opening is being planned for the near future.

James Thomas Injured In Freak Accident

James Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thomas, was injured Thursday, around 11:15 p. m. in a one car freak accident.

Thomas was traveling South on Farm to Market Road 1055, five miles North of Earth, when he tried to avoid hitting a dog, and pulled his car to the side and hit a bar ditch.

Thomas was thrown from the automobile approximately 20 feet, and was knocked unconscious.

A Parsons' Funeral Home ambulance took him to West Plains Hospital, where he remained a patient until Monday morning. It is thought that Thomas received a slight concussion.

No damage was reported to have been done to Thomas' '64 Chevy Impala. Highway patrolman Angel from Littlefield was investigating officer. No ticket was issued.

City Spraying For Mosquitoes

An invasion from the mosquito is expected in some parts of the South Plains. However, according to mayor E. C. Kelley, if such an invasion should occur in Earth, we will spray more often.

The city's insect sprayer has been in expanded service, spraying approximately three times each week. Spraying is expected to continue, as this is a prime time for increased numbers of the mosquito.

Residents of the city can help reduce the swarms of insects by spraying their own yards and gardens and making sure there are no pools of stagnant water around their property.

PARSONS- ELLIS- SINGLETON FUNERAL HOME, Inc., located on the corner of First and Date, is ready to serve the public in funeral facilities. The newly established funeral home features a preparation room, resting room, and selection room.

Larkin Speaks At Summerfield Church

Don Larkin, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Springlake, was guest speaker Monday morning at a Brotherhood meeting in the Summerfield Baptist Church.

"God Needs Mighty Men" was the subject Larkin chose to speak on, using scriptures taken from 1 Chronicles 12: 1, 2, 8. "Now concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant.

Ye know that ye were Gentiles, carried away unto these dumb idols, even as ye were led. For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom; to another the word of knowledge by the same spirit."

Larkin stressed that God needs dedicated and capable men, both young and old. He also commented on the challenge that this need presents for men of all ages.

Larkin is former pastor of the Summerfield Baptist Church, having pastored there four years, prior to accepting the pastorate at the Springlake First Baptist Church.

Fifteen Brotherhood members and two RA boys were present for Larkin's address.

Lord Christ, here is our mind! We open wide our minds to you. Think through our mind your holy thoughts. Lord Christ, fill our minds with light. Lord here are our eyes, ears, voice, heart, hands and flesh. Shine in all Thy glory through them, that all may see Thy presence in us. Lord Christ, take complete possession of all our being.

IRRIGATION SYSTEMS CONSERVE WATER. The Lamb Co. Soil and water conservation district would like to encourage all land owners and operators to develop as rapidly as possible a planned distribution system for irrigation water on your farm. The declining water table and price squeeze on farm products makes it necessary to cut production cost and make more efficient use of our soil and water. A good distribution system can deliver water where you want it-when you want it, by making water lost thru ditch loss available for crop production and cutting pumping cost.

Conservation of Rainfall and Irrigation Water Management Urged

Many of leading agricultural leaders of today who are in research and carrying out studies of water use tell us, "This area's principal irrigation water supply will be essentially eliminated in the foreseeable future if current use trends continue." This is a problem faced by Soil Conservation Districts throughout the entire High Plains Area. One of the primary aims of the Lamb County Soil Conservation District is to assist land owners and operators to develop and use a sound conservation plan which includes a plan for efficient use of rainfall and for irrigation water. Conservation must start where rainfall is first received and irrigation is first applied.

moisture holding capacity of the soil and needs of the crop. With a good system and good management, efficiency can be increased and considerable amounts of irrigation water will be saved. I challenge you to take steps to make a more efficient use of your irrigation water this year.

Tailwater-is a direct expense to your farming operation-Do your part to conserve our water supply. Practice conservation by watering to meet the needs of crops, soils, and develop as rapidly as possible a conservation irrigation system which cuts water waste to a minimum.

Yah, Sure! Snake Bags "Hat Trick"

E. L. Alexander says, "The potential for reducing water waste and prolonging the present water supply in the immediate future lies with the land owner and operators. For, unless they are willing to truly practice conservation, the present water resource will continue to be mined and any additional supplies developed will be wasted." (Mr. Alexander is Assistant State Conservationist Engineer, Soil Conservation Service, Temple, Texas).

The first step to be taken in the conservation of water is use water where it falls thus lessening the demands on irrigation water. The 3 primary methods of irrigation in this area are the level furrow, or bench the graded furrow systems and sprinkler irrigation. In excess of 90% of the systems in this area are "graded systems," these systems are not the best because even under good management we lose rainfall and irrigation tailwater if often a problem.

