Common Sense About Sale Buying

Have you bought "on sale" and later regretted it? Knowledge and planning helps that can save you a lot of money. Mrs. Doris Cox, Agricultural Extension home management specialist, suggested, "The most important thing in getting a bargain is to know what you are buying. Check the quality, advertising, store reputation, grades and just plain value. The more you know, the more you'll save your money."

Planning helps you to think ahead and spot attractive sales that fit into your budget, she said.

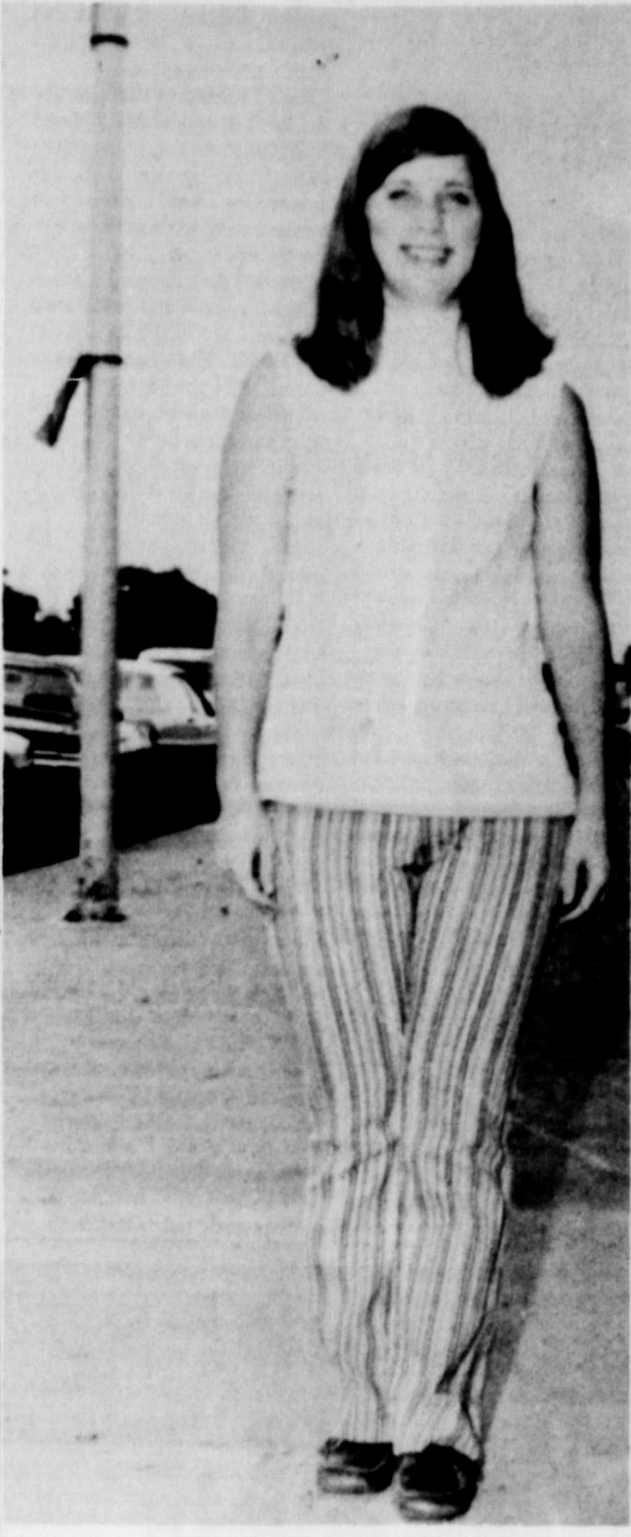

"Ask if the sales item meets a real need and will not upset your family spending plan."

According to the Texas A&M University specialist, planning also means carefully examining the item on sale as well as the market. Check the quality of the product and compare its cost with the price in other stores. Also practice pre-sale shopping to investigate regular price, quality and condition of items before they go on sale.

