THINKS LITTLE DOROTHY ANN DISTELHURST BURIED ALIVE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 16.—District Attorney General J. Carlton Loser disclosed last night he was investigating the possibility that Little Dorothy Ann Distelhurst, kidnaped and slain, may have been buried alive and that her face was possibly disfigured with acid to prevent identification.

Loser said if the child was buried alive she probably was unconscious, for a medical examination of the body has shown that death was caused by two fractures of the skull, such as might have been inflicted by hammer blows. He said the theory was based on the fact that the body was forced

The second man was not identified.

This was the third time Hamilton has been reported seen in this vicinity in recent weeks. Cherokee County officers have been investigating reports that Hamilton has been hiding out in that county or near Picher in the Oklahoma mining field.

DIRECTOR TAKES INSULT DEFENSE CHARGE OF 'OH! PROFESSOR'

Business Girls' Club Sponsors Show Here Next Week

Members of the cast for the three-act musical comedy, "Oh! Professor," are rehearsing faithfully under the director, Miss Virginia Booth, of Atlanta, Ga., who is promoting the show.

The play is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club and will be presented at the high school auditorium Thursday and Friday nights of next week at 8 o'clock.

Besides an all star cast of popular people, the production features a children's chorus, a mixed chorus, two groups of regular dancing girls with different costumes will be especially entertaining, and the Butterfly chorus of prominent business men in organdie skirts and ruffles, alone, will meet all expectations.

"Oh! Professor," is a side-splitting comedy with music in just the right place. The Rita chorus is worthy of more than passing mention.

The scene of the play proper is the sun room of a fraternity. Miss Altha Tom Bridge will be in charge of tickets. They will be sold in advance at the following prices: Grammar school children, 10 cents, high school children, 15 cents, and adults, 25 cents.

Lindbergh May Be Called by Defense

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Nov. 16.—Lloyd Fisher, associate defense counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnap-slaying suspect, announced yesterday afternoon he will subpoena Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the slain infant, and Betty Gow, the child's nurse, as defense witnesses.

Lindbergh will be called, Fisher said, because he expressed the opinion at the hoax trial of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., ship-builder, that the kidnaping was the work of a gang and not of one man as the state now claims.

500 HEAR MRS. YATES AT 1ST SESSIONS

Interesting and Instructive Program Marks School

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning Beulah Mackay Yates, nationally recognized culinary expert, will open the last of three classes in the Happy Kitchen Cooking School at the Ritz Theatre, sponsored by The Memphis Democrat. More than 500 women have heard Mrs. Yates give helpful suggestions and demonstrations on the modern methods of conducting kitchen work, and a good attendance is expected tomorrow morning for the final class.

More than 200 women from all over the Memphis area attended this afternoon's class and were delightfully entertained for a two-hour session. Those who have attended the first classes Thursday and this afternoon have found that Mrs. Yates is presenting an entirely new and different type of cooking school this year. Her demonstrations have been more on the practical type of cooking but have included modern ways to "dress up" the common foods to make them more appetizing and appealing.

Changed Program An entire change in program and menu is being given at each class. This afternoon's program began at 2 o'clock, and presented a varied menu and a varied lecture program. The most interesting of her lectures to date was given this afternoon on the "primary and principle recipe for young and old brides." Tomorrow Mrs. Yates will give a very interesting and amusing talk on "The Care and Feeding of Husbands."

Mrs. Yates has conducted cooking schools and public demonstrations in all sections of the South for the past several years and comes to Memphis highly recommended as one of the best cooking experts in the state. She has a pleasing personality and the ability to make friends readily, and all of her classes are conducted in a fast-moving, business-like method.

Most Interesting "I am indeed proud of our Happy Kitchen School in Memphis and hope I can come back to your city often," she said this morning. "I have found the women of this section very friendly and very receptive to all my suggestions and menus," she said. The Saturday morning program bids fair to be the most interesting and helpful of the classes conducted in this city. In addition to the lecture on "The Care and Feeding of Husbands," she will

Bernie Dance 'Looks Like a Sell Out'

It looks like a sell out! That was the word received from Amarillo this morning in connection with Ben Bernie's dance at The Nat there Saturday night.

