NOSIN...
With Polly

I notice that grocery stores in several towns across the nation and Texas too, are cutting out foolish gimmicks and give-away deals in order to cut down on food prices. . . This is the most SANE IDEA that businessmen have come up with yet. . . This idea of doing away with those give-away deals, that cause prices to be upped in order to absorb free gimmick costs.

It's an ideal time for local merchants as well as merchants everywhere to take another look around at the ordinary housewife and realize that they are getting smarter, they don't come to the store to buy stamps, they come to buy quality foods, and quality merchandise but with prices upped to cover the cost of give-away stamps, dishes, etc., it's almost impossible to stretch their budget to cover the cost of necessary items.

One local lady who won $200 last week in a free gimmick give-away said she was glad to see it stopped and prices cut instead.

How many housewives do you imagine resent having to pay for stamps by increased prices? Many, many more than one could guess. . .

One local grocer said his cost per week on stamps was approximately $300. Who do you suppose pays that cost???

Ask yourself when you patronize a stamp-giving merchant if you want to buy stamps or do you prefer merchandise?

The local merchants are anxious that you express your wishes to them. They are anxious to cut down prices and join the businessmen who do away with give away deals, including stamps. . . Tell your local merchants what you desire. . . Patterson, Piggly Wiggly, and Pounds Pharmacy along with others are anxious to cut out all outside expenses and sell quality merchandise at economical prices.

Parents Visit Area Lunchrooms To Compare Menus, Preparation and Operation

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a report of the findings of a group of local parents who recently visited five area school lunch rooms in order to compare menus, preparation of foods, waste involved by uneaten meals and the overall method of operation by area school lunchrooms.

We found the five schools to be on a level superior to our local lunch room.

The other schools have increased their prices this year to meet the cost involved in proving the state's required A-1 lunch.

Each of the supervisors in other schools keep their own books, make their own menus, and do their own buying. They don't seem to understand how it could be handled any other way. The supervisors also have attended the school of instructions at Texas Tech each summer.

The five schools have served chicken, turkey and steak since school began. Poultry is one of the cheapest meats and the state has furnished each school with some chicken and turkeys as a commodity. Dimmitt has received some 60 turkeys and Muleshoe has received 2 shipments of turkeys.

If the supervisors find the children are not eating certain foods, they do not prepare them again in the same manner, consequently the throw away from the area schools is not an exceeding amount.

Dimmitt and Muleshoe each have a snack bar where students can buy foods they like. This gives the children a choice.

We found too that each of the five schools had a separate banquet fund and snack bar fund, from their regular lunch room fund.

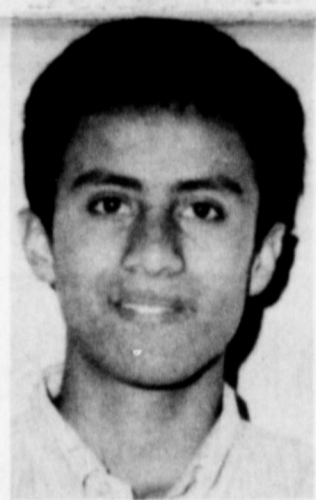

All the schools claim they never prepare anything extra and there is no difference in their meals on holidays or for public school week when more parents are sure to visit.

We found the schools charge all adults extra.

For the menus with hamburgers, the other schools buy their hamburger buns because the children eat them better, and the labor expense involved in making the buns is equal to the cost of buying them, even though the flour to make them is a government commodity.

All the schools report they got all the flour, meal, shortening and rice (commodities) they can possibly use. The schools have also received some peas and apricots. The manner in which the schools are issued the commodities shows no partiality in size.

In concluding this brief report, we parents wish to challenge any parent or taxpayer in our school district to go and check for themselves.

Wedding Bells Sound Oftener In 1965

New York--If you have the feeling you gave lots more wedding presents last year than in previous years, you're right. You did. According to statisticians at the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, wedding bells sounded for 801,760 American couples and 145,519 Canadians in 1965, increases of more than 120,000 and almost 8,000 respectively.

Romance aside, why did so many more Americans choose to marry in 1965? In the United States, the increasing concern about the growing involvement in the conflict in Viet Nam contributed to the upswing, the report notes. As a consequence, almost eight percent more marriages occurred in the second half of 1965 than in the corresponding period of 1964.

Not unexpectedly, the greatest rise occurred in July and August, just before the Executive Order of August 26 which removed the special draft deferment rules for men who married after that date. "In fact, July and August marriages were more numerous in 1965 than in any other year except 1946, when the aftermath of World War II precipitated an all-time high," the statisticians observed. If previous experience holds, a baby boom may not be far off...