"Seasonal sales are worth watching," Mrs. Myers said. "Many shoppers save large amounts each year by timing their purchases according to the specials, which are usually scheduled just before new merchandise arrives."

She said that timing of sales varies, but July is usually the month to watch for spring and summer clothing bargains. July 4th specials and sporting goods offers. August often brings furniture and white goods sales, followed by back-to-school bargains.

Tips On Packing Car For Vacation

Have you ever wished for a Paul Bunyon to close your car trunk after you've crammed in all your luggage for a trip? Do you sometimes need a magical genie to find that one buried suitcase essential for an overnight stop?

As smaller cars with smaller trunks grow in popularity and even the trunk space in luxury cars dwindles, more and more car travelers are finding that it takes real skill to pack a car.

These tips on efficient car packing, which require neither brute strength nor magic, have been compiled by Mazda Motors of Texas, distributors of an economy-sized car powered by a four-cylinder engine.

It takes some preparation to include everything from large pieces of luggage to small overnight cases and still locate them quickly, Mazda notes.

First, Mazda suggests collecting all suitcases and odds and ends together near the trunk of the car. The largest pieces should then be placed flat on the floor of the trunk. This luggage should contain items that will not be needed until you reach your destination.

Next, smaller bags containing overnight necessities should be placed on top of these for easy accessibility. Clothes bags should be laid flat over the luggage toward the back of the trunk unless they can be hung inside the car without restricting comfort or vision.

Trucks, bicycles and other especially large and awkward objects are best placed on a rack attached to the roof and properly secured, Mazda suggests.

A handy place to store miscellaneous items is the glove compartment. Here Mazda recommends you include a medical kit, a flashlight, sunglasses, tissues, flares and maps. Another good place to store small items is the console between bucket seats, if your car is so equipped.

When traveling with small children, remember to take along a litter bag, snacks, thermos bottles, pillows and foil wrapped washclothes. A roomy handbag can hold some extras and will reduce clutter on car seats and in the glove compartment.

Mazda reminds travelers not to place loose objects along the ledge of the rear seat. These items can block the driver's rear vision, and in the event of a sudden stop may be thrown out and injure passengers.

By following these tips from Mazda Motors, drivers can simplify their packing and make their trips more relaxing by knowing in advance where things are located.

the delicious Guacamole Salad. The Mexican decor and atmosphere of this fine restaurant will put you in just the right mood for a dish with that "South of the Border" flavor. Service and good food are assured you at this excellent dining establishment. We commend the management upon the supremacy presented to the public here, and suggest that all our readers visit them regularly. Take your family, your friends, or business acquaintances to this fine restaurant for a real treat!

Vacations offered in connection with property selling are also popular schemes. An all-expense paid weekend in Florida is hard to pass up. The promoters assure there's no obligation to buy. They just want you to "take a look" at some newly developed land, which they'll sell at extremely low prices. Be careful! Your tour guides are really expert high pressure salesmen and may talk you into buying property you never wanted.

Another trick is gimmick advertising, which proves to be more misleading than actually fraudulent. Even legitimate agencies carry such pamphlets and brochures. For instance, you may see this headline: "$169 to Greece!" It sounds pretty good, but as you read on, you discover this price carries many stipulations: it includes only one-way fare, the flight leaves from Chicago, the offer is good only if you're 26 or younger, etc. If by any chance you're able to follow these limitations, it is really worth it to you?

Don't Be A Victim Of Phony Travel Promotions

To avoid being stranded at the airport, dockside, or train station, deal only with reputable travel agencies or group tour promoters. Be certain your contract for passage states that you can get refund of your money if the flight is cancelled for any reason. Make sure you understand exactly what the price covers and what it doesn't.

You can relax and enjoy your vacation if you've taken a little extra care planning it!