The tickets are $2.50 per person, $4 for stags including tax. Preceding the dance, Bernie will play a concert at the Amarillo city auditorium. The dance is from 10:30 o'clock tomorrow night until 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

CARLETON KENDRAKE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Blade, is found dead DAN BLEEKER, publisher, employs SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the murder. Morden had been investigating the affairs of Frank B. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent, following the arrest of an impostor claiming to be Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS. The day following Morden's death Cathay dies of poisoning. Griff learns Morden had visited the apartment of ALICE LORTON who has reported the disappearance of her roommate, ESTHER ORDWAY. Griff questions Alice and instructs detectives to shadow her.

Griff and Bleeker go to the apartment occupied by KENNETH BOONE, friend of Alice's. Alice is there. Griff tells Bleeker she is Cathay's daughter. He accuses the pair of killing Morden, and calls police headquarters. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXX

Sidney Griff emerged from the row of telephone booths and waited impatiently until Bleeker came from an adjoining booth. "Have you found out anything?" he asked.

Bleeker nodded, his face grimly purposeful.

"Racine," he said, "the detective has located the Malone woman—that is, we think it's the Malone woman, although she's not going under that name right at present. She's located at 922 East Elm and is going under the name of Blanche Stanway. Evidently Racine found out about her earlier in the day and kept his information under cover, because he went to the Palace hotel and waited there for 15 minutes. At the end of that time a woman joined him. From the description I gather that it's Mrs. Frank B. Cathay. Together, they went to call on Blanche Stanway. They're still there. As soon as the boys got a line on them they telephoned a report to the paper."

Sidney Griff frowned meditatively.

"We'll go there first," he said. "Detectives who are working for me have located Mary Briggs, the hitch-hiker. Naturally, she's important, but she's not as important as the Malone woman."

"Just who," asked Bleeker, "do you figure this Malone woman is?"

"That," Griff told him "is something that remains to be determined. So far, I am working in this case on a theory and only on a theory."

"But you think it's going to check out?"

"It is checking out," Griff said. "What's the theory?"

"In every case," Griff told him, "there's some key clew—something that points—some clue—all of the other clues—something that points directly to the motive for the crime and the manner of its execution, as well as identity of its perpetrator. The key clew in this case was the counterfeit crook."

"The counterfeit crook?" Bleeker asked. "Who do you mean?"

"The man who posed as the pick-pocket, who had Cathay's wallet, driving licenses and credentials."

"Why do you say he couldn't have been a crook?" Bleeker asked.

"Observe carefully," Griff told him. "I do not say the man is not a crook. I say that he was a counterfeit crook. In other words, he was posing as a pick-pocket and yet he was no pick-pocket, as even casual examination of the evidence would have shown."

"How do you mean?"

"He gave a very fair intimation of Cathay's signature at the police station. He gave a fairly accurate imitation of Cathay's signature when he registered at the hotel."

"He might have been a forger," Bleeker pointed out.

"Those things," Griff said, "take practice. But mark you, here is the most significant thing of all. He cashes a check at the hotel where he is registered under the name of Frank B. Cathay, and that check passed through the bank at Riverview. Moreover, he went to the hotel to keep an appointment with Harry Fanchard, an inventor. That appointment had been made in advance, on stationery which either came from Cathay's office in Riverview or else was printed with consummate care so as to duplicate such stationery. Moreover, that letter seems to have been signed by Cathay."

"Therefore, this pocket-picking was no casual lifting of a purse. It was a part of a carefully planned scheme, a scheme which would have worked to perfection if the man hadn't taken a couple of drinks. He was stopped for a minor ed liquor on his breath and found that his description checked with that of a man who had been holding up service stations. The officer took him to the station for examination."

"Now, notice carefully what happened next. This man who had taken such pains to assume the identity of Frank B. Cathay now took equal pains to deny that identity. Only when he was surprised into betraying it by a check-up on the same under which he had rented the automobile, did he admit the name of Cathay. Yet, as was shown by subsequent developments, he had only to proclaim himself as Cathay to bring about his immediate release."

"But look here," Bleeker demanded "you don't have any doubt that Kenneth Boone and the girl, between them, were the ones who killed Morden, do you?"