With a graded system on sloping land you will impound very little water when the rains come too much of the time it runs off.

Results published at the High Plains Research Foundation have shown that benching not only paid for itself, but maintained the productivity of the soil by reducing erosion, reduced production cost as better use was made of irrigation water and less water was pumped due to no loss of rainfall.

Sprinkler irrigation is beginning to become more and more evident here in the county. Perhaps the best selling points of the sprinkler is as follows:

1. Efficiency of water used. A uniform application can be applied on sloping and rolling land as well as on flat tight soils.

2. Amount of water applied: If you need only one or two inches of moisture to get a crop up and growing, this amount can be applied quickly and efficiently and the field can be watered quickly.

I encourage each of you to take full advantage of the technical and financial help which is available thru the various programs and the technical assistance provided by the Lamb County Soil Conservation District. Each operator should be able to determine the right amount of water to apply at each irrigation on the basis of MINERAL WELLS-A copperhead snake enacted the "Hat Trick" when it was engaged in friendly joust with picnickers at Camp Walters, according to Game Warden Mike Morris.

The "Hat Trick," folks, usually applies only to the game of hockey when a player makes three goals in one game.

Here's the reptilian version of that feat on ice skates: A woman found the snake, Her husband, considering himself an expert, was demonstrating that the creature was harmless. The wife looked closely to confirm and was bitten on the face. The husband was nipped as he was hurrying to the hospital to confirm the snake's "harmlessness."

A Hospital physician recognized the snake as a two and one half foot, able bodied copperhead, too late to avoid being tagged as the first Texas snake "Hat Trick" of 1966. But all hands recovered to enjoy the "joke" later.

Ritchie-Rylant Vows Exchanged In Impressive Ceremony

In a double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church in Sudan, at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, June 24, Miss Andrea Jean Ritchie became the bride of Arboth Andrew Rylant.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ritchie of Sudan, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rylant, Sr., of Earth.

Rev. Willie Hazel, pastor of Sudan Baptist Church read the vows before an altar decorated with baskets of lovely white gladiolas, interspersed with white poinsettias and greenery, and tied with soft blue bows. To further decorate the church, two candelabras, bearing seven long tapers, and tied with blue ribbons, were used.

Wedding music including "Because," "Till The End of Time," and "Bless This House" were sung by Alice Corley of Albuquerque, N. M., cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bouffant chantilly lace floor length dress, over Peau de Soui. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline, complimented by long sleeves that came to points over her wrists. A chapel length train of lace fell from her shoulders.

Her lovely veil of silk illusion was attached to a beautiful cap of silk illusion petals. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and baby roses atop a white Bible.

Miss Janet Ritchie, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Becky Rylant, sister of the groom served as bridesmaid.

Candelighters were Debbie Ritchie and Dennis Rylant, Steve Ritchie, brother of the bride was ring bearer.

Flower girl was Cindy Baldridge.

The maid of honor, bridesmaids, and candelighters were dressed in identical formal length dresses of aqua embossed peau de soui, fashioned with an empire bodice. Their headpieces were made of cabbage roses and aqua illusion. They carried long stemmed white roses.

Jack Rylant, Jr., brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsman was Denny Parish of Earth.

Ushers were Paul Gordon and Robert Williamson of Sudan.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ritchie chose a two piece dusty rose lace dress, accented with white accessories, and wore a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Rylant, mother of the groom, selected a blue and white two piece dress of Dacron, white accessories, and complimented by a white carnation corsage.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin and net tablecloth sprinkled with aqua bows. The centerpiece was an arrangement of aqua and white flowers.

The three tiered white wedding cake was topped with a Bride and Groom under an archway.

For a short wedding trip to Carlsbad, the bride traveled in a blue lace and crepe dress, with white accessories. She wore the orchid corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Rylant graduated from Sudan High School in 1965, and was employed at Sudan Beacon News at the time of her marriage.

Rylant is a 1964 graduate of Springlake-Earth High School, and is presently attending west Texas State University in Canyon.

The couple are making their home at Canyon.

TFB European Tour Scheduled for September 15-29

Waco--The Texas Farm Bureau will conduct a second Agricultural Market Builder tour of Europe on September 15-29, according to Walter Meyer, Waco, Farm Bureau director of trade development.

The TFB-sponsored tour will include sight-seeing and marketing activities in seven countries in Europe--England, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Switzerland and France. At the end of the original tour, tours will be available on an option basis to Scandinavia, Spain and Portugal, and Italy. Tour members may choose to take a special one-day excursion to Berlin.