MRS. BRUCE BRIDGES
(nee Phyllis Smith)

Smith-Bridges United In Candlelight Ceremony

Miss Phyllis Ann Smith and Kenneth Bruce Bridges were united in marriage in a beautiful ceremony Saturday, July 1, at 8 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Springlake. Officiating the double ring ceremony was Rev. Glen Smith, pastor of the church, and father of the bride, Rev. David Hartman of Earth assisted him.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Glen Smith of Springlake. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. John Bridges of Earth.

The candlelight ceremony was performed before an altar enhanced by spiral candelabras holding yellow tapers and entwined in greenery. Baskets of lovely white gladiolas and palm leaves were located on each side of the candelabras. Other decorations included a small table covered in yellow and white satin with white tapers on each side of an elegantly flocked memory candle. Instrumental music was presented by pianist, Marian Dawson, as she played "Clair De Lune," "Theme from Summer of '42," "Theme from Romeo and Juliet," "More" and "Till." Wayne Anderson, vocalist, sang "Color My World" accompanied by Marian Dawson on the piano and Karen Dear on the flute. Mr. Anderson also sang, "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Miss Dawson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a colonial wedding gown of silk organza over peau de soie fashioned with natural waistline accented with a satin cummerbund designed in Venice lace. The sheer, full sleeves with cuffs of wide satin covered with matching Venice lace accented the softly gathered skirt, which was fashioned with a wide ruffle of the same fabric bordering the hemline of the beautiful gown. The bodice fell into a bell shape adding glamour to the design of the gown. The bride wore a fingertip length veil of silk illusion held in place with a Juliet Cap of Venice lace beautifully designed with leaves of lace clusters centered with tiny seed pearls. Her lovely bridal bouquet featured white daisies and yellow roses, also the two long stemmed red roses, which she presented to her mother as she walked down the aisle on the arm of her father. On the return trip up the aisle, on the arm of her new husband, she paused and presented the groom's mother a rose.

For the traditional something blue the bride wore a garter, and carried a small blue Bible in her bouquet. Something old was a lace handkerchief belonging to her paternal grandmother and a bracelet belonging to the groom's paternal grandmother. Her wedding dress served as something new, a diamond necklace belonging to a friend was something borrowed.

Serving as maid of honor was Karen Dear. Becky Smith served her sister as bridesmaid. The attendants wore long cotton dresses of white background with yellow and green embossed daisies. The empire waistline was enhanced by wide velveteen sashes and puffed sleeves. The portrait neckline was edged with a white eyelet ruffle. A matching eyelet ruffle enhanced the hemline of the skirt. Headpieces of velveteen bows, designed in the back with streamers of narrow ribbons tied in love knots completed their ensembles. They carried basket bouquets of white and yellow daisies entangled with yellow rose buds.

Barry Pittman of Earth served as best man and Mark Yazel from Oklahoma was a groomsman. The groom and his attendants were attired in western suits in their choice of colors and style.

Candlelighters were Sharman Smith, sister of the bride from Garland, and Karen Armstrong of Earth. They wore dresses identical to the bridesmaid.

Carmen Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Kelley, was the flower girl. She was attired in a dress styled identical to the attendants.

Marty Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlon Watson of Springlake, served as ring bearer. He wore a western suit of blue and white checks. A white western shirt with a black tie, brown western boots completed his outfit.

Ushering the guests were Brad Bridges, brother of the groom, Eddie Alair of Springlake, John Kelley and Donald Templeton, both of Earth.

Karen Smith, sister of the bride, registered the guests as they entered the church. The register table was covered with a white lace cloth trimmed with white bows and lilies of the valley at the corners. A small bouquet of fev-a-fue and gypsophila centered the table.

A reception in the fellowship hall followed the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth over white satin, designed and made by Mrs. L. G. Layman. The centerpiece was a large basket of white daisies trimmed with tiny yellow rose buds. This was the same centerpiece used for the rehearsal dinner the night before. A three-tiered chocolate wedding cake iced in white and topped with a bride and groom and white satin roses was served.