"As to that," Griff said, "we are going to make some interesting and I think some rather startling discoveries. Come, let's see if we can't get to 922 East Elm street before the conference breaks up. It may be a conference that is worthy of attention."

Much puzzled, Bleeker followed the criminologist to a taxicab. "Remember," he said, when the cab was swaying through the streets, making speed toward the destination where the detective and the widow of the Riverview financier had been located, "that I'm running a newspaper. I'm a man of action. I don't go in for a lot of refined theories; I go in for action. The faster the action, the better I like it. I'm inclined to go ahead and do what I want to first and check up on the mistakes afterwards. I find that I can get to a destination quicker by moving around and doing things than I can by sitting down and waiting for things to happen. Morden was a newspaper man. He was a god one. He had a knowledge of crime and of criminals which he had obtained by first-hand observation. He was murdered. I want to prosecute those murderers. You've got the newspaper standing squarely behind you."

Griff nodded thoughtfully. "I understand all that," he said "and further, I understand that Morden was a good reporter. He knew his criminals—knew them very well, indeed."

"Not quite well enough," Bleeker said grimly.

Griff's retort was significant. "Perhaps too well," he said.

They rode for a minute or two in silence and then Griff said sadly, "It will be one of my great regrets that in solving this case there is one thing which we shall probably never discover."

"What is that?" Bleeker inquired.

"That is whether Morden merely blundered upon the discovery which led to his death, or whether he figured it out by a process of reasoning that was at least brilliant."

"He was not a brilliant man," Bleeker said. "He was a daring man and he was resourceful, but he was not brilliant."

Griff closed his eyes. Slowly he shook his head from side to side. "I am not certain," he said. "At times I feel that he must have been brilliant. It is, perhaps, something we shall never discover."

"What are you referring to?" Bleeker asked. "The location of Esther Ordway?"

"Not that," Griff said. "Do you think that he knew she was Cathay's daughter?"

"As to that, we cannot say, but I am inclined to think he did not," Griff said. "The evidence all points to the fact that he was trailing Cathay, trying to find out what Cathay was doing on that Monday night. He had no luck with the hotels or, perhaps, he simply disregarded the hotels and concentrated his search upon the garages. It is a good point, one that I shall remember."

"How," asked Bleeker, "did you know that she was Cathay's daughter?"

"I didn't know," Griff said. "I watched her lips when she spoke. I knew that she was nervous and that she was lying. I knew, also, that her lies were not the swift extemporaneous lies of one who has been unexpectedly cornered, but that they had been carefully rehearsed. They were lies which were not impregnable, but they had been given to her to use for the purpose of delaying investigation until a certain thing could be accomplished."

"And that certain thing?" asked Bleeker.

Griff shrugged his shoulders. "It may already have been accomplished," he said. "Who can tell?"

"Don't you think you're all wet on that business?" Bleeker insisted. "Morden wasn't such a brainy man. He was resourceful. He thought of trying to trace Cathay through his car. He found the garage. In some way, from the apartment house and someone in the apartment house gave him the information that he wanted. He, therefore, thought this young woman was merely a woman in the case, a person whose name might be linked with that of Cathay."

"He went to see her; she was out. He rode around, investigating other clews for an hour or so, and then returned. She was in. He talked with her. Kenneth Boone came in. Boone has a jealous disposition. He is hot-headed an impulsive. We knew he tried to throw Morden out. Morden would have taken a great deal of throwing out. There was a struggle. Boone lost his head and hit Morden over the head with the gun. That's all there was to it."

Griff did not argue the point.

I do not know if they have realized it, but the designers of aluminum ware have constructed aluminum vessels along the best lines of beauty. It has a distinctiveness all its own in the matter of design. I suppose that it is because of the nature in which it is made.

At any rate, one finds a great and pleasing variety of designs, both in relation to utility and beauty in aluminum. I just can't say it looks like silverware, nor like pewter ware, not antique brass or copper, for it doesn't. It looks just like aluminum ware! It actually seems to have been the inspiration for distinctive design all its own.

Speaking aesthetically, I am charmed always with the sound—or rather the lack of it—that comes from the handling of aluminum pots and pans. Nothing so grates the nerves as the clatter and bang of pots and pans. But with aluminum ware it is different. Not that it does not have a sound at all, but the sound is so soft that I really appreciate it for that quiet as much as for its other properties.