Tour members will meet with farm groups and visit farming operations in the various countries as well as the traditional scenic attractions. They will visit some of the famous market places of the world--including Smithfield and Covent Garden in London, and the Grossmarkt in Frankfurt.

More than 40 persons have already signed up for the two-week tour. According to Meyer, there is still space for some 50 persons on the tour. For those who are interested in details of the trip, a request for a brochure should be mailed to Walter Meyer, Texas Farm Bureau, P. O. Box 489, Waco, Texas.

The group will fly via Pan American Airways from Houston and Dallas to London. They will return on September 29. Cost of the tour is $995. This includes all transportation, two meals a day, sight-seeing tours and tips. Other personal expenses are not covered by the tour fare.

The first Market Builder tour conducted by the TFB was hailed as a great success. The tour led to the development of an export market in Europe for fresh, chilled Texas beef. This in turn initiated planning for development of export programs for Texas vegetable and citrus commodities.

The Market Builder tour scheduled for this September drew this comment from Governor John Connally.

"As your Governor, it gives me pleasure to see the largest general organization of farmers in this state embarking on a second Agricultural Marketing tour. First and foremost, you are building friends for Texas. New Markets will naturally follow if we will but use the same principles that have made our state the number one exporter of farm products in the nation.

"Of course, Western Europe knows of our cotton, wheat and feed grain. But it needs to learn more about our canned and frozen food products, our poultry and turkey, winter vegetables, melons, citrus, flax, beef, pecans, peanuts, seeds and feed products, just to mention a few.

Disease, poverty, and poor food habits are just as responsible as food shortages in conditions of malnutrition and undernourishment, UNICEF experts claim. Nations expecting to overcome this condition in their population must develop long-term programs for hospitals, health centers, and home care, they say. Ignorance of food needs and values; untreated diseases, with emphasis on insufficient medical care for children; lack of sound weaning programs and the ever-present factor of overpopulation with no means of coping with it must be corrected.

Good Education Key To Leadership

College Station-- Texas young people should prepare for their future leadership roles by getting the best education possible, according to Ben Barnes, speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

Barnes, who visited Texas A&M University recently to address the Texas 4-H Round-up awards dinner, told the young people that "tomorrow is yours, but the destiny of the entire world also rests in your hands."

He commended the young people and their volunteer adult leaders for the "excellent leadership work you have done here." Barnes then challenged the 4-H members to do an even better job in regional and national competition.

"You young people are fortunate to be living in this decade of the Space Age. Some of you may even go to the moon. Education is the key that opens the door for your tomorrows. Texas provides fine facilities for a good education, so don't stop until you have completed yours and fully prepared for future leadership roles," Barnes said in his talk. "A Citizen's Responsibility."

He pointed out that young people today have more opportunities than ever before, yet also have greater responsibilities than any generation yet born. Barnes emphasized that freedom does not come to all young people, and urged them to exercise their responsibilities as a free person is your responsibility, and to die a free person is your obligation. Barnes said.

What About Area Auto Insurance

The average motorist in Lamb County will pay $4 more for automobile insurance if the proposed change in rates is made by the State Board of Insurance, according to the Southwestern Insurance Information Service of Dallas.

Present cost of insurance on a new Ford of Chevrolet private passenger car driven to and from work and not driven by a male under 25 years of age is $138. The new cost would be $142. This includes basic liability coverage of $10,000 for injury or loss of life of one person, $20,000 for two, and $5,000 property damage; $100 deductible collision; and full coverage comprehensive insurance.

Under the new rates, motorists would pay $1 more for bodily injury and property damage liability and $5 more for comprehensive. But the cost of $100 deductible collision would be reduced $2.

Cost for the same coverage but with $50 deductible collision would be increased $4 also, from $151 to $155.

Other types and older cars would have different rates. Texas has 26 rating territories and eight automobile classifications. The cost estimates given are for cars in classification 1B, which includes about half of the private automobiles in Texas.

For cars in this classification and insured under $100 deductible collision policies, insurance would cost less in nine territories and remain unchanged in two. Costs for $50 deductible policies would be lowered in seven territories and unchanged in one.

Even with the rate increases, Texas would rank about 30th among the states in the cost of automobile insurance to policyholders.

National Debt Limit Increasing?

By Senator John Tower

The Senate is engaged this week in what has, unfortunately become an annual ritual. We are being asked again to increase the national debt limit. It's getting so the debt limit has to be raised every year. The reason is that since 1960 the Federal Government has run itself $37 Billion further into debt by spending dollars it does not have. And all this unrestrained spending has begun to haunt us now in the form of inflation that's increasing every body's cost of living.