My Alaskan Tour

By Mrs. Myrtle Clayton

Mrs. Marie Ross of Earth and Mrs. Myrtle Clayton of Springlake with seventy other people, representing the towns of Amherst, Anton, Abernathy, Brownfield, Berger, Cooper, Christi, Farwell, Hale Center, Happy, Lubbock, Memphis, Miami, O'Donnell, Plainview, Pauhanle, Silvertown, Shamrock, and Tulla, left August 30 for a "North Western Tour" including Alaska.

This was the eleventh year for "Hickney's Planned Tours," and one long to be remembered by this group.

Our chartered buses were equipped with air conditioning, comfortable seats, game tables, ice water, rocking chairs, two way radios, so we could talk to one another, and even to the ones who had birthdays or anniversaries. There were thoughtful people who managed to buy good ole calories of one form or another to munch on all day. These are the kind of goodies that do not go to waste but sure go to waste.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hackney of Lubbock plan and direct these tours each year, and you just have to go on one to appreciate this wonderful couple. Many hours of time, and expense go in to the making of these tours which are educational as well as enjoyable. The bus drivers, Mr. Elbert Haron, of Lubbock and his lovely wife that he refers to as his "bitter half," and Mr. Roger Pierce, of Lubbock, new father and typical West Texan, made our tour even more pleasant.

We traveled 6,500 miles by bus, 1,200 miles by boat, 100 miles by narrow gage train, 1 1/2 miles by ski-lift, 6 miles by snowmobile, 16 miles by school bus, 3 miles by monorail, and also by cable car and the elevator and escalator, miles I failed to get.

Monday morning, August 30, and eager to see the Northwest and most of all Alaska, I just wondered what we Texans had that was larger than Alaska had. Passing through Dalhart, here was our Texas brag, for Dalhart is closer to the capitol of Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Kansas than it is to Austin.

First day was spent playing dominoes, forty-two, bridge, singing, and eating homemade cookies and candy. We spent the night at the Capri Motor Hotel in Denver, Colorado.

Leaving Denver we began to see cattle country, a glimpse of the Great Western Mountains in the distance, and then coming in to the Teton National Forest. The wild life here denotes the character of Jackson Hole. Mt. Moran is the highest peak of the Tetons with Snake River passing through the meadows at her feet, giving us a beautiful view of Colter Bay on Jackson Lake. The Continental Divide rests up on thirteen peaks of the 2 1/2 million acre Wind-River Mountain range. Here are 27 active glaciers that contribute water to the Snake, Colorado, Columbia, Green, Wind, Big Horn, Yellowstone, Missouri, and Mississippi Rivers.

This is the land of the American black bear, a roly-poly fat bear who climbs trees with great agility and often sleeps on slender limbs that barely support him. There is an abundance of antelope and big horns sheep. When the winter snows begin to get heavy the sheep come down to lower elevations. They stand three feet high at the shoulders and its spiral horns are perhaps the most highly prized trophy of the Western hunter. The mule deer inhabits the sage covered plains of Wyoming to the lower peaks. Originally the bison, as we call the buffalo, roamed the plains in almost countless numbers when the Indians and wild beasts were their only hunters. Today they are safe in this sanctuary, also the moose and elk. Thanks to the Wildlife Commission or these animals would become extinct.

Yellowstone National Park remains almost completely unchanged from its conception 94 years ago. A century and more has passed since Indian moccasins have crept along the game trails, since the French fur trappers were plying their trade, now five generations later tourists from over the world enjoy the vast solitude and scenic grandeur of primitive Yellowstone. In this great wild life preserve are various species of animals. "Old Faithful," the most talked about geyser is located in Yellowstone National Park. It erupts to a height of 116 feet to 170 feet every sixty to 65 minutes. Many smaller geysers are here also.

Here is "Morning Glory Pool," so named because of its shape and color, it never erupts or even boils, though it is filled with pure water over 200 degrees. It is 23 feet across and 29 feet deep. The narrow fissures supplying this hot spring penetrates the earth to unknown depths.

We spent the second night at "Old Faithful Inn." This inn, built in 1903, normally houses about 50,000 guests a season, including dignitaries and statesmen. The logs and twisted supports of this structure are native material. The giant clock and hardware were flammered out on the grounds of the inn, even the 85 foot fireplace contains rocks quarried from a hill side 5 miles from "Old Faithful." Leaving "Old Faithful" after a round of picture taking we headed for the earth quake area, leaving Yellowstone National Park by way of the west gate. On August 17, 1959 a severe earthquake jolted the Yellowstone country, causing a huge mountain to topple and form a picturesque lake at the head-water of the famous Madison River, and it was here that in order to evacuate the trapped people by pass roads were built, a new highway has been built and a memorial erected. Destruction of homes is still in evidence.