Happy Kitchen Chats

It seems a long time since huge copper kettles were used to brew rich broths and heavy stews. We favored these heavy vessels because they permitted the contents to cook slowly and thoroughly and the possibility of burning was reduced to a minimum. But, oh! what a back-breaking job it was to wash heavy kettles afterwards!

That is the first reason for the introduction of aluminum in cooking. Even though it is light in weight, it keeps the contents cooking slowly and thoroughly quite as well as the old iron or copper kettles, and is easy to handle, easy to keep clean, and it always looks like new.

Frankly, I do not know why it can of preserves.

Another practical material point in favor of aluminum is its durability. They do not seem to dent or bend readily, and they are kept always bright and shining with a very little effort. Their utter lack of semineas, nice round edges with no sharp tearing corners on which to cut hands, and their general appearance—and lightness—makes

K C is economical. Because of its high leavening strength only 1 level teaspoonful to a cup of flour is sufficient for most recipes.

It is a time-saver. That's due to the double action. One action in the mix and the second, a stronger action, in the oven. You can prepare dough for biscuits, muffins, etc., hours in advance, set in a cool place and bake when desired. No need for hurry when using K C.

demonstrate a mixed grill menu. Included in tomorrow's menu is a recipe for an entirely new and different type of meat dish, known as the Texas Rice Delight.

Mrs. Yates will also prepare a Swiss steak and an asparagus salad on tomorrow's menu. Her dessert for the day will be a refrigerator ice cream that does not have the "icy" taste so often found in automatic refrigerator creams.

Tomorrow's Program

Today's menu particularly appealed to the housewife who likes to serve every-day foods in a more appetizing manner. The meat on today's menu was prime rib roast, prepared with an old style Kentucky stuffing. Mrs. Yates secured the stuffing recipe while conducting the Happy Kitchen school in Kentucky recently. A Devil's Food cake with soft chocolate filling peach gelatin dessert pork and apple salad and jelly rolls completed today's menu.

Today's and yesterday's schools have been held at 2 o'clock, while tomorrow's program is to be given at the 10 o'clock hour. Mrs. Yates has promised a quick, snappy program for in the morning, giving the ladies attending plenty of time to get back to their homes to prepare meals before the noon hour. All classes are being held at the Ritz theatre, where Mrs. Yates has prepared an attractive stage-setting featuring the finest and most modern of kitchen equipment. Each item is thoroughly explained in the course of her program.

17 Bills Signed By Mrs. Ferguson

AUSTIN, Nov. 1.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson yesterday signed 17 bills passed by the fourth special session of the Forty-Third Legislature.

They included a bill providing a permanent tax plan under which discounts would be allowed to encourage prompt payment of taxes and penalties for delinquencies would be reduced. The plan will not be effective until 1935.

The governor signed the bills enabling the lower Neches Valley authority to borrow funds from the PWA, appropriating $15,000 out of the boxing and wrestling fund for supervision of those sports and appropriating $1,400 to pay deficiency claims of the state banking department. None will be effective for ninety days, having failed to receive two-thirds majorities in both Houses on final passage.

There is no record of the adoption of any tongue as the national language of this country. REVIEWS OF CURRENT MOTION PICTURES

PALACE

Opening today at the Palace Theatre, the western thriller "Bring 'em in Dead" unfolds the old west in the days when Jesse James, the Dalton boys, the Doolins and Billy the Kid were spreading terror throughout the Southwest. Many of the old-timers in Memphis will recall when these desperadoes were in the public eye as much then as the present day notorious gangsters, like the late Floyd and Dillinger.

Boris Karloff heads the cast in the western thriller, which also includes Cal Reynolds, Walter Miller, Mary Carr and Dorothy Sebastian.

An unusual lobby display has been set up at the Palace in connection with the picture of southwestern "bad men". Nine life-size wax figures and a collection of old time guns and relics are also included. The figures are of Jesse James, Buford, Cole Younger, Pancho Villa, Henry Starr, Billy the Kid, Wild Bill Hickock and the Dalton boys.

Another interesting feature included in the lobby display is the famous hand-carved saddle used by Pancho Villa in his raids on the Mexican border.