Somehow, the Federal Government never has learned what a family fast learns--that you can't for very long spend more than you can take in without getting into serious trouble.

Now, the Administration is asking that the debt limit be increased to a whopping $332 Billion so that it can continue its spending and probably create more inflation.

I believe this debt-limit bill represents a chance for Congress to indicate to the Administration its desire, and the desire of the American people, that Federal spending be better controlled.

Already, Congress has been successful in cutting $2 Billion from the proposed debt limit. I believe that is a wise action which will force better fiscal controls on the government.

Ever since I came to the Senate, I have voted against these bills to let more and more national debt pile up. I continue to feel the federal government has an obligation to its tax-paying citizens to get its affairs in better order and to set more realistic priorities on national spending.

There is plenty of room for better control.

This nation faces, in the fiscal year starting July 1, planned federal spending of $118 Billion. That spending is up $35 Billion in just five years, and less than one-third of it is for the Vietnam conflict.

Most of the spending that's causing inflation can be traced directly to new domestic programs which have not lived up to their expectations.

It is a clear economic fact that, in the face of war, we should be holding the line on our domestic spending. Our continuing policy of "going now and paying later" has brought us the largest debt in our nation's history.

Interest alone on that debt costs American taxpayers $22,000 each minute!

However, even though this debt-limit increasing is a frustrating business, I believe it has served the purpose of focusing national attention on government spending. This year it is more important than ever for us to face up to the precariousness of the national financial situation. I believe the federal government has a responsibility to avoid a runaway inflation. Such inflation could force us into government control of wages, price, and credit.

Already there is talk of another increase in taxes--Although that would only further add to a family's cost of living.

Federal spending policies have also resulted in a rising deficit in our foreign balance of payments. That imbalance has threatened our international monetary stability and even further drained our already low reserves of gold.

In the face of such danger signals the housewife has been asked to cut down on purchases, the public to step up government bond buying, business to cut back on plant expansions, and labor to withhold wage increase appeals. These requests point up one seldom recognized danger of inflation--the seeds of recession.

I believe it would make a lot more sense for the federal government to restrain itself, rather than trying to talk everyone else into restraint. Housewives already are being careful about what they buy. It's the federal government that is not being careful with our money.

There is no reason why the federal debt should not be more strictly limited because the government could cut unnecessary spending if it wanted to, or if the law required it to. I hope the debt limit can be held at a realistic level, and I hope the federal government becomes convinced during this debate that Americans expect their government to protect their dollar... not to cheapen it.

Inflation robs something from all of us. It makes the dollars we have saved worth less when we try to spend them. It hits hardest at the poor and the elderly and those trying to live on fixed incomes.

We have years and years of evidence to convince us that going further and further into debt has not helped keep our dollar sound. It's time our federal government heeded the lessons of history and of common sense. The dollar is worth protecting."

Grain Sorghum Producers Elect Officers

Directors of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association, serving Texas and the Southwest, largest acreage crop, held their regular quarterly meeting and annual election of officers in Amarillo, Thursday, June 30. Highlight of the meeting came with the report that the Association reached its record membership and operating budget this year and that programs of research, market development and service which it provided have also helped push the use of grain sorghum to its record level of an expected 742 million bushels at home and abroad for this marketing year ending September 30.

Sam Attebury of Attebury Elevators in Amarillo reported to GSPA, who named him to a U. S. Feed Grains Council assignment to India to study grain sorghum distribution and handling. Attebury pointed out that 1,750,000 tons or about $70 million worth of grain sorghum had either been shipped or committed to India this year and that the need for it as food certainly would continue for some time, but that it appeared that it would take strong administrative liaison and promotional efforts on the part of GSPA to keep sorghum moving at this level to India in the future.

Ken Kendrick, immediate past Executive Vice President of the National Association of Wheat-growers in Washington, D. C., pointed out that inasmuch as current farm legislation continues to allow the substitution between wheat and feed grains that this makes the problems and opportunities of grain sorghum and wheat one and the same in this area. He indicated that it would probably be easy to get administrative program changes which would allow for the production of the necessary acreage and bushels of wheat and feed grains as stocks are rebuilt for the future but that it is going to be difficult and take much effort on the part of sorghum and wheat producers to get program decisions giving assurance of adequate price and income during this period.

During the afternoon business session, the Board adopted the following policies:

To continue to furnish the trophy for the winner of the Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation Pageant in Dimmitt which will be August 5 and 6.

To decline the offer of free exhibit space at the Panhandle South Plains Fair in September due to lack of adequate funds and staff to develop and supervise a grain sorghum exhibit in keeping with the desires of the Association and the fair.