Entering into Montana "The Big Sky Country," and the land called "The Land of the Shining Mountains." This is the way it was seen by the French explorers as they looked up on the mountains, not particularly high but with layers of purple, buff, blue-grey, and red layers of glaciated, angular peaks which seem to rise from the valleys, forests of spruce, wild flowers, and waterfalls are perfect examples of God's creation. As we climb the switch backs in Gallatin National Forest above the timberline to the unspoiled wilderness we see wildlife again.

We passed through some of the farming country of Montana, wheat and more wheat, sugar beets, alfalfa cutting and baling. I felt right at home with the farmers. We saw the Missouri River meandering around and wanted to send it home.

We spent the night at the lovely O'Hair Manor at Great Falls, Montana.

At Calgary, Alberta Canada we still see much farming. We spent the night September 2 at Hotel Wales, Calgary is famous for its annual stampede. We ate lunch at the beautiful "Many Glaciers" Hotel, located in the heart of Swiftcurrent Lake and Grinnell Point in the background and the hospitality shown us will not soon be forgotten. When we were seated in the dining room, staff and employees grouped themselves around the piano and sang "The Eyes of Texas" to us. We were thrilled to be so honored.

In 1932 the Waterton-Glacier International Park was established to commemorate good will between the United States and Canada. Glacier National Park forms the United States section of the international park. This park contains the most primitive wilderness in the entire Rocky Mountains region. From the park streams flow northward to the Hudson Bay, westward to the Pacific and eastward to the Gulf of Mexico. The park is a meeting place of plants characteristic of West Coast, Great Plains and Rocky mountains. Here is erosion on a tremendous scale.

Saturday, September 3 found us on our way to Banff National Park, and eager to ride the "Foudola Lift."

These are the most modern type of lifts, they are fully glassed in and seat four persons. An eight minute ride to the top of Sulphur Mountain an altitude of 7,500 feet, over a mile stretch, you can see mountain ranges stretching for ninety miles with Banff at your feet, also Bow Falls and Bow River. The mountain goats come up near the Curio shop, and let you take their pictures, as you refresh and relax at the tea room on Sulphur mountain.

A tour near Banff, where a guide carried us to some interesting spots, one of which was where the phenomenal crooked trees were growing.

Courtyard at Banff was spent at the Banff Springs Hotel, one of the finest and most picturesque of the Canadian Pacific Hotel. This mile high hotel is truly a castle in a wonderland.

The doormen were dressed in the traditional kilts and accessories worn in the Highlands of Scotland. You do say "doom men" and not "bell hop."

This castle type hotel was built in 1892 by the Canadian Pacific Railroad at the cost of nineteen million dollars, and has 600 rooms, with antique furniture.

The famous Bow Falls golf course in the background cost another million dollars. Marie and I found the beautiful chapel room as we were trying to find our way down to the main floor, we walked in and set down for a few minutes of silent meditation.

Another interesting tree that we saw, was one with burls growing in its trunk. This bumpy distorted tree has what is known as "fairy rings" caused by insects laying their eggs in the bark of the tree. This type of tree is used extensively for ornamental decorations in building of homes, motels, and sign posts, etc.

Leaving Banff National Park, we entered Jasper National Park. The name of this park perpetuates the memory of Jasper Hawes, an old servant of the Northwest Trading Company, where post stood near the site of the present town of Jasper.

This was one of the rich domains for which the Hudson Bay Company and the north-west Company fought bitterly, early in the nineteenth century. Then the traders, and trappers, the voyagers, and explorers, the Missionary Priests and Paqau Indians moved in procession up and down the Athabasca Trail which cuts through the heart of Jasper today. At a tiny lake almost on the crest of the water shed of the Whirlpool River, West, and east bound, brigades met, exchanged goods, toasted each other's health in a key of rum and returned to their separate paths. This meeting place became known as the Committee Punch Bowl.

We saw Pyramid Mountain, reflected in Pyramid Lake, "The Game Trail," where Moose, Elk, Deer, and Bear eat and play. There was Mount Edith Cavell just a short distance from us. It is called "The Great White Mountain of Crossing," and with its "Angle of the Glaciers," it is the highest peak dominating the Athabasca Valley. It is known and revered as the fitting memorial to the brave English girl, nurse Edith Cavell, who died a martyr's death in the "First Great War." Also Mountain Eisenhower. There were "Lodge Pole" pines by the highway so named because these pines were used in the erecting of the Indian Tepees.