"Bring 'em Back Dead" is showing today and Saturday only in Memphis.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Potts spent Tuesday in Amarillo on business.

Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Alexander returned Wednesday from a visit with Mrs. Alexander's parents at Hereford. They took their niece, Martha Cayton, who will go from Hereford to her home at Texhoma. She has spent several months with Mr. and Mrs. Alexander.

Homer Mulkey of Clarendon was a Memphis visitor yesterday.

"The Captain Hates the Sea"—that's the title of the picture showing for the last times today at the Ritz, featuring an unusual combination of outstanding screen actors. The cast is made up of Victor McLaglen, John Gilbert, Allison Skipworth, Wynne Gibson and others.

The title has no bearing whatsoever on the picture because "the captain doesn't hate the sea—he loves it". But maybe the title is in keeping with the unusual type of comedy that makes the picture so unusually different. The story is from the popular Wallace Smith novel and presents a mixture of intrigue, mix-ups, romance and surprises. You won't

Cooking Schools use and recommend ADMIRATION COFFEE

Housewives, hostesses, students of cookery, will have a treat for several days this week, if they attend the sessions of the School of Cookery, conducted under the auspices of this newspaper.

As times get better and better, you will want to know what foods contain the highest food value, and how to prepare them so as to get the real value for the money you pay for them.

Among beverages, coffee still holds the place of America's favorite drink. Among coffees, Admiration is still the choice of most people in Texas, because, "it tastes better."

GROCERY ANAGRAM

Amusing-And-Profitable! 10 Big Free Prizes

HANDY ENTRY BLANK

In the blank space below I have rearranged the letters in the anagrams to spell the names of the grocery items which I think to be the solution of today's game. The ones checked with a cross mark thus X are advertised in today's Democrat.

- | ANAGRAM | SOLUTION |
|---------------|--------------------------|
| 1. ROPHOPSCK | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 2. IMAYESANON | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 3. BUCRECMUS | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 4. WASHUC | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 5. GAPRASSUA | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 6. TIMMANCEE | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 7. SNODMAL | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 8. IPTONSIEM | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 9. RECLEY | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 10. GIRLNAGEE | <input type="checkbox"/> |

I have used all of today's anagram solutions in the following sentence of not more than 30 words:

My Name _____

I buy my groceries at _____

If awarded a prize, I want my order drawn on the store checked below:

(Place cross mark after name of store you want your order drawn on.)

City Grocery () Crawford Grocery ()
Chitwood's Market () 'M' System ()
Memphis Grocery Co. ()

FREE! Basket of Groceries

The Memphis Democrat Will Award

And 10 tickets to the Ritz Theatre to see Joan and Clark Gable in "CHAINED" Sunday and Monday.

IT'S EASY! SIMPLY 'UNSCRAMBLE' ACCOMPANYING WELL KNOWN GROCERY ITEMS

Then Make A Sentence of Not More Than 30 Words Containing All of the Items in Today's List of Anagrams!

IT'S NOT HARD!—JUST TRY IT

RULES:

- The letters in each of the accompanying ten anagrams when arranged properly will spell the names of ten well-known food and grocery items. You are invited to solve the anagrams, then arrange them in a sentence of not more than 30 words (you may use less if you wish), and try for one of the ten prizes.
- To the persons who send in the best entries in accordance with these rules, The Democrat will give a free basket of groceries and ten tickets to the Ritz Theatre. The basket of groceries will be offered as first prize, two tickets to the Ritz as second prize, and one ticket each to the next eight contestants.
- This offer is open to all except employees of The Democrat and their families. You pay nothing.
- Awards will be made on the basis of the most nearly correct list of anagrams and the cleverest sentence. Simply rearrange the letters in each anagram to spell the name of a food or grocery item. Then check the food and grocery ads in today's Democrat and place a cross mark in the square if you find the item and the item is NOT advertised.
- Then arrange the letters in each anagram of not more than 30 words (you may use less if you wish), and try for one of the ten prizes.
- All entries will be sent to a committee appointed by the Democrat. Contestants agree to the terms of the committee's decision. Words inserted, accepted or not, are final. Entries received after the time submitted will not be considered.
- All entries must be sent to the Democrat office by 5 p. m. of the day afternoon.
- You need not solve all the anagrams to compete. Simply submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. Winners will be selected by a drawing in today's Democrat.