To continue $3,500.00 a year support to the U. S. Feed Grains Council through which Grain Sorghum Producers Association conducts its foreign market development activities.

To oppose programs of United States AID missions which promote the production of grain sorghum in other nations unless such AID missions also have adequate grain utilization programs included which will assure the use of the increased production in the individual country in which it is produced so that it will not move into the foreign markets in competition with United States' grain sorghum.

In recommending the election of the same slate of officers for another year, the nominating committee pointed out that "during the years ahead, farm organizations and commodity groups are faced with some of the greatest changes facing farmers and the organizations themselves and that experienced leadership available for continuing committee assignments was imperative." In an unanimous vote of the directors, the entire executive committee was re-elected which includes: Mr. Elbert Harp of Abemathy, president; Pat Northcutt of Silverton, vice president for Research and Education; R. G. Feeler of Hereford, vice president for Market Development; and Fran Moore of Plainview, vice president for Legislative Services and A. W. Anthony, Jr. of Priona, Secretary-treasurer.

Adult Risk Blamed For Water Toll

AUSTIN—A sobering reminder came to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department from a Texas safety authority, stating that adults take the greater chances in water and therefore increase the drowning toll.

The Department is unofficially recording water recreational drownings as a fatality deterrent but the rate this year is higher than 1965 when an even 200 deaths were blamed to some sort of play in or around a water area.

The emphasis on older people risks was made by Carl Young, of the Corpus Christi City Health Department.

He said: "Most drownings happen to people who consider themselves good swimmers and just don't take the right precautions against accidents."

He stressed the enormous need for more first-aid schooling, especially about mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Young said "at least 20 lives" have been saved in that area by this method during the last year.

Of this technique he said: "The most important thing to remember is to tilt the head back so that the tongue will be out of the way and not block the intake passage. Then blow with force and watch to make sure that the chest rises."

"Time is the most important element. You have only four minutes from the time breathing stops until the time brain damage or death occurs."

Young said the urgent need for life preservers for all occupants of boats "cannot be overemphasized."

He added that a high percentage of drownings from boating accidents could be avoided by "faithful adherence to the

Joe Temple Named To Lamb County Red Cross Board

At the regular meeting of the Lamb County Red Cross Board on Friday, July 1, Joe Temple, banker of Earth, was approved unanimously as a board member.

The Executive Secretary reported that the comfort bags had been shipped for use in Vietnam. She also reported that 26 service to military cases had received attention through May and June.

The next meeting of the board will be August 6, at 4 p.m. at the Red Cross Office.

Fish Help Make 1966 Fine Year

AUSTIN—Summer fresh water fishing is holding up unusually well this year over most of the state, according to reports to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Departments.

A spokesman said the unseasonably cool weather extending into the time when heat already has arrived became a major factor in the favorable 1966 angling picture.

Black bass fishing reportedly has been holding up well because of the weather break, and the old reliable catfishing likewise has been producing good results.

Regardless of the weather, the spokesman noted, panfish are popular with the summer trade. Sunfish, in addition to being the sweetest and best tasting of all fresh water fish, are available in amazing numbers, he said. Besides they cooperate with the angler and bite readily.

The spokesman qualified his encouragement to the sunfish addict by suggesting that some research or on location observation be made as to the feeding times of the sporty panfish.

He said they usually bite in the early forenoon and in the late afternoon and are inclined to be fussy about dining in between. He pictured the perfect summer vacationer as one with a cane pole, some tiny hooks, a can of worms and a shady place to dip his line around some weeds, a log, brush, or beneath an overhanging limb.

Lakes having white bass provide good night fishing with lights. Sports interested in attracting crappie might try sinking some green willow brush since the speckled fighters are attracted by the fresh leaves.

McGregor--There's a fascinating machine here that uses atomic energy to measure soil moisture.

Agricultural scientists at Texas A&M University's Livestock and Forage Research Center, McGregor, are using the rig--and they say it's providing many needed answers about soil moisture storage. It's just another example of what a sophisticated science agriculture has become.

The rig sends neutrons out into the soil. By the number that bounce back into a neutron trap, soil moisture can be accurately recorded, says G. W. McLean, A&M researcher in charge of the tests.

The process looks simple enough. Seamless steel tubes about one and one-half inches in diameter are driven some five feet into the ground. At McGregor they have about 200 of the tubes scattered over the station.

Then, a probe containing tered are measured and recorded. This, then, indicates the amount of soil moisture. The rig costs about $1,000, probably not practical for use it has, it can tell you exactly when to irrigate. It measures the moisture at various depths and eliminates any guesswork. It has many other uses valuable to the A&M researchers.