Sunday, September 4, Mr. Francis Silvertown led in our Sunday period of devotions. The "Great Columbia Icefields" cover an area of one hundred and twenty square miles, they are high in the Canadian Rockies and ringed by massive glacier-hung mountains. This ice field is the source of three rivers each flowing to a different ocean. Our snowmobile ride was on the Athabasca Glacier on the Columbia Icefield and it was a rough exciting ride. The snowmobiles are built at a degree angle to the right or left so they will not tilt. It takes 60 pounds of air for the tires. We came within a few feet of the fantastic "Moolin" formations, which are vertical wells formed by the surface water falling through a crack in the ice and gradually scooping out a deep chasm. The snowmobiles cost eight thousand dollars each. The night was spent at Jasper in the Athabasca Hotel for some of the group, while the others stayed at the Whistlers Hotel. The highest Totem Pole in existence is here, a striking example of Indian skill in carving these historical and symbolic monuments in wood is near the depot at Jasper. Lunched today at beautiful Moraine Lake in the Valley of Ten Peaks, between Banff and Jasper. Stopped at Upper Waterfall Lake to take pictures of Moose eating grass off the bottom of the lake, sure thought he was fishing at first as he plunged his head down out of sight but learned that moose graze on this water grass as it has a mineral in it that their bodies need.

Coffee break at Lake Louise, then across the Continental Divide in to Yoho National Park in British Columbia, Canada, and spent the night at Lake Emerald Chateau. This magnificent chateau is built on the shores of the emerald blue water, shores of the famous lake.

Today, September 6, we journeyed toward Kamloops going over Rogers Pass section of the Trans-Canadian highway. This is a smooth shortcut through some of the grandest scenery of the Selkirk Mountains. On this route, snowfields and glaciers are the prominent feature of the landscape. Dividing the heavy annual snowfall of this region some sections of the road are protected from avalanches by snowsheds of massive concrete construction and avalanche traps designed to stop or divert the snow slides. During the winter months heavy snow moving equipment operates continually keeping the roadway clear. Two national Parks are traversed by the new highway, Glacier National Park and Revelstoke. The town of Revelstoke became the mountain divisional center of the Canadian and Pacific railroad in 1899 and has increased in importance with the growth of the rail way.

Coché Creek is the doorway to the "Cariboo Country" some times called the Big Country. It is a rugged country, land of the fur-brigade, miner, trapper and trader. Along the Cariboo Highway, mile houses still stand that once were stopping places for the stage coaches, and the highway itself follows the course of the historic Cariboo Wagon Road.

The town of Clinton serves as a distributing point and is here that the Clinton Bell, which rings once a week, is performed regularly for nearly one hundred years, and they can boast of the famous historic museum of which half of the history of the Cariboo is here such as "Hanging Judge Chair," "Bull Press" and Artifacts of the old days.

We came to the "Miles Houses", the name derived from the fact that the contractor was paid so much a mile to build the road. When each mile was completed he erected a post giving the distance. These houses were built to board the crews and for public stopping places. At Clinton, the 47 mile house was erected. At 70 mile post the 70 mile house was erected and so on, at the 83, 93, 100, and 150. They say that no matter what your nationality, you can be certain that the Cariboo road has someone of your blood who worked and died for this, the "eighth wonder of the world."

The Cariboo road has left the joy of a miner "striking it rich" and the disappointment of many hundreds that "went bust." Lac La Hache, a French name meaning "Lake of the Axe" is a small community with big history. There the Cariboo ragato is staged annually, also third largest government campsite in Canada, and the cattle capital of British Columbia. Quesnel, once used as the miner's supply center, now boasts a population of about 6,000. It is a sprawling lumbering and mining area and commercial center. In a natural amphitheater each year is staged an annual stampede and rodeo. For seventy miles the highway takes us along the Fraser River, once a name that struck terror in to the hearts of those that dared its rapids, now it is a spectacular scenic waterway to Quesnel. Here again you can pan for gold. Nestling in the Valley of the Fraser and Nechako Rivers is Prince George of Central British Columbia. Here is located the largest saw and planer mills in all the universe and is called the "Western White Spruce Capitol of the World." This is exciting rock hunting country. We spent the night at Hotel Simon Fraser. We took a coffee break at Burns Lake, and we met "Mr. Five by Five" the native Indian and lumber jack, he would smile and pose for us to take his picture (for ten cents). Houston is the realm of the mighty moose and the gateway to the Morice River and to the fighting "Steelhead" fish in the world have been produced here. We passed through Smithers to New Hazelton and the Kispiox River, where some of the largest "Steelhead" fish in the world have been produced. Prince Rupert is the hub of the central sea traffic to Alaska by ferry. It is known as the "Halibut Capitol of the World," and some 15 to 18 million pounds of halibut are landed here each year. Also the original Haida and Tsimpsian Totem Poles can be seen here.