GAME called 8 o'clock tonight, Fair Park stadium. FINAL conference tilt in section, deciding sectional championship; last night game of season for Cyclone. ADMISSION 25 and 50 cents. OFFICIALS: Referee, Byrd (Centenary); umpire, Gillam (West Texas); headlinesman, Pennick (West Texas).

With both teams hampered by injuries, the game promises to offer close enough competition for the Cyclone to make things interesting for nearly an hour of actual battling.

Defeated twice in sectional competition, the Panthers claim a fair ball club, nevertheless, and one that has made things interesting for such a club as the Wellington Skyrockets, although defeated 33 to 6.

Big Weight Advantage
Quitaque holds a weight advantage over the patched-up Cyclone team of seven pounds to the man. The club, however, seems to be lacking the seasoned players that tend to make such an outfit a championship contender. After a full season of play, the club should be about "due."

Line-up Changes
The patched-up Cyclone line-up places McAbee, regular guard, at left tackle in place of the 164-pound Cecil Grimes, who is out with a broken hand, and Eudy, another guard, at right tackle in place of Sanders, who tops the scale to 185 pounds. Malone, a 132-pounder, again starts at left end in place of lanky Ross Springer. Malone will play opposite Cap-

'Fan' and Writer Differ on Memphis and Quitaque Score

Dear Sports Editor:
Now who would have thought it; we both missed on the Memphis-Clarendon game. But we could have done lots worse; for instance, if the Cyclone had really given them the works the score would have been about 70 to 0, then we would have missed something awful.

You mentioned that the Broncos should have scored when they reached the one-yard line. Maybe so but I say they shouldn't have ever reached that line in the first place. That Cyclone team, especially the forward wall, did not put up near the fight they did against Wellington. If they had they would have stopped Clarendon cold. Guess they realized they didn't need to.

Now I'm not booting them for letting up because they had a walk-over, but I bet they admit at least to themselves that they didn't give their best. I think everyone enjoyed the Memphis-Clarendon game, mostly for revenge, and too, everyone admires those Bronco lads for being game and putting up a hard fight even though they knew they didn't have a chance.

Now, Pal, where do we get this stuff about an over-confident team. Of course the Cyclone boys are not over-confident. They are too smart and too good a ball club to get that way about it. Those fellows all know that they will have a real battle when they meet Matador, which seems now to be the team they will play for district honors.

The Cyclone will beat Matador, and maybe go farther than that. I really think so but I don't know anything about the team they meet after that so won't say about that game. Here is the reason that Cyclone team is going on up and over the hill this season. It is the last year in good old Mem-

One Year Ago Today—The New York Rangers defeated the Detroit Red Wings in the opening game of the National Hockey League at Madison Square Garden. Score—2-1.

Five Years Ago Today—Notre Dame defeated Southern California, 13-12, before a record throng of 120,000 in Chicago.

SON IS BORN TO REV. MRS. NORMAN D. DYER

Word was received this morning from Dallas, announcing the arrival of a 7 1/2 pound son to Rev. and Mrs. Norman D. Dyer of this city at 8 o'clock this morning.

Mother and child were reported doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Drake and daughter, Jimma, and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Crawford went to Lubbock this morning to attend the football game, played between Texas Tech and De Paul university of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford will visit their son, C. W., Jr., who is a student at Tech.