McLean says it gives an accurate record of moisture use of different crops--some use more than others. Also, it gives a record of moisture used by different crop rotation systems.

Medicare Program Off To Slow Start in County

The nation-wide Medicare hospitalization program went into effect, Friday, July 1. R. W. Manley, administrator of Littlefield Hospital and clinic, said the persons enrolled in the hospitalization plan will have to pay a certain amount of the hospital and doctor's expenses to begin with, and some of the people won't, or can't, pay these expenses upon entrance.

"This deductible will hold some of the people back from trying to get into the hospital," Manley said.

He also said that he did not foresee any real problems with the Medicare program as far as the hospitals and concerned.

"There will be increased paper work and accounting problems, and we can always use more good nurses, but there should be no difficulties with the physical plant."

He reported Littlefield Hospital so far has not had to invest in any new or additional equipment and no additional staff.

"Accounting problems probably will give us a few headaches," he said. "Accounts of the people over 65 on the program have to be kept separately from the other patients."

Mrs. Charlene King, administrator at Medical Arts Clinic, said she expects some immediate increase in patients, but no great influx.

"We are ready to go, all forms, staff, everything," she said. "Probably there will be about a 20 per cent increase in patients over a year's time," Social Security representatives estimate about 1,500 persons are enrolled on the plan in the county.

The Medical Arts Clinic has not had to invest in any additional equipment or hire new staff members, so far, reports Mrs. King.

"We will just have to wait and see how the program will go," she said. "We might find it necessary next week to revise our estimates that there would be few or no problems connected with the program. But so far, I anticipate no critical problems in administering the program."

Hospital administrators said Littlefield, and area, hospitals were approved for the hospitalization program on a year to year basis. They will be examined again next year to see if the facilities still meet Social Security and state health requirements.

The administrators also reminded persons enrolled in the plan to bring their medical cards with them to the hospitals.

G I Bill Gives Vets Job Preference

While most of the interest shown in the so-called new G I Bill of Rights has been concerned with educational benefits, there are certain little-noted provisions that give the 4-million veterans affected under the new law certain Civil Service job preferences.

They get five points added to their scores in Civil Service tests and 10 points if they were disabled or were awarded the Purple Heart, according to Jack Coker, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco, Texas.

In addition to the actual 5 or 10 points being added to their Civil Service test score, those veterans who have served since January, 1955, thus become eligible for veterans preference in job selection. Prior to the enactment of the new G I Bill, veterans who served since 1955 did not receive veterans job preference even though they rated high on the tests, Coker said.

Pheasants Freed For Two Areas

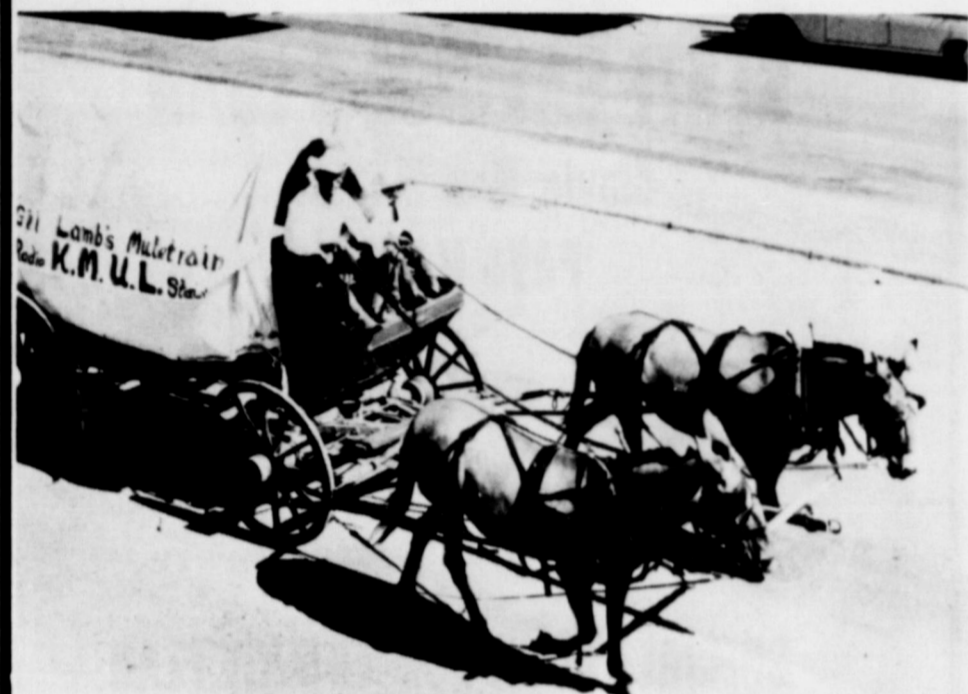

TYLER- One hundred pheasants from the game bird farm here were released on the Ramsey Prison Unit in Brazoria County.