Leaving our bus here we boarded the Alaskan Ferry, the "Taku", for the "Alaskan Inside Passage." This ferry carries 500 passengers and 108 cars. It is 352 feet long and has a cruising speed of 17 knots. This vessel is equipped with a spacious observation lounge, dining room, snack bar, reclining chairs and state rooms. It is really a floating freeway to Alaskan adventure, cruising the "Alaska Inside Passage."

The "Inside Passage," runs through the Tongass National Forest. The first town in the Passage is Ketchikan, the salmon capital of the world. It is a wonderful place for the fisherman to test his skill at landing a salmon. A new $6 million dollar pulp plant is viewed as the key to the community's future prosperity. The Inside Passage is a thousand mile long waterway, protected on both sides by endless forests, and mountains rise steeply from the water. The average rain fall here is around one hundred and fifty inches per year.

Wrangell is the second town. I learned that it was founded by the Russians, who wanted to forestall any hunting by the British Hudson Bay Company upon the striking River. The Wrangell mills, which export lumber, are the community's main industry. There is river fishing for rainbow trout, cut throat, and salt water for king and silver salmon, and the finest hunting in Southeastern Alaska for water fowl and moose.

Totem poles and a Flingit community house may be seen on Chief Shakes Island in Wrangell Harbor. Petersburg was settled by people of Norwegian ancestry. Here is massed a large fishing industry. The world famous Petersburg shrimp are processed here, as well as clam, crab, salmon, and halibut. During the spring tides and off shore winds, hundreds of ice bergs are discharged by the Le Conte River and are seen near Petersburg.

Sitka is the shrine of Alaska history. It was the center of Russian activities until 1867 and the capitol of the territory until 1900, when the capitol was moved to Juneau. Sitka National Monument, located on Baranof Island, is a collection of Indian totem poles and artifacts preserved because of the historical values of the vicinity. Within the area are 18 totem poles by the finest craftsmen and the site of the fort in which the Sitka Indians made their last stand against the Russians.

The most powerful Indians were the Flingit group. They were a vigorous, war like people. Their main livelihood came from the sea; they were skilled boatmen. The Sitkas painted their family totems over the door of their houses to symbolize the Flingit Clan to which they belonged. They also worked copper, wove blankets from the hair of wild goats, and made beautiful baskets, wooden boxes, and elaborate ceremonial masks. The largest and most famous totem pole stands on the site of the old Sitka fort. This totem is called the "Fog Women" and belonged to a Haida Indian chief. It is 59 feet high and has more carved figures than any other Alaskan totem pole. These poles are not objects of religious worship but they record family and tribal history, describe significant events, and are monuments to the fame or ill repute of outstanding people. Their carvings and paint tell of the earth's origin and the creation of certain fish, birds, and animals. The bright paint is made from crushed rock, minerals, and clam shells mixed with fish eggs as the binding agent.

St. Peter's-by-the-sea Episcopal Church faces Crescent Bay and is a thing of beauty. Sheldon Jackson Junior College and High School is the only four year high school and two year college in Alaska with boarding facilities. Sitka plans an all out celebration in 1967, since it is the site of the official transfer when the U. S. purchased Alaska from Russia. The capitol of Alaska is Juneau. The neighboring community of Douglas is connected by a steel bridge 1,564 feet long across the Gastineau Channel.

Near Juneau is the Meade Hall Glacier Recreation Area. We toured the Area and took pictures of the Glacier. It is probably the most photographed glacier in the world; it is 17 miles long. "The Red Dog Saloon" is known for its honky tonk piano and saw dust covered floors. There are 32 bars and 28 stores here.

Q. What farming practices are recommended prior to planting?
A. Well, you should pre-irrigate as necessary and fertilize. A pre-emerge herbicide is desirable. We are finding that by carefully taking soil tests and paying particular attention to trace minerals we can get superior yields. We rather favor putting on sufficient amounts of fertilizer to completely feed from the soil alone.

Q. What about seedbed preparation?
A. It should be loose and well mulched. Shallow listing for planting is ideal. You should plant on a shallow, flat bed with a precision planter, covering seed three to three and one-half inches. It is necessary for the roots to be able to grow laterally as well as down.

Q. What are the planting rates per acre?
A. San Juan and Luna should be planted at 35 pounds per acre; however, the Idaho 111, up to 75 pounds. The seed must be dropped from the planter singly about two and one-half to three inches apart and covered three to three and one-half inches. Most are in 40-inch rows.