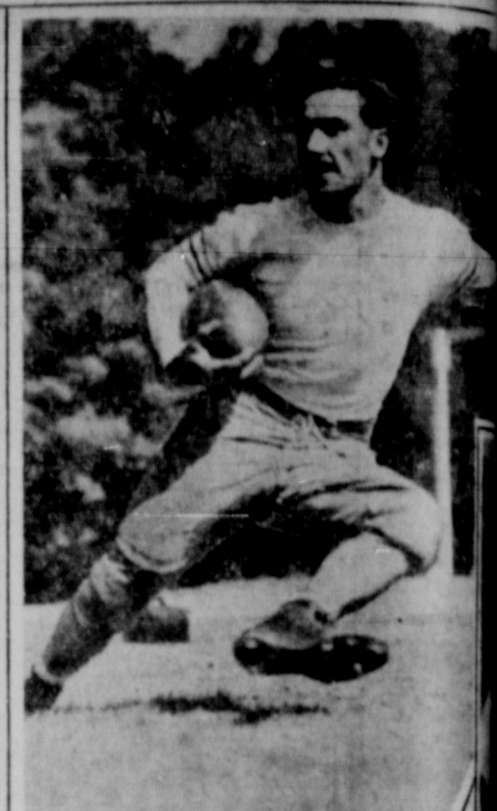

of the race with a club he has already defeated and by a team that holds the bottom position in the league would be more than any mentor could accept gracefully.

Coach Walker announced this morning that tonight's game will close the night season for the Cyclone. If the club is victorious tonight, it goes into the district battle Thanksgiving Day and perhaps on into intra-district competition. But regardless of the site of future contests they will be played in the afternoon, Walker stated.

Sectional Tilts in National Grid Spot Today

There'll be a lot of turf torn up this Saturday when the two flying backs in action above get going—and then rattling tackles made when the two fellows in insets bring down their men. Running at left is Jay Berwanger, Chicago, Minnesota will keep plenty of men after him at Minneapolis. In action at left is Mike Nicksick, Pitt halfback, on who stars Oregon will have to face at Los Angeles. Inset at right is Julie Besos, Southern California captain and end, who is one of the Georgia Tech at Atlanta.

By JOCK SUTHERLAND
Head Coach, University of Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 16.—Late November football gives us few inter-sectional battles, but to make up for this lack, there are plenty of outstanding sectional games. The east leads in this respect, Nov. 17, with our own game against Navy at Annapolis as one of the headliners.

Here is a game that is a toss-up. We beat Navy last fall, and would be favored to repeat. But circumstances this year are not ordinary. The Middies have been playing the most sensational football in the east, and my scouts tell me their aerial game is to be greatly feared.

Our power attack will have to score frequently to beat Navy—and Buzz Borries.

Another game worthy of attention is the Syracuse-Colgate fray. Both teams are unbeaten by eastern foes and both have great attacks. I think Colgate will be a little too fast handling the ball for the Orangemen.

In other eastern frays, Princeton, of course, must be favored over Yale. Duquesne should take Carnegie Tech, Columbia should have an easy time with Penn, and Holy Cross may be expected to overpower Brown. The one inter-sectional game in the east should be a corker. It brings together Purdue and Fordham at New York. The contest is a tough one to pick, and it is my hunch that the breaks will decide it—and perhaps in favor of the Boilermakers.

There is little cause for alarm among the leaders in the south. Alabama will have no trouble in handing Georgia Tech another defeat. Tulane and Louisiana State should have comparatively easy hurdlers in Kentucky and Mississippi State respectively.

In other southern games, Duke and North Carolina meet in a game that will be the closest in years, but one in which the Blue Devils must be given the edge. Tennessee is a decided favorite to win over Vanderbilt.

The middle west's big game will be between Minnesota and Chicago. The Maroons seem to be the last formidable opposition left in the path of the Gophers, but they hardly can muster enough defensive strength to keep Minnesota at bay. However, their offense will be the best Bierman's team has faced in the Big Ten.

Other games in this section have decided favorites. Notre Dame will be too powerful for Northwestern; Michigan State should beat Detroit; Illinois will outrun Wisconsin, and Ohio State should take Michigan. Indiana and Maryland meet in an inter-sectional struggle, and the Hoosiers must be given the edge, due to superior man power.

In the Missouri Valley, Nebraska will annex an important conference victory by defeating Kansas, Oklahoma will keep pace with Iowa State in the battle for runner-up honors by whipping Kansas State, and Iowa State will win easily over Drake.

Interesting Southwestern Conference battles will bring together Arkansas and Southern Methodist—and this one is in for Ray

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

WILLIAM FERGUSON

The GORILLA
MIGHT BE THE HEAD OF THE ANIMAL KINGDOM, WERE IT NOT FOR MAN.

IN SPITE OF HIS NEARNESS TO THE HUMAN RACE, HE IS THE LEAST KNOWN AND UNDERSTOOD OF ALL THE LARGE ANIMALS/ HIS HOME IS IN THE VOLCANIC MOUNTAINS OF CENTRAL AFRICA.