The birds were liberated in an area supporting about 2100 acres of corn.

The Brazoria County birds were cross breeds involving the ringneck and the Iranian blackneck pheasant, the Department's first attempt in cross breeding the two species.

In the case of exotics the birds are liberated in areas that have seemingly ample food supplies, and as similar to the species native habitat as possible, thereby offering some hope of survival and reproduction.

Pesticides That Kill Bugs, Also Dangerous to People

Pesticides will kill ants, mosquitos, spiders and other pests, but the poisons can also be dangerous to people, warn the editors of Changing Times.

Note these points on how to buy and use them:

Don't buy in a hurry-- different pests. The label will tell you whether the contents will banish the bug you are after.

Check the type. Surface sprays are for crawling insects. They may be dangerous if used in the air against flying insects such as mosquitos or gnats, use a space spray.

Read directions carefully. Close doors and windows and order everyone out. Put out the cat, dog, parakeet and other pets before you spray.

Don't use near food or dishes. Don't spray the inside of the refrigerator or the oven. Take everything out of the pantry or dish cabinets before spraying the shelves, then wait until the spray dries before refilling with clean paper.

Protect yourself. Some sprays are flammable, so don't smoke and don't use near pilot lights. If the pesticide spills on your skin, rinse it off immediately with plenty of soap and water.

And don't inhale the spray. Store spray safely. Keep it away from children. Don't store it with cleaning supplies or medicines. And look for any special directions on storage. If the product is flammable, for instance, don't store it near heat.

Research Indicates Best Time, Amount To Water Crops

Many years of irrigation research have led to the development of a number of basic principles farmers can use to decide the time and amount of water to apply to cotton and grain sorghum on the High Plains, says Buddy C. Logsdon, County Agent of Lamb County. Scientists have found that cotton uses about one-tenth of an inch of water up to about the square stage. Then the plants water consumption increases rapidly until it reaches a peak of from .25 to .4 inches per day at the peak bloom stage. Irrigation should be based on this water-use information, says Logsdon, but, of course will be influenced by rainfall and the watering capability of the irrigation system. If only one irrigation will be made, the agent says it should ideally go on at early peak bloom. Cotton to be irrigated twice or more during the summer has been found to produce more efficiently when the first irrigation is applied in the first white bloom period with the others following in the peak bloom period, Logsdon said. More than 20 years of studies at the South Plains Research and Extension Center, near Lubbock, indicate that a pre-plant plus two summer irrigations will produce the maximum net returns in the long run, Logsdon said.

Additional irrigations naturally increase per acre yields, but he says the yields do not increase proportionally with the amount of water added. Late irrigations are sometimes not paid for by the small increases in yield and they can lower the cotton's quality, the agent said. Regardless of the number of irrigations following a pre-plant, the first application generally should not precede the first white bloom. Excessive moisture before bloom generally encourages excessive vegetative growth rather than fruiting. In every row irrigation, the highest yield per acre-inch of water has been obtained with a pre-plant plus one summer irrigation. "Even this efficiently may be increased along with increases in per acre yields with the same amount of water, by the use of alternate furrow irrigation," says Extension Irrigation Specialist Bill Lyle of Lubbock. This permits more timely applications of limited water. Proper timing of irrigation is often more important than the total amount applied, Lyle says. Grain sorghum irrigation is also important when planning the irrigation schedule on most area farms. Grain sorghum uses less than one-tenth of an inch of water per day up to about the seven leaf stage and then the use rate increases rapidly. Logsdon said the peak water use of more than .3 inches per day comes between the boot and bloom stage. Research indicates the best grain sorghum yields are produced when available soil moisture is kept at or above about 45 percent of capacity from the pre-boot to the soft dough stage. But Logsdon said this watering schedule is seldom the most profitable and it results in extremely inefficient water use. Two well-timed seasonal irrigations will generally give good yields and probably near maximum net returns on grain sorghum. The agent says these two irrigations ideally should be applied at pre-boot and at the late-bloom stage. As with cotton, Logsdon says research indicates one irrigation on grain sorghum gives the most effective water use. If rainfall is short, the boot stage is the approximate time to apply the one irrigation. However, the agent said if conditions allow delaying this irrigation to the milk stage, research shows yields will be better even though earlier moisture may shorten the plant more than a foot.