Q. How much does the seed cost?
A. The San Juan will run 13 1/2 cents per pound non-certified up to 17 1/2 cents on the Idaho 111 Certified. However seed prices do vary in proportion to what farmers receive for beans.

Q. How much water do they require and when should they be watered?
A. You should aim for about a 50 percent saturated soil starting out and increase this as the plant matures. First watering should be made when the bean starts the second leaf, the second when the soil starts to dry out and the third about the same story. On the fourth watering you should try to saturate from row to row and the fifth to maintain a high saturation until beans are mature.

Q. How much total water would you say it would take to grow a crop?
A. Oh, not over an acre foot if you received no rain at all.

Q. What other general practices would you recommend?
A. It's best to plant rows in relation to the grade of your land for one thing. The more level the field the shorter the rows. Also irrigate only every other row. Cultivating is very important. I don't believe our new farmers are cultivating as much as they should.

Q. What type cultivator is best and how often or how many times is adequate?
A. Any cultivator that can operate shallow one to one and one-half inch or a rotary hoe is fine—or something like the Lillian. Three to five times may be necessary up to about the first of June. Some less if a herbicide has been used.

Q. What is the procedure for harvesting?
A. The first operation is windrowing with a bean cutter attachment. After five to seven days in the windrow they may be harvested with a regular combine with pickup attached. You need dirt screens and need to slow the cylinder speed.

Q. With yields of 1500 pounds per acre what kind of net are we looking at?
A. Cost of producing will run from $26 to $30 per acre. 1500 pounds at 6c per pound is $90 gross. Subtract a $28 cost and your per acre net is $62. This is a very realistic figure.

A Reminder of SENATOR TOWER'S SERVICE FOR YOU IN WASHINGTON

He sponsored six key bills on water resources, conversion of brackish water, desalination, and rural water systems. Five of the six already have become law and are benefiting you now. Of particular interest is a measure providing funds for research in water problems we face in this area.

He flatly rejected the contentions of some federal bureaucrats that farmers and ranchers are somehow responsible for the inflation really caused by federal deficit spending. He has fought hard against restricting or freezing farm prices.

He sponsored legislation making federal crop insurance available in high risk areas. He sponsored legislation to allow states to regulate recruitment of foreign agricultural workers needed to harvest crops.

He supported necessary subsidies to help offset the artificial economic conditions created by too much government in agriculture.

County 4-H Clubs Have Demonstration On Mouth To Mouth Resuscitation

Informing the public of the importance of knowing how to give mouth to mouth resuscitation was presented to all 4-H Community Clubs in the county last month.

Five years of experience and experimental tests have clearly proved that the mouth to mouth method is the most effective and efficient method to give artificial respiration. In cases of drowning, suffocation, smoke poisoning, carbon monoxide, electric shock, head injuries and drug overdose are reasons for giving the respiration.

4-H members who attended electric camp, sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Company this summer, learned this procedure and presented the demonstration to other members.

Those giving the demonstrations were Maclana May, Laura Wheeler, Kevin Britton, Clinton; John and Lyla Pitts, Pleasant Valley; Rodney Bowling, Sudan; and Vickie Cook and Terry Ogerty of Littlefield.

Preston Smith Speaks To Texas Farmers Union Monday

Littlefield--Farming and its allied industries have "revolutionized" in the past four decades despite increasing water problems, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith told nearly 300 persons at a special called meeting of District 2, Texas Farmers Union, here Monday night.

"Farming is becoming more and more of an efficient business than just a plow, plant, hope and pray enterprise such as most of us know in our younger days," Smith said, adding, "the fact that this can be accomplished in a section where the average rainfall is considerably less than the statewide average might strike outsiders as unusual."

The lieutenant governor, who himself was reared on Texas farms, observed that "the water problem in this area is different from that of most other sections of Texas because of our God-given resources of underground water."

"For years," he added, "People have argued the why's and wherefore's, the rights and wrongs, and the possibilities and impossibilities of conserving our water supply."

Smith said that High Plains counties have made more efficient and productive use of their water resources than almost any other area, "Especially those where the major portion of the annual rainfall is allowed to run off into the Gulf of Mexico without serving any purpose whatever."

"For at least the past 20 years the various administrations and legislatures have been struggling with what everyone agrees is a real problem. Everyone agrees that the state should help solve the problem, but almost no one agrees on how it should be done."

"I doubt that it is possible to arrive at a satisfactory statewide water law written in anything but the most general terms. The reason is that water resources, and therefore the problems of conservation and use, are so vastly different in the various sections of the state.