The cake was made by Mrs. Harlon Watson of Springlake. The brides chosen colors of yellow and green were carried out in roses and leaves on the cake. Lime green punch was served by Donna Dunnam of Earth and the cake was served by Sheila Lewis of Earth.

The bride's going away costume was a white lace dress of dacron and cotton laced with lime green ribbon. The dress was sleeveless with a high neckline and gathered skirt. A corsage lifted from the bridal bouquet completed the outfit.

After a wedding trip to Ruidoso, New Mexico, the couple will be at home near Springlake for the remainder of the summer. After August 20, the couple will live in Canyon and they will attend West Texas State University.

The bride and groom are 1972 graduates of Springlake-Earth High School.

Hayride Enjoyed

On Friday night, June 30, about 30 young people from the Methodist and Baptist Church assembled at the First Baptist Church at 8 p.m. for a hayride to White Elephant Sandhills just south of Plant X.

The group enjoyed roasted weiners and marshmallows, sand fights and singing around the fire. Methodist youth director, Kerry Hurst, concluded the evening with a short devotional. Upon returning to town the group was met by a bus, driven by Freddie Kelley and carried back to town. Luckily the bus arrived just before it began to rain. The trailer and hay for the ride was furnished by Earl Kellar.

There will also be a Hawaiian Luau for the youth Saturday night July 3. It begins at the Baptist Church with supper at 5:30. Around 7 or 7:30, everyone will meet at the city pool for an evening of swimming. There will be a contest for the person wearing the best suited Hawaiian costume. A swimming and diving contest will also be held. An admission of $1.00 per person will be required and everyone is urged to attend.

Also, the Earthquakes singing group will be meeting on Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Baptist Church. If you plan to participate, please be there Sunday.

New Flammability Standard Set For Children's Sleepwear

This fall may be the last season for fashion-designed children's sleepwear because of the new stiff flammability requirements, Miss Roxanne Schnorr, Texas Agricultural Extension clothing specialist, announced.

By August, 1972, all children's sleepwear, sizes 0-6X, must comply with the standard set for flame retardance or be tagged with a warning label reporting the failure to meet the requirements. After July, 1973, only children's sleepwear which passes the flammability tests can be marketed.

"Manufacturers claim that compliance is almost impossible technologically because the machinery and procedures don't presently exist," Miss Schnorr explained. Garment designs will be limited, and fabric textures and surfaces will be less fashionably desirable.

"Predictions say that few light-weight, cool and absorbent sleepwear will be marketed for hot weather, that durable-press blends will be unavailable, and that the garments will have a shorter service life."

According to the Texas A&M University specialist, the cost of manufacturing flame retardant sleepwear will be passed on to the consumer. Estimates range from $1 to $2 increase per sleepwear item.

"The glaring facts of injuries and deaths from fires involving fabrics have led to the creation of these stringent rules," Miss Schnorr pointed out. "Other than transportation accidents, fires and burns are the leading cause of death to children one to four years old, and a large proportion of these burns involve articles of wearing apparel and bedding."

She said that children's sleepwear fabrics and designs have been characterized by fluffy, loosely woven knitted fabrics with napped surfaces, all highly inductive to flame ignition.

"Medical authorities claim that burns involving clothing ignition are usually much more severe than other kinds of burns. They can have a lasting effect upon the child psychologically and socially, as well as physically."

The Department of Commerce is responsible for issuing flammability standards and for conducting related research, she noted. And with the aid of industrial research, technological developments and coordination of consumer awareness, there should be fewer injuries and deaths involving textile fabrics.

More Students To Get Sneak Preview Of Things To Come

More students than ever before will get sneak previews of college life and a head start on registration for the fall 1972 semester at Texas Tech University this summer.

The registrar's office at Tech this week had already confirmed more than 2,730 reservations for academic advisement, orientation and early registration conferences for new students scheduled to begin July 17.

According to Dr. William H. Duvall, assistant dean of students for programs, this total is approximately 34 per cent higher than that of just 2,051, recorded several days earlier in 1971.