GORILLAS, FROM THEIR EARLIEST DISCOVERY, HAVE BEEN REGARDED AS FEROCIOUS MAN-KILLERS/ AS A MATTER OF FACT THEY TRY TO AVOID COMBATS WITH HUMAN BEINGS, BUT WHEN FORCED, THEY LIVE UP TO THEIR REPUTATION. AN UNARMED MAN IS NO MATCH FOR THESE 400-POUND "MEN OF THE WOODS."

THE NORMAL WALKING ATTITUDE OF THE GORILLA IS NOT ERECT, BUT ON ALL FOURS. HIS FOOD CONSISTS MAINLY OF BARK WHICH HE PULS THROUGH HIS TEETH, THUS STRIPPING THE BARK FROM THE TOUGH, WOODY STEMS.

The GIBBON, A SMALL APE OF INDIA, IS MORE HUMAN, IN POSTURE, THAN THE GORILLA.

WHILE THE FEMALE GORILLAS SLEEP AT NIGHT TREES, THE MALE REMAINS ON GUARD.

Yeah?

Thanks, mister. You don't know what this is gonna mean to aviation!

Here are more, want?

Then I dreamed that I cut the tubes up just like this... and pieced them together with rubber cement!

But what's that got to do with aviation?

You'll see! I dreamed that it made flying safe for everyone! And I have a hunch that dreams come true!

Then I dreamed that I put the rubber suit on, and pumped it up with air... and after that, I got a lot of kids to see the test!

THE NUT BROS
CHES & WAL
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

By Gene Ahern

LUKE WARM, WHO MAKES ONE-WAY ASPHALT FOR ONE-WAY STREETS

AUNT HAZEL NUT SAYS UNCLE FILBERT IS GETTING VERY QUEER - THE BRISTLES ARE COMING OUT OF HIS HAIR BRUSH, AND HE'S TREATING IT WITH A SCALP TONIC!

HE WALKED AROUND, THINKING HE WAS STOOPED OVER FROM LUMBAGO, BUT LATER FOUND OUT HIS CANE WAS WORN DOWN!

HE SAYS CORN PLASTERS ARE THE BUNK - HE'S SWALLOWED DOZENS OF 'EM AND NEVER GOT RELIEF!

I STOPPED IN ONE DAY, WHEN HE WAS GOING AROUND BALANCING A HEADACHE TABLET ON HIS BALD SPOT!

IT NEVER FAILS TO HAPPEN

THE ONLY MORNING IN 5 YEARS, AND THE TIME THE BOSS CAME

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

By Ahern

HECK, UNCLE AMOS, I WISH WE HAD A BIG BACKYARD, INSTEAD OF A LITTLE COOPED UP PLACE LIKE THIS!

YES, ALVIN, IT IS A PITY! - NEXT DEAL THAT I PUT OVER, I'LL BUY AN ESTATE OUT IN THE COUNTRY, WITH ACREAGE FOR YOU TO ROMP OVER!

AH, LAD, I WISH THAT YOU COULD HAVE PLAYED IN MY ANCESTRAL HOME, HOOPLE MANOR, LOCATED AT TWANKLY HEDGES, IN KENT - A 2200-ACRE ESTATE! FANCY, NOW!

EGAD, WHAT A SIGHT, ON OUR ESTATE, TO WATCH THE RED-COATED HUNSMEN RIDING TO HOUNDS, HAW-

AND, DURING PARTRIDGE SEASON, I USED TO HAVE LORD TYNDHEM AND OTHER TITLED GUESTS, UP TO HOOPLE MANOR FOR THE SHOOTS!

GOSH, I WISH I COULD GO TO HOOPLE MANOR SOME TIME!

AYE, LAD, AND THAT YOU WILL AS SOON AS I SELL MY CUBAN SUGAR PLANTATION!

AND NOW, GENTLE READER, WE WILL BOARD A MENTAL AIR-LINER AND LAND IN SMUDGE-ON-STOKES, AND PROCEED, BY FOOT, TO HOOPLE MANOR, THE FIRST ABODE TO THE RIGHT