"Each area will have to be approached in the context of what it has and doesn't have. Further, the solution worked out for one must be one that doesn't interfere with the rights of another area," Smith told the crowd.

Noting that legal issues involved in individual water rights have plagued Texas courts and legislatures, Smith said that progress is being made in surface water storage, the conversion of salt water to domestic and industrial use at a reasonable cost, and in other areas.

But, he stated, conserving Texas water resources is a problem for all of us wherever we live because of the future of Texas is involved.

Several from Earth attended the meeting.

Award Contract to Pave FM Road 2901

The Kerr construction company of Lubbock was awarded the contract to pave the Farm to Market Road 2901 from FM 1055 to Highway 85, and to raise FM 1055 across the lake, two miles north of Earth.

The contract was let Wednesday morning at a cost of $182,000.

Construction should begin by November 11, when General Telephone has completed their job of relocating the telephone lines along the road.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
Surely blessing I will bless thee.—(Heb. 6:14)

Let us bless all that we have — our home, our work, our material possessions of every kind. Let us bless these things, realizing they represent our acceptance and use of God's substance. As we bless these outer expressions, our appreciative attitude quickens us to see even more of the good. If we are given a gift, if someone shares some good with us, let us remember to give our blessing for the gift and to the giver.

BURYING CABLE FOR GENERAL TELEPHONE ON FM Road 2901. This cable burying equipment slices through the soil, places its cable 36 inches deep, and covers all in one process.

Relocation of Telephone Cable On FMR 2901 Nears Completion

Alan Waldrop, District Manager for General Telephone Company announced this week that the company was relocating their facilities on Farm to Market Road 2901 to allow right of way for paving the road.

Facilities replaced include four and one half miles of buried cable at a cost of $13,305. The new buried cable is to be put into service, and the existing aerial wire removed by November 11 of this year.

Waldrop stated the relocation process was progressing at a fast pace and that all the cable had been placed, and approximately half of the required splicing was completed. "The relocation job will accomplish a three fold purpose, since it had to be moved anyway," Waldrop said. "The new cable will provide better service, and in addition, the new underground cable has enough facilities to reduce rural party lines in that area from a maximum of 8 to a line to a maximum of 4 to a line, when this project is done in Earth." Tentative date has been set for 1968.

Most of the new telephone cables being placed throughout the country are being buried, Waldrop said, as it is less affected by weather and provides more reliable service.

In appointing Mr. Clayton, Speaker Barnes commented: "I consider Mr. Clayton well qualified to aid the committee in arriving at a solution to

Joe Pattie Receives Promotion After Completing Basic

PT. BLISS--Joe D. Pattie, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell C. Pattie of Earth, received an early promotion to Army pay grade private E-2 on completion of basic combat training at Ft. Bliss on October 7.

He was awarded the promotion two months earlier than is customary because of his score in firing the M-14 rifle, high score on the physical combat proficiency test and his military bearing and leadership abilities. The early promotion program is an Army policy providing incentive for outstanding trainees. His wife, Sonja, lives in Amarillo.

LOGAN ARMSTRONG no. 22 is driven back after scoring a touchdown on a 1 yard plunge at the left side of the Bovina line. Jimmy Stockstill seems to be pleading with the referee on the play. Jimmy had set up the touchdown on a 53 yard pass from quarterback Doug Messer and was brought down on the one yard line. Action took place early in the second quarter with the Wolverines eventually winning 37-20.

Wolverines Drop Bovina Mustangs 37-20

The Springlake-Earth Wolverines fought off a determined and hard playing eleven from Bovina Friday night to register their second victory against no defeats in district play. The Mustangs, playing before a homecoming crowd kept the pressure on the Wolverines throughout the game.

Terry Parish, the flashy little halfback for the Wolverines put six points on the scoreboard early in the first quarter to get the Wolverines moving with a 2 yard blast up the middle. Jose Triana booted the extra point.

Three plays later Carl Harris, a junior fullback rolled out to left end and scampered 68 yards down the sideline for a Mustang tally and Dean Stanberry scampered around the right end for the 2 point conversion and the Mustangs took the lead 8-7.

In the second quarter, Logan Armstrong blasted over from the one yard line to put the Wolverines back in the lead, and the try for extra point by James Thomas failed.

Late in the second quarter, Doug Messer connected with Randy Washington on a 6 yard pass and a Wolverine TD. Doug Messer elected to go to the air for the extra point and spotted Terry Parish in the end zone, and politely hit him for 2 points. At halftime, the Wolverines had a 21-8 lead.