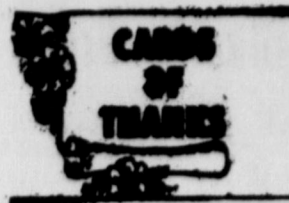

This will be the seventh year for the early registration conferences during the summer at Tech. Six separate two-day sessions have been scheduled with the first slated July 17-18. Other conference dates are July 20-21, July 24-25, July 27-28, July 31-Aug. 1, and Aug. 3-4.

Duvall said parents are invited to accompany their sons and daughters to the sessions, pointing out that the conferences "provide a golden opportunity for students to get their first meaningful college experiences and for parents to get a glimpse of contemporary college life."

Most students and parents spend two days and one night on campus for the registration and orientation. The night is spent in one of Tech's campus residence halls.

Invitations to participate in the program of early registration, orientation and academic advisement are extended to new students after they have completed all necessary procedures for gaining admission.

Muleshoe Child Killed In Wreck

A two-car head-on collision occurred June 29, around 3 p. m., about four miles east of Muleshoe on U. S. 70. Leonard Martinez, 10-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mateo Martinez, was fatally injured and seven other persons, all from Muleshoe, also were injured, two seriously.

Mrs. Mateo Martinez and son Leonard were passengers in a west-bound car being driven by Mrs. Olga Valero, also of Muleshoe, when it collided with a Buick, driven by Mrs. Eugene (Rita) Hawkins which was traveling east on Highway 70.

The Valero car was attempting a left turn across the highway at the YL crossroads when it was struck by the Hawkins car.

Riding in the Valero car were Mrs. Rose Martinez and two children, Leonard and Sam, three years old. In the other car were Mrs. Hawkins and her three children Keith, 11, Shelly, 9 and Sharla, 7.

All eight persons were taken to the West Plains Memorial Hospital by Singleton-Ellis ambulance and by law enforcement officials.

Mrs. Martinez was treated for extensive facial lacerations and for a badly mangled right foot. She was immediately transferred by the same ambulance to Methodist Hospital to try to save the foot from amputation. She has been reported to be in serious condition.

Leonard Martinez, her ten-month-old son, was also transferred with her, but died on the way of a severe skull fracture received when thrown from the car during the accident.

Mrs. Olga Valero was also treated for severe lacerations of the throat and head. Also an emergency tracheotomy was performed enabling her to breathe. She was later moved to Lubbock where she was last reported in serious condition.

Mrs. Hawkins was hospitalized in Muleshoe with a fractured nose, finger and various cuts and lacerations. Her condition is listed as satisfactory.

Sharla Hawkins was admitted to the hospital suffering from a concussion and multiple bruises on her face and arms. She was released Friday morning.

Mrs. Larry Price of Earth, who was traveling west was the only eye witness to the wreck. She tried to help comfort the children and keep the women from moving until the ambulance arrived. Mrs. Price also gave the highway patrol an account of what she saw happen.

Vitamin "E" IS Is More Popular Today

"Vitamin E has often been called the elusive, mysterious vitamin," said the Texas Agricultural Extension Service foods and nutrition specialist Sally Springer.

"The vitamin is very popular today. According to one report, sales of vitamin E surpassed those of vitamin C last year.

Vitamin E, according to the Texas A&M University employee, is an essential nutrient that naturally occurs in nature. It's a fat-soluble vitamin that's stored in the body, along with the other fat soluble vitamins A, D and K.

"Deficiencies of vitamin E are extremely rare in man," Miss Springer said. "Many scientists believe a deficiency of the vitamin doesn't occur naturally by itself, but only in combination with deficiencies of other vitamins."

Vitamin E acts as an antioxidant. In the body it prevents the lipid and fat parts of the cells from oxidation or degradation.

"Other possible functions and relationships may be equally important," Miss Springer said, "though until now they haven't been thoroughly researched and proved."