No matter how many irrigations are applied, he says excessive early moisture followed by later moisture stress should be avoided on grain sorghum if possible. The agent explained that rapid elongation preceding the boot stage followed by moisture stress during grain development is likely to cause lodging as a result of charcoal rot. This irrigation research information may not always work as expected on any one farm, Logsdon said. But local farmers can consider the basic ideas and apply those that fit into their water and crop situation. The agent said he has more detailed information on irrigation research and recommendations available at his office.

There is no place where God is not. Wherever we may be, God is there to guide, to safeguard, and to bless us. God's promise is, "Certainly I will be with you." Research Reports Cotton Pests Immune to Some Insecticides

College Station--The battle between cotton farmers and insects goes on. In some cases it seems that no sooner is a good insecticide developed than the persistent cotton insects develop an immunity to it. And so the fight continues--the farmer holding the upper hand for a while, then the insects. From Texas A&M University comes the latest report on resistance of the bollworm and tobacco budworm to chemical insecticides. It's not good? Texas A&M researchers, Perry Adkisson, professor, and S. J. Nemec, research assistant, have completed work indicating the bollworm and budworm have developed a tremendous resistance in the last few years to the most commonly used insecticides. They say the main reason most growers prevented damage last year with insecticides was because the insect population was small. The A&M researchers say effective control this year will be difficult if a full-scale insect attack comes and if growers use insecticides to which insects have become immune. In A&M tests to determine resistance, the bollworm and tobacco budworm were raised on a wheat germ diet at College Station. Then, various insecticides were applied to the insects and the number of deaths recorded 48 hours after treatment. In 1964 tests, A&M researchers noted a 90 percent kill on bollworms with Toxaphene-DDT, Strobane-DDT and endrin. Sevln had a 93 percent kill in 1964. The picture worsened in 1965. In these tests, Toxaphene-DDT and endrin had only a 52 percent kill on bollworms. Strobane-DDT had only a 47 percent kill and Sevln showed a 76 percent kill. It's the same story for budworms. In all cases, the insects were more resistant to the insecticides in 1965 than in 1964. A report issued by A&M notes the bollworm is 33 thousand times as resistant to DDT now as in 1960. Bollworms are 13 times as resistant to endrin, 20 times as resistant to Strobane-DDT, 11 times as resistant to Toxaphene-DDT and 4.5 times as resistant to Sevln as they were in 1960. What does this mean to the farmer? According to Weldon Newton, Extension entomologist at A&M, it means some of the previously used insecticides won't do the job this year if there is a high insect population. Newton said it means farmers should follow Extension recommendations on which insecticides to use. He said the Extension recommendations this year on bollworms and budworms are: Strobane-DDT-methyl parathion, Toxaphene-DDT-methyl parathion, Sevln-methyl parathion or Azodrin. At A&M, researchers have combined several insecticides in an attempt to come up with a winning combination to effectively control the pests. This year, no doubt, insects may be even more resistant--cotton growers are going to have to be wide-awake to stay ahead in the battle.

Shortage Of Dairy Cows Seen by Research Specialist

Tyler--There may soon be a critical shortage of dairy cows, according to a Texas A&M University Extension dairy specialist here.

Shannon Carpenter, Extension dairy specialist at the East Texas Research Station here, says a number of dairy replacements is down about 7 percent from a year ago. Also, the number of cows in milk is the smallest in 50 years. It all adds up to a short supply of dairy animals, says Carpenter.

The specialist says there are several things a dairyman can do to reduce the shortage.

The first is good management practices. Average productive life of a dairy cow is about four lactations, he says. Good care of dairy cows can boost this to five lactations--a 25 percent increase.

Carpenter suggests getting replacement heifers into the milking barn at 24 months instead of the usual 30 months. In that extra six months, the heifer may produce 7 or 8 thousand pounds of milk enough to pay for her upbringing. Good feeding practices are needed though, to bring the heifers on this early.

Finally, Carpenter suggests breeding all cows in the herd or dairy bulls. Some dairy-men breed part of the herd to a beef bull, and sell the calves. Any cow worth milking twice a day is good enough to produce a calf for dairy purposes when bred to a good dairy bull, he says.

Cotton Cut Aids Game

TYLER--Some wildlife, thinks Joe Davidson, biologist with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, may benefit from the reduction in 1966 cotton acreage in some areas.

In some counties showing a reduction in cotton, the fields may turn out to be fields of grain needed by dove and quail.

Maize and corn fields will be good pickings this fall and winter for game birds, he said.