In the third stanza, Bovina came roaring back and scored quickly on a 34 yard scamper by Carl Harris. This time the try for extra point failed and Bovina narrowed the margin to 21-14.

The Wolverines let it be known that they were not going to be outdone, and politely encountered with a 28 yard pass from quarterback Doug Messer to fullback James Thomas for a touchdown. Keeping to the air, Messer connected with Randy Washington in the end zone for the 2 point conversion.

In the fourth stanza, the Wolverines kept to the air and Doug Messer connected with James Thomas on a beautiful 70 yard pass and run play down the sideline.

Again Messer connected with Randy Washington for two points and the Wolverines had a nice 37-14 lead.

Moments later, Dean Stanberry the flashy little halfback of Bovina found running room up the middle and ripped off 33 yards and the final TD for Bovina. The extra point by Randy James was no good.

The last five minutes of the game were played mostly by the second squad of the Wolverines with quarterback Steve Larkin returning to duty for the first time since a leg injury sidelined him early in the season. Another injured Wolverine, who saw a lot of action after being out for several weeks was guard David Jacques.

This week it will be show down time at Sudan when the Wolverines take on a highly regarded Hornet eleven who have not been beaten this year. So if you want to see a terrific battle, journey to Sudan Friday night and enjoy a good game.

PARTY LINE

Mrs. W. H. Parish returned home Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Higgins and Mrs. Edna Worley, from a four weeks visit with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Cannon of Picaayune, Mississippi.

lead as Jerry Been took a reverse for his second score of the night.

Royce Fischer scored East Central's final touchdown with 3:55 left in the game on a short burst off tackle. East Central coach, Elvan George, mixed up his backfield often. In addition to Fischer and Been, Quarterbacks John Stephenson and Floyd Lindsey played on offense as did Planner, Tom Gregory, James Bell, fullback Doc Burt and Dennis Nord, switching back to fullback after spending two seasons in the Tiger line.

East Central came out gambling. The Tigers passed on first down deep in their own territory, quarterback Floyd Lindsey to Jerry Been. The Tigers moved to the Panhandle 27 before fumbling. That was the only time the Tigers fumbled in the first half despite the altered lineup.

Later in the period, the Tigers took over on their own line, following a punt. They worked out slowly and gave Glendal Garrett plenty of room to punt. He sliced one off his foot, however, and Panhandle had good field position on the EC 44.

After an exchange of punts, Panhandle moved to the 27 where Scott Dunnam passed and Woody Hawkins intercepted. He returned it to the 42 but a clipping penalty moved the ball back to the 35 and gave EC a first and 25 situation.

This started EC's biggest drive of the opening half. Royce Fischer picked up 35 yards up the middle. Doc Burt gained five and a 15 yard penalty put the ball even closer to the Panhandle goal at the 15. EC got to the five, but could get no further, however, as the Panhandle defense held.

The Aggie offense undid the good work of the defense, however, as Julian Miller roamed back into his end zone fumbled and then fell on the ball to give EC a safety with 13:50 left in the half.

A free kick from the 20 didn't do the Aggies much good, EC got it at the hosts' 46 and moved back to the two on eight plays--the big ones being a 16-yard pass from Jon Stephenson to Burt and a 13-yard run by Stephenson.

But the rugged Aggie defense held again and Fischer was stopped short of a first down again at the two.

Panhandle moved out to the 19 before having to punt. EC took a fair catch at its own 49 and then marched 51 yards for its lone touchdown of the first half.

A 27-yard pass from Lindsey to Garrett gave the visitors a first down at the 25 but six plays later EC had apparently lost possession at the Panhandle 13 on downs. Stephenson had tried to hit Dewayne Matthews on a fourth down play and failed. An interference play at the six, however, gave EC an automatic first down.

Fischer gained two and then Been went over from the four on an inside reverse with 66 seconds left in the half. Doug Dodd converted and EC led 9-0 at intermission.

Truman Stine entered the South Plains Hospital in Amarillo Monday with tonsillitis. He is expected to remain there for treatment for several days.

J. D. McNeill is improving in the Methodist Hospital, Lubbock. He is expected to return home in the near future.

TERRY PARISH no. 21 scores the first touchdown for the Wolverines on a 2 yard dive over the left side, early in the first quarter in their game against the Bovina Mustangs.

James is a 173 pound senior fullback and does a terrific job on blocking and leading the way for other backs.

LINEMAN OF THE WEEK. Senior tackle, Tommy Barlow has been chosen for lineman of the week honor by the Wolverine coaching staff. Tommy plays offense and defense for the Wolverines and is a hard player to keep out of the opponents back field.