Thus there's little basis for claims that vitamin E is the answer to sterility and sexual impotence, disorders of pregnancy, rheumatic fever, heart disease and others.

Dietary sources of vitamin E include vegetable oils, green leafy vegetables, legumes, nuts, meats and eggs.

The specialist said that there's no evidence to support the belief that massive supplemental doses of vitamin E are necessary for the average healthy person.

Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Russell and Kandl visited her great grandmother in Turkey, Sunday. Mrs. Russell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Graves, will be visiting the Russells in their home later in the week before going home to Tyler.

Price Walks Tall

Larry Price of Earth participated in the July 4th parade held in downtown Amarillo Saturday morning, July 1.

Price, who is self employed, has been walking on stilts for almost eight years. He has been engaged in painting, specialty work, vinyl hanging, acoustical spraying and antiquing for about 20 years.

He walks on the stilts while he is textoning a high wall or ceiling or mudding a ceiling. Saturday was Price's first walk in the Amarillo parade. A year and a half ago he walked in another "Honor America" parade in Muleshoe as a giant Uncle Sam. Price originally created the outfit for the Muleshoe parade.

Price is 5'11" tall and the stilts are three feet in length. With the striped hat, he is about 10 feet.

He usually tapes the stilts to his legs in addition to fastening the buckles to his ankles. Larry Price has participated in our home town parade before and maybe we will see him again this year on July 13 for our rodeo parade.

1972 Is Critical Year For Cotton

With demands for cotton increasing and yields on the decline, 1972 will be a critical year for cotton, says Fred Elliott, cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The trend toward clothing that is colorful, casual, comfortable and carefree has brought about a resurgence in the demand for the cotton fiber," points out the Texas A&M University official. "Farm production must now be geared to meet this demand."

In conjunction with this increased need, a new campaign is under way to boost production. It is titled "Better Yields of Quality Cotton for Profit and Market Growth" and is a cooperative effort of the National Cotton Council, U.S. Department of Agriculture, State Agricultural Extension Services and Experiment Stations, and others.

"Cotton producers throughout Texas and the other Cotton Belt states must unite to provide mills with the type and amount of cotton that they need," emphasizes Elliott.

Texas production was down for the 1971 season with an average of 263 pounds of lint per acre. In 1970 the per acre yield was 315 pounds. Back in 1968, Texas cotton producers boasted an average yield of 410 pounds per acre. The Belt-wide average has declined from 516 pounds per acre in 1968 to only 438 pounds for last season.

"Unfavorable weather was the big culprit in the reduced cotton crop in Texas in 1971," explains the specialist. "The spring and summer seasons were extremely dry and then the wet fall hampered harvesting activities in many areas."

According to Elliott, the overall cotton supply situation is becoming short on all fronts. The national carryover for the 1971-72 season which ends July 31 is projected at 3.25 million bales. This is less than a four-month supply and the lowest in 20 years.

Regarding the special campaign to boost the production of quality cotton, the specialist notes that emphasis will be placed on higher yields to spread overhead costs and lower overall costs. The production of a quality product is also important in that it assures a higher price and a satisfied buyer.

A better yield this season can also increase a farmer's "yield for payment purposes" in 1973, adds Elliott. Furthermore, good yields testify to sound management and facilitate financing.

The stay-a-round pipe.

The first thing you're going to look for in aluminum pipe is durability. You don't want a pipe that splits, cracks, leaks, or gets out-of-round.

Here's what you're looking for: Gifford-Hill's flowline and gated aluminum irrigation pipe. The coupler is reinforced because our pipe is milled, coiled aluminum.

That's enough to tell you that we've eliminated most of your problems, but there's more.

We built in a permanent gasket groove, and made the coupler 18 inches long so that you have better lateral adjustment.

And just to make sure that everything's right, we test every joint. We test it for its ability to hold water. And we test it for its strength.

Gifford-Hill aluminum pipe stays around because it stays round.
